Khrushchev Steps Into Congo Crisis

In Attempt To Force U.N. Out

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev Saturday stepped into the Soviet campaign to force the United Nations out of the Congo and demanded that African nations solve the crisis alone.

The essence of his plan, rejected by the U. N. Security Council earlier last week, is to have African states with U. N. forces in the Congo bring them home and then form a conciliation commission to deal with the Congo's warring factions. Thus they would try to make peace without military forces to back up their decisions.

In addition, he suggested that the commission be instructed in advance to deal with the Communist-backed rebel regime in Stanleyville as the Congo's legal government because it is headed by political heirs of the slain ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba.

Using the killing of Lumumba as a wedge to renew his attack on Dag Hammarskjoid, Khrushchev charged the U. N. secretary-general was to blame because "whoever held the knife or revolver is after all but the sole murderer."

Most of his fire was directed at Hammarskjold for allowing Lumumba to fall into the hands of authorities in Katanga, at the Belgians for failing to get out of the Congo and continuing to support Katanga President Moise Tshombe and at Tshombe as "the hangman" of Lumumba and the "puppet" of Belgium.

"All this wrecks the trust of the peoples in the United Nations," he said.

Khrushchev's platform was a letter to Prime Minister Nehru of India, dated Wednesday and handed to correspondents Saturday morning at the front door of the Soviet Foreign Ministry.

The note was also distributed to government chiefs in Asia, Africa, Europe and Latin America but no mention was made of sending it to the United States.

The United States lined up with representatives of Asia and Africa in the council this week to approve a resolution calling for U. N. forces to use force if necessary to bring peace in the Congo. The Soviet Union abstained.

The United States was spared direct criticism in Khrushchev's letter but the premier appeared to be alluding to recent statements by President Kennedy. Kennedy, in the context of voicing support for the United Nations as a boon to small nations, warned that the United States could defend its own interests as a major power.

Without mentioning Kennedy's name, Khrushchev referred to Theodore Roosevelt's "imperialist" policy of speaking softly but carrying a big stick.

"It is not without purpose that some statesmen in the West even now are developing the theme of the big stick in their public pronouncements," the premier said.

Khrushchev renewed his demand, first made during his visit to the U.N. General Assembly last fall, that Hammarskjold be replaced by a three-man board with representatives from the Communist, neutralist and Western nations.

Khrushchev told Nehru that the "legitimate government" is the Lumumbist regime of Antoine Gizenga at Stanleyville. This puts the Soviet leader in direct personal opposition to President Kennedy who last week proclaimed full support for the administration of President Joseph Kasavubu at Leopoldville.

Khrushchev's latest move was read here as ruling out any compromise Congo solution any time soon.

As one authority summed it up against the background of recent Communist declarations of intent to take over in the underdeveloped countries: "It now seems safe to say that the battle for Africa is joined."

Under such circumstances Kennedy, it was understood, intends to pursue as well as he is able his declared purpose of trying to improve relations with the Soviet Union, to cooperate where possible and to avoid name-calling in public statements.

Nevertheless, the hopeful atmosphere which dominated Kennedy's first days in office a month ago is giving way to a return of grimness and foreboding.

The White House announced the Harriman mission but did not go into detail in disclosing what he would talk about or what prompted the President to send him at this particular time.

Harriman holds the position of ambassador - at - large. He was available for a special trip to Moscow to talk with Khrushchev, but Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk thought it better to entrust that task at this stage to the regular envoy, Llewellyn Thompson.

Move To Tighten NATO Unity: Send Harriman To Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — In his first direct move to tighten NATO unity, President Kennedy Saturday assigned roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman to tour Western Europe at once and confer with the chief Allied leaders.

The action comes at a time of steadily increasing tensions in the relationship between the United States and the Soviet Union. It also coincides with some irritations between this country and Britain, particularly over the Kennedy administration's new approach to African problems.

The Congo crisis and African problems generally — as well as U.S.-Allied differences over Laos — are sure to figure extensively in Harriman's talks. He will leave Sunday to see British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, French President Charles de Gaulle, German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Premier Amintore Fanfani of Italy.

The Congo crisis took an ominous turn Saturday, in the view of U.S. officials, when it was disclosed that Soviet Premier Khrushchev has strongly committed his personal prestige to the support of the pro-Communist rebel government.

Khrushchev made this clear in a letter to India's Prime Minister Nehru, sent Wednesday and released Saturday in Moscow.

DIPLOMAT'S DIRTY DUDS IN PORTFOLIO, BRITAINS SHOCKED

LONDON (AP)—Is it proper to use a diplomatic pouch as a laundry bag?

The British Foreign Office, just a little embarrassed, is considering the question, and it inclines to the view that Her Majesty's diplomatic pouch is for deep secrets, not for dirty shirts.

Suspicion that the diplomatic pouch is being used to deliver laundry from the Soviet Union to Britain and vice versa was aroused when the manager of a Bournemouth laundry disclosed that one of his customers is a naval officer attached to the British Embassy in Moscow.

The laundry man, William Bowden, sends the clean wash to the Foreign Office. From there, he understands, it travels in the diplomatic bag, into which no policeman or spy may snoop.

At the Foreign Office, a spokesman explained that laundries in Moscow don't cope very well with the boiled shirts diplomats wear, and that the Soviets are hopeless when it comes to a stiff collar.

So, to maintain the fastidious standards expected of Her Majesty's envoys, some of them send their washing home.

"But if, in fact, the diplomatic pouch has been used for such a purpose it is quite unauthorized, and we are looking into the matter," said the Foreign Office spokesman, in a rather stiff-collar fashion.

U.S. REP. MUMMA DIES AT BETHESDA HOSPITAL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Walter M. Mumma, R-Pa., died Saturday in Bethesda Naval Hospital. He was 70.

Mumma, whose home was in Harrisburg, suffered a stroke Thursday.

He was serving his sixth term as representative of Pennsylvania's 16th Congressional District.

A colleague, Rep. George A. Goodling, R-Pa., found Mumma in his apartment Thursday morning. Mumma had not attended a breakfast of Pennsylvania congressmen and Goodling went to look for him.

Report Many Cuban Insurgents Defected From Castro Regime

HAVANA (AP) — Insurgents in increasing numbers are active in Oriente Province's mountains but most—if not all-appear to be defectors from Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime rather than arrivals from abroad.

Qualified observers who toured Oriente, Cuba's easternmost province, reported Saturday they found no direct confirmation of reports widely circulated in Cuba of "landings" by rebels in several areas of eastern Cuba.

But the observers reported they learned reliably that up to 600 opposition men had fled into the hills between Baracoa on the northern coast and Guantanamo on the southern coast to fight the Castro regime.

A survey lasting several days failed to produce a single direct confirmation of reported landings in the Baracoa area or in the La Plata-Pilon region on the southern coast. Landings in these areas have been widely rumored since early February.

But the survey did produce proof in the form of conversations with relatives of rebels and Cuban officials that there is steadily increasing insurgent activity in Oriente which may in time grow into an opposition "second front."

The observers confirmed that considerable numbers of Castro militiamen and troops have been dispatched into the area midway between Baracoa and Guantanamo because of insurgent activity.

The government maintained silence on progress of its "clean-

Castro Pickets Demonstrate At White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 600 pro-Castro pickets staged a mass demonstration in a downpour in front of the White House Saturday, protesting this country's Cuba policy.

About 60 Washington policemen, reinforced by Secret Service agents and extra White House police, kept the sign-carrying, flag-waving marchers moving briskly, three or four abreast.

Extra precautions against violence were taken because a group of around 30 anti-Castro Cubans showed up to picket the picketers.

Deputy Police Chief George R. Wallrodt forbade the anti-Castro group coming closer than a block from the White House. They carried their signs on the sidewalk near the U.S. Treasury.

Wallrodt ordered pedestrian traffic detoured away from the White House side of Pennsylvania Avenue where the major body of demonstrators paraded in the rain.

The pro-Castro marchers were organized by the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. With headquarters in New York. This group is now being looked into by the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

Many of the demonstrators arrived by bus and auto from New York, Philadelphia, Newark and Hoboken, N.J.

Several carried signs identifying themselves with Castro's "July 26 Movement" and "Avance" a youth group sympathetic to the Castro cause.

State Lawmakers Will Weigh Kerner Tax Plans This Week

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Whether Illinois lawmakers will balk at Gov. Otto Kerner's tax proposals may be tested this week by the penny cigarette tax.

Another measure of the tax 'boiling point" of lawmakers may come when a revenue study and a proposed amendment of the Constitution's revenue article are taken up.

The House Revenue Committee has reserved its Tuesday meeting for weighing of a one cent tax on each pack of cigarettes. It was proposed by Rep. George Dunne of Chicago the Democratic floor leader. Kerner is a Democrat.

Dunne's bill provides receipts from the cigarette tax will go into the General Revenue Fund after the tax yields whatever is needed to pay off late Korean bonus claims. With a penny added, the Illinois tax on a pack of cigarettes would be four cents.

Kerner's tax program faces its biggest hurdle in the Senate where Republicans are in the majority. In the past the Senate has been the least receptive of the two Houses to corporation taxes and bills to broaden the sales tax, both current proposals of Kerner's.

In a recent debate on the bonus deficit and the cigarette tax, Senate GOP spokesman opposed what they called patchwork attacks on state revenue problems.

One of them objected to the cigarette tax saying: "Let's not put on this permanent tax in the guise of a Korean bonus payment."

Two Democratic legislators now have at passage stage in the Senate a bill to pay off any remaining Korean bonus payments. The bill would have the effect of reinstating the one cent cigarette tax until the bonus payments are completed. The penny tax had been dropped because it was thought all claims had been received.

Receipts from a penny a pack tax are estimated at $25 millions a biennium.

In the House Executive Committee, two revenue measures represent a fundamental difference in opinion about timing of large scale attacks on Illinois' fiscal ills.

One is a bill to set up a study commission with 15 members and $50,000 to report in two years about what should be done to change the Constitution.

The other would submit a constitutional amendment at the general election next year. It would allow lawmakers to classify property for taxation and give them broad power for the "levy of such taxes as may be needed."

The pressing nature of money problems during the rest of this biennium will be accented in the House this week.

Quick Senate passage last week of $67.5 million deficiency appropriation to tide over the Illinois Public Aid Commission until July 31 brought the bill before representatives. They responded by setting a special committee of the whole meeting next Tuesday.

Kerner has asked and is expected to get quick final action to shore up IPAC resources. Forecasts are they will be exhausted by Wednesday or Thursday.

Rescuers Battle Snow To Reach Bomber Wreckage

HURLEY, Wis. (AP)—A medical rescue team on snowshoes battled through northern Wisconsin's snowy wilderness Saturday to reach the wreckage of a Strategic Air Command B47 bomber that crashed in flames Friday night.

At Forbes Air Force Base, Topeka, Kan., where the plane was based, a spokesman said two unidentified bodies, believed to be two of the four-man crew, were found in the vicinity of Ironwood, Mich., just across the line from Hurley.

The Forbes spokesman said the information came from the Sawyer Air Force Base near Duluth, Minn. The crew apparently had received a bail-out order.

Aerial observers, who spotted the downed jet Saturday morning, saw smoke rising from the debris and a parachute spread out on the snow nearby.

"We haven't heard anything about survivors," said Iron County Deputy Sheriff John Vardo. "We expect to hear soon but it may take longer than we think because the snow is pretty deep and the terrain is tough."

The location of the wreckage, spotted about 10 a.m., is in a desolate area about nine miles southwest of here—22 miles over drifted roads.

The rescue team consisted of 16 Air Force members, mostly medics, who started the last mile and one-half of their trek on snowshoes.

The Air Force identified the four men aboard the plane as: Capt. James P. Jarrett, aircraft commander, from Topeka, Kan.; 1st Lt. Theodore H. Stalmach, Miami, Fla., the navigator; 1st Lt. Charles F. Weise of San Francisco, the pilot, and 1st Lt. Gary H. Hamby of Topeka.

Alabama Rivers Go On Rampage

Prepare For Worst Flood In Years

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Central Alabama prepared for perhaps its worst flooding in 40 years Saturday as rivers continued to rise after a week of steady rain.

The rain had stopped in most of Alabama, and the Weather Bureau said there was little chance of any more, at least through Sunday.

But immediate relief for stricken areas of Alabama was not in sight.

Temperatures plunged from the balmy readings of the past week to subfreezing in some areas of north Alabama and Mississippi. light snow began to fall. None of it stuck, but the runoff added to the swollen rivers.

The Coosa, Tallapoosa and Alabama rivers continued their rampage.

Up north, a snowstorm staggered Indiana. Eight inches or more of snow, and drifts up to five feet, clogged streets and roads in the central section of the state.

"Even our snowplows are getting stuck," a state police official reported.

He said all main roads radiating from Indianapolis were closed or closing.

Snow mounds ranged up to five feet on U. S. Highway 24 between Peru and Wabash in northern Indiana.

Indiana state police advised motorists against all but emergency trips—at a time when thousands of fans were floundering toward 64 high school basketball tournaments. Some games were canceled.

Thousands of acres of property, many miles of roads, and hundreds of homes were inundated in central Alabama.

The Alabama Power Co. said all reservoirs at the company's dams on the river system north of Montgomery are filled and overflowing.

Flood gates at six dams have been opened, but the company said this would make little difference on the amount of water flowing southward. The flood gates control the water surface at the top of the dams.

Before the rain slackened, a final deluge added to the flooding, with rainfall exceeding seven inches reported at numerous Southern areas.

Major Rail Disaster Averted: 3 Units Fall Into Swirling Water

MILSTEAD, Ala. (AP) — A major rail disaster was averted early Saturday when automatic brakes halted passenger and freight cars only feet from a floodswept ravine where two engines and a baggage car plunged.

The engineer and the fireman escaped with injuries as the diesel locomotives and baggage car of the Southern Railway's Piedmont Limited fell into the swirling torrent in a remote area near Milstead.

Only one of the 40-odd passengers required first aid. Others were shaken slightly by the sudden stop.

The New York-to-New Orleans train, already delayed more than two hours by high water, driving rain and strong wind, was traveling less than 20 miles an hour when the tracks collapsed.

At a faster speed, said an official of the Western Railway of Alabama, even the automatic braking might not have kept the other cars from following the first three units into the 40-foot hole.

The swift current submerged the second engine, covered part of the baggage car and left less than 10 feet of the lead unit above water. Only the first locomotive was occupied.

There, inching deeper into the muddy bottom every minute, engineer J. W. Smith lay trapped with a broken leg about four hours before rescuers reached the isolated wreck scene.

Emerging as the hero of the ordeal was his Negro fireman, Jack Vinson, 68. Despite injuries, he managed to get out of the water - surrounded cab, crawl up the crumbling bank of the ravine, trek two miles through rainswept terrain and summon help.

Vinson, suffering cuts and bruises, was described in good condition at a hospital in Montgomery 25 miles west of Milstead. The condition of Smith, hospitalized with possible internal injuries besides the broken leg, had not been determined.

First man to get to Smith, 71, was Charles Moore, 29, chief photographer for the Montgomery Advertiser and Alabama Journal.

The cameraman made the perilous descent holding onto a rope fashioned from bedsheets taken from ambulance stretchers. Minutes later several highway patrolmen and others made their way down the bank to help.

The passengers spent the night in their cars. They had lights but no heat.

Manhattan Police Continue Search For Missing Girl

NEW YORK (AP)—All night long the two special telephones rang, and then into the day.

Through the streets of lower Manhattan a truck moved, with a loudspeaker booming out a repeated appeal for help from anyone.

Hundreds of police knocked on doors, pried into dark corners with searchlights, scoured rooftops, descended into sewers, searched basements, checked buildings apartment by apartment, combed vacant lots and empty structures, questioned cabbies, shopowners and pedestrians.

It was all part of a feverish but painstaking search to find, not a desperate criminal menacing the lives of citizens, but a bright-eyed pretty girl of four.

Seldom has there been such a mobilization of the vast manpower and resources of the New York Police Department. But finding a missing child is of highest impor-

BULLETIN

HOUSTON (AP) — A Braniff Airways Boeing 707 jet passenger plane crashed at the Houston International Airport Saturday night. First reports indicated there were no serious injuries.

The airport control tower said the plane had landing gear trouble which caused it to skid off the right side of the runway as it landed. The plane tilted over and did not burn.

The tower operator said the plane was arriving from Dallas with an undetermined number of passengers.

Sheridan's Calm; Grumbling Heard In Background

SHERIDAN, Ill. (AP) — Calm ruled the Sheridan State Training School Saturday but grumbling rumbled in the background.

"Things are calming down nicely," said Acting Supt. A. M. Monahan.

About 130 inmates of the maximum security institution for tough young lawbreakers remained locked in their cells to prevent disorders.

"I hope we can let them out of the cells Monday," Monahan told a reporter.

Monahan was transferred from his post as head of the Illinois State Training School near St. Charles following Clarence Farber's dismissal Monday as superintendent at Sheridan.

Two guards quit their jobs after viewing conditions for a few days after Farber's removal. One of them, Clarence Wooten, 28, told newsmen:

"There's no discipline left in the place. The inmates do as they please."

Wooten said fighting among inmates reached an unprecedented pitch shortly after Monahan took over, and continued until the participants were locked in their cells.

"I think Farber is a wonderful man," Wooten said. "He got a raw deal."

Marvin Shuey, 25, a guard who quit Thursday, said he didn't want to discuss the situation in detail. But he did say he thought the boys "have been pampered" since Farber left.

Farber was ousted from his superintendent's job after a six months investigation of conditions at Sheridan by Paul Terrill, chief investigator for the Illinois Youth Commission, which runs Sheridan.

Census Takers Discover Four Incorporated Ghost Towns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Census Bureau said Saturday it has turned up four incorporated ghost towns in the United States.

The agency said that when census takers made their rounds last April, they found no one living in Torino, Ill.; Peacock, Tex., and Eureka and Ophir, Colo.

In typical cases, the bureau said, such ghost towns are created because a mine shuts down or a temporary industry like a sawmill moves to a new location.

TORINO, Ill. (AP) — The U.S. census bureau reported Saturday that Torino is a ghost town. There was no one in Torino to worry about it. Its life span was 1903-1957.

Torino became a village officially in 1903. It died officially in 1957 when Illinois adopted a law dissolving charters of communities with fewer than 50 inhabitants.

In 1950, the census counted nine souls.

Today, Torino, in the extreme southwest corner of Will County, has no surviving building that is habitable. The only structure standing—and that is tottering — is one which housed a grocery in days of yore.

The first settler, Dominic Buffo, arrived from Italy in the late 19th Century and named his farm for his native city, Torino.

At the turn of the century, the Wilmington Coal Mining and Manufacturing Co. sank a shaft mine and began working a deep coal vein close to Buffo's farm, and a community sprouted and bloomed.

Torino boasted 500 residents when its charter was approved, and reached its peak about 1905.

In 1907, when mine work had begun to slacken a bit, a fire broke out at night in the mine when no one was in the pit. There were no casualties, but the shaft was destroyed.

The company never reopened the mine. Several years passed, and the village dwindled; but until the 1920s there was always a fairly sizable community of miners and their families. The men commuted to other coal mines in the area for work.

Shaft mining exhausted the deep coal seams about that time, and decay set in.

At the height of the community's vigor, it was the scene of many hotly-contested baseball and soccer matches. And in 1911, came Torino's red letter day in sports history: That was when they played the 80-inning baseball game, believed the longest ever waged. It began at 9 o'clock in the morning and was finally called because of darkness—a tie.

Torino was one of the teams. The name of the other became lost in time.

The university at Salerno in the ninth century, when it was known as a school of medicine, is said to be the first European university.

Robbery And Fire Take Toll In Manchester

MANCHESTER— The weekend started off badly at Manchester, Thursday night thieves entered the Holland Pool Room, the break'n not being discovered until late Friday because the business does not operate until evenings. Friday night fire destroyed a shed on the Morgan farm at the edge of town.

Entry at the Pool Room, operated in conjunction with a grocery store by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnson, on the north side of the Manchester square, occurred Thursday night. The pool room adjoins the grocery store but is separated by a steel barred door which the intruders either were unable to or did not attempt to break through.

When the Johnsons opened up their pool room Friday evening they discovered a pinball machine and the juke box damaged where thieves had taken money from the coin boxes.

Scott county sheriff Lloyd Martin, Winchester, is investigating. The robbery at Manchester follows a pattern set recently by break-ins in the area.

Fire Friday Night

The Roodhouse fire department and volunteers from Manchester successfully brought under control flames that destroyed a shed on the property occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Milton Morgan on the north side of Manchester. They kept the fire from consuming the barn attached to the shed. The Morgan home was also in danger for a while.

The shed contained corn and hay and implements were housed in the barn. The fire occurred at 7 p.m.

MOLINE GUESTS

Mrs. Mary Stentumois and A. D. Oak of Moline were guests Friday at the Carl Peterson home, 1043 North Main street.

House spiders seldom bite unless disturbed and only a few kinds, such as the black widow, have a dangerous bite.

Andrew Jackson's statue, in Lafayette Park, Washington, D. C., erected in 1853, probably is the oldest equestrian statue in U. S.

PENTHOUSE FOR BIRDS

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — There's a pigeon penthouse atop the modern Boston Store in downtown Springfield.

Louis B. Margolis, executive manager of the store, says he understands the birdhouse was specified in the sales agreement between the store and Second Presbyterian Church when the church sold the lot 40 years ago.

But Henry P. Quentin, assistant manager in 1921, says it was a matter of sympathy; the pigeons lived in the church belfry.

However, while the birdhouse remains, it has been vacant for many years. Apparently the elevator in a shaft just below it makes too much noise.

AN OPEN LETTER FROM
CRIT HANELINE, REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR
IN THE PRIMARY ELECTION TUES., FEB. 28, 1961

There are many unsolved problems facing the next City Council. Most of these have been with us for some time and for various reasons have not been solved. The unnecessary loss of many of our shade trees, the unreasonable cost of city services, the differences between the Mayor and his Aldermen and the plain lack in some areas of adequate city services constitutes some of these problems.

Perhaps the most important unsolved problem facing we citizens is that of the industrial waste flowing into our South Side sewer disposal plant. This problem has been working a hardship on all of the residents in the southeast part of town for three years. No action has been taken to abate this condition other than various meeting from which only vague references to causes and vague suggestions of solutions of the odors have been offered.

I called attention to this matter in an open letter published in our Jacksonville Journal and Courier starting Sunday, Feb. 19. I do not claim that this letter brought about any results. However on Monday night, Feb. 20, the Mayor brought the matter before the City Council in its regular meeting. He stated that there would be a meeting held soon to discuss the sewer plant problem. This meeting was held on Wednesday, Feb. 23 and was attended by all of the people involved.

The meeting was reported by the Illinois State Journal of Springfield, Ill., in part as follows:

Discuss Sewage Disposal Problem

February 24, 1961

JACKSONVILLE — The sewage disposal plant here is operating under such a heavy load, and its efficiency so drastically impaired, the City Council authorized an emergency meeting of its Sewer Committee, sanitation experts, and a representative of the State Dept. of Health.

Also attending the Wednesday night meeting were representatives of Anderson Clayton Co. Industrial waste from that company is reported a prime cause of sewage disposal inefficiency.

Attending from Anderson-Clayton were Sam Pack, superintendent of the plant, H. E. Seestrom and the company attorney, William L. Fay.

Pack told the conference "it is the company's intention to abide by the contract by which the city handles waste products. The company asked that it be furnished with the survey that had been made of the sewage disposal problem.

Dr. William Hatfield, sanitation engineer of Decatur, who has been checking the efficiency of the plant periodically for many months, has suggested two alternatives for improving sewage disposal: alimination of the industrial grease and fats at the source, or enlargement of the present disposal plant.

The plant operates efficiently with a load comparable to a population equivalent of 38,000. The load a year ago was that of a population of 69,000. In August 1960 the load represented a population equivalent of 71,000. Average recent load is that of a population of 44,000.

Another survey by Caldwell and Rhoads, engineers of Jacksonville, further reported that grease from the industrial source so clogs the sewer line, periodic cleaning must be undertaken.

One of the candidates for Mayor on the Republican primary ballot is employed in an executive capacity by Anderson Clayton Co. (Mrs. Tucker). I fail to see how a man, no matter how much he tries, can negotiate a matter of this kind and be fair to both his employers and the people he would represent as Mayor of this city. Anything short of an abatement of the discharge of this grease into the disposal plant will result in either a sewer tax or a sewer fee so that the plant can be enlarged to handle this grease.

The south side sewer plant was designed to handle normal sewerage for a population of 35,000 people. The plant handles all sewerage south of East and West State streets including the Jacksonville State Hospital and the Village of South Jacksonville. It will no doubt be a good many years before the population of this side of Jacksonville will reach the 35,000 mark. It seems to me unfair we should be called on to enlarge our present adequate plant to accommodate the apparently unnecessary discharge of one industry's greases. Doubtless this part of their sewerage can be handled by them in a manner that would not be too expensive to their company.

This problem was one of the reasons I decided to enter the race for the office of Mayor. If you feel I understand this problem and if you feel that I am sincere when I state that I will do my best to solve it without undue hardship on Mrs. Tucker and that I will move into it as soon as possible then cast your vote for me in the primary this coming Tuesday.

Sincerely,
CRIT HANELINE.

Probe Space Age Secrets At MacMurray College March 3-5

A future Astronaut discusses space exploration with a rocket expert. Jeff Rider, 6-year-old son of MacMurray College's Director of Development John R. Rider, with Dr. Willy Ley. Dr. Ley, a world-renowned authority and consultant on rocket development, yet manages to make the science fascinating to youngsters; he was consultant on TV programs "Space Cadet" and Disney's "Tomorrowland."

Dr. Willy Ley, right, world famed space scientist, here talks with Dr. Bruce Campbell, Associate Professor of Chemistry at MacMurray College. Ley visited science classes, lunched with faculty, and talked with students during his day-long visit at MacMurray Thursday. He addressed the student body in convocation Thursday evening on the subject "The Conquest of Space."

Five national leaders of the legal, theological, and psychological fields will meet at MacMurray for the conference, to examine the total implications of the exploration of space for society.

Top Experts Will Lead Exploration

A two week emphasis on space at MacMurray College will climax next weekend as two hundred college and university students and faculty converge on campus for the social implications of the Space Age.

Professionals in the fields of law, theology, psychology, and science will direct the conference, jointly sponsored by the Illinois State Methodist Student Movement and MacMurray College.

The unique conference, pioneering the study of the social aspects of the space age; has received the congratulations and support of national officials and agencies concerned with space, including vice-president Lyndon B. Johnson, Senator Clifford P. Case, former United States UN chief, Henry Cabot Lodge, and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The NASA is providing the conference an exhibit which will give an "insight into our area of work and tools available to the space research scientist."

Lead off speaker for the conference will be Dr. C. Leplie Kanatzer, chairman of MacMurray's biology department and immediate past president of the Illinois Academy of Science. He will give a factual discussion of the scientific background and develloppment of the exploration of space.

Harvey Potthoff, professor of theology at the Illif School of Theology in Denver, will discuss means of broadening Christian theology preparatory to space exploration and possible contact with theologies of other races "out there."

Psychological preparaton for space pioneers and for earthlings facing these vast new horizons will be discussed by S. B. Sells, psychologist at Texas Christian University.

Clark M. Eichelberger, Executive Director of the American Association for the United Nations, will present to the conference the legal problemsy of interplanatar exploration, and Francis Heisler, a well known California attorney and member of the Civil Liberties Union, will examine the problem of keeping peace in space.

Anyone from the Jacksonville area may attend any or all sessions of the conference by purchasing a $2.00 observer badge from the MacMurray public relations office in advance, or at the door the days of the conference.

Dr. Willy Ley Opens Space Age Conference

The United States will orbit its first astronaut by the end of this year, predicts Willy Ley, famed expert in rocket development and space exploration.

This first astronaut, Dr. Ley told MacMurray College students Thursday, will spend four hours in space, circle the earth three times at an altitude of 200 miles, and re-enter the atmosphere to land in the Atlantic Ocean about 200-300 miles east of Cuba.

Dr. Ley's appearance at MacMurray College was preliminary to the upcoming Methodist Student Space Age Conference, March 3-5, at which 200 students from colleges and universities in Illinois will meet to explore the scientific, legal, theological, and psychological phases of space exploration, led by professionals in the various fields.

Other predictions made by Ley, one of the world's foremost consultants on space science, were; the first manned "space platform" will beorbited, the first manned flight around the moon will be made, and, if economically pracal, two hour space hops to any point on earth can be made, all by 1966; in 1968 the first atomic rocket ships will be operational; and by 1975 man will first land on Mars.

Commenting on the widely publicized "missile gap," Ley said that the gap between the United States and Russia is not in missiles but in rocket load carrying capacity. "The United States probably has more missiles today than does Russia," Ley declared, "but it will take us about two years to develop the rocket power that they have operational now."

He explained that the power demonstrated by USSR's recent shot at Venus is enough for nearly any space probe, and is capable of orbiting a satellite thirty-five times as large as Echo, the United States' recent communications balloon.

Ley stated that with its present lead, Russia would very likely win the race to the moon, although the United States is slowly closing the gap between the two nations.

Commenting on the lighter side of space travel, Ley predicted that space travelers will have to obey traffic laws, but theirs will not be a "Sunday driver's problem."

"There quite possibly will be a need for an international agreement on the equivalent of traffic lanes in space." Dr. Ley told MacMurray College students. "But the area out there is so enormous, the possibility of collision is small."

In Dr. Ley's thinking, it would seem that an international agreement on traffic will be necessary for, he said. "It is quite certain that somewhere in our galaxy there are other intelligent beings, and not just one race of them but a very large number of races."

Saucer-sighters to the contrary, this space specialist stated, "There is no evidence that any one of them has ever come close to earth for as long as man has been intelligent."

According to this space authority, a woman should be the first Astronaut. His reason for this belief is because "A smaller body works better under stress and strain." But, equally important in his opinion, is "the established fact that a woman can withstand boredom and monotony better than a man."

While developing much of his lectures to the history, present situation, and future of rockets and manned space-vehicles, Dr. Ley also stressed the benefits already derived from rocket research. He spoke of the highly durable kitchen glassware that has resulted from development of rocket nose-cones. The need for equipment condensation, he pointed out, has put on the market smaller radios and hearing aids. Circling satellites have proved of great benefit in weather forecasting and communications.

The larger effect, he said, was in the tapping of knowledge about space.

"Generally speaking, he said, was in the tapping of knowledge about space.

"Generally speaking, men go out in quest of knowledge, and knowledge always proves useful sooner or later and very often in unexpected places," he said.

Dr. Ley, German-born rocket pioneer, was a wartime consultant to the United States on rocket technology. Wehner von Braun, head of the Army's rocket project in Huntsville, Alabama, credits Ley with being his first tutor in rocket research. His vast technical knowledge has reached the general public through his work as consultant on TV programs "Space Cadet and Disney's "Tomorrowland."

Gets Reward For Delivering First 'Valentine'

Dr. John E. Brasel, resident doctor of Wesley Hospital, Chicago, was called on an emergency by the Chicago Maternity Center on the evening of Feb. 13, and at 12:24 a.m. Feb. 14, delivered an 8 pound baby boy to Ronald Wilkerson, 21, and his wife Florence, 18, at their apartment, 8213 S. PRACTICE JUMP

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Police Judge DeWitt Rowland says he found his first parachute jump like "stepping out of a bathtub . . . except for the landing."

Rowland, 60 years old and a pilot since 1928, made the jump from 2,500 feet "for practice," in case of an emergency.

He landed with a bump and roll to the cheers of younger friends in the Rainier Parachute Club.

Heart Campaign Gets Underway In Calhoun Co.

HARDIN—Community chairmen for the 1961 Calhoun County Heart Fund drive have been named by Mrs. Raphael Snyders, county fund chairman, and the canvass has already begun in some of the rural sections of the county. The drive will reach its peak in the residential areas Sunday, the day which has been designated Heart Sunday throughout the country.

Mrs. Snyders has appointed the following community chairmen to organize the fund drive in the various parts of the county: Brussels, Miss Olive Navarre; Gilead, Mrs. Oliver Simon; Hamburg, Mrs. Leo Clendenny; Kampsville, Mrs. Loren Oberjohann; Meppen, Mrs. Nancy Klaas; Mozier, Mrs. Bill B. Clendenny; Batchtown, Mrs. Dulcena Funk; Belleview, Mrs. Allie Suhling; and Hardin, Mrs. Paul Aderton.

The county chairman has explained that the program has an educational side as well as a financial one. The volunteers will leave at each home a leaflet providing important facts to help protect the family against heart disease. The pamphlet will explain the control of rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart disease, give suggestions for suspected high blood pressure, and give new assurances concerning strokes and invalidism. It will also tell how to get further information on the progress being made against the heart diseases.

The second part of the program is the Heart Sunday envelope in which each family can seal its Heart Fund contribution. Where a family is not at home, an envelope will be left at the door, and a contribution can be mailed to the treasurer of the Calhoun County Heart Association, Mrs. Orville Johnes, at the Bank of Calhoun County in Hardin.

MacMurray Trustees Study Re-Organization Proposals

MacMurray College trustees in their first midyear meeting agreed to study a proposal to increase the number of trustees and to organize the board into three functional areas, academic, business, and development.

The Horace A. Shonle Memorial Chair of Chemistry was established in recognition of the gift of $100,000 by the Shonle family. Mrs. Shonle is a member of the board of trustees.

Other discussion centered on further development of an academic blueprint, changes in the college curriculum, and the need for additional classroom facilities. The board unanimously reaffirmed the liberal arts dimension of the college and counselled the administration and the faculty to study and implement this dimension. It also reaffirmed a coordinate fashion for the college in which the women's and men's colleges function with a single faculty and administration.

The trustees heard reports from the dean of the college, W. S. Dysinger; the business manager, E. C. Smith; and the president, Gordon E. Michalson.

A special feature of the midyear meeting was an open forum, at which faculty and staff members joined the board in discussing the academic blueprint and the future plant needs of the college.

Two new members of the board of trustees were elected to membership, Dr. Carl O. Tongberg, executive vice president of Esso Research and Engineering Company and a prominent Methodist layman, and Dr. Henry B. Pflager, prominent St. Louis attorney and civic leader.

Plan Concert Performance For MacMurray Band Today

The MacMurray College Concert Band will present its second concert of the current season in Music Hall this afternoon at 3:30 p.m. Music by J. S. Bach, Saint-Saens, Schumann, Perzichetti, Sousa, and William Schuman will be played. Three outstanding high school music directors and a former member of Sousa's band will conduct the band. Their regular conductor, Henry E. Busche, will also conduct.

One of the highlights of the concert will occur when J. Paul Schenk, a former member of the John Phillip Sousa band will step to the podium and conduct the "Stars and Stripes Forever", march. This selection has the distinction of being so closely associated with Sousa, that when it is played it represents to all band audiences Mr. Sousa himself. Also, when selections are played by bands which represent our country at official functions, the "Stars and Stripes" is one which is most often chosen. Next to the "Star Spangled Banner" it represents the spirit of our nation.

The other guest conductors, Valera Berry of Carrollton, James Conlee of Beardstown, and Rolla Pence of Hillsboro, are having distinguished careers in the school band field. Miss Berry has achieved renown for her work in instrumental music in the Carrollton public schools by having developed one of the finest band organizations of any school of the same size.

Mr. Conlee is now in his sixth year as director of bands at Beardstown High School. His bands have rated high consistently in the Class B school music contests. An accomplished cornetist, Mr. Conlee is well known to local residents, as he is a native of Jacksonville. Mr. Pence has gained fame in South Central Illinois for his work in instrumental music at Hillsboro, in the development of that high school band into one of the very fine bands of that area.

Another interesting feature will be the band's premier performances of the "Spring Symphony" by Robert Schumann and selections from the "Algerian Suite" by Saint-Saens, which were set to band by Donald G. Evans. These selections represent a significant contribution to the band literature of today.

All are invited to attend.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP)—The Washington birth date holiday caused a little weakness in the butcher hog market this week and espite a firmer trend thereafter prices were 25 cents a hundredweight lower.

The top of $19 or better which had been paid every day for more than two weeks was reached only on Monday.

Slaughter steers grading average choice to prime were steady to 50 cents higher for the week but the good grade and below as much as 50 cents lower. Buyers attributed the firmness on top grades to a slightly reduced supply and improved prices for dressed beef in the wholesale markets.

By the end of the week, demand was a little better for lower grade animals.

The supply of slaughter lambs was down somewhat from last week and that class sold steady to strong.

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA)—A summary of the hog, cattle and sheep markets for the week:

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market trading this week was at the heaviest pace since 1933 as prices churned irregularly higher, meeting increased resistance.

Because of Washington's Birthday there were only four trading sessions, so total volume was 20,696,610 shares compared with 23,021,955 for the full five-day trading week that preceded it.

Average daily trading, however, zoomed to 5,174,152 shares from 4,604,391 the prior week and this was the biggest since the week ended July 22, 1933, when the average was 8,480,500 shares.

The public's appetite for stocks was tremendous and, on top of this, there was steady buying by institutions such as mutual funds, pension funds and insurance companies, as well as trading from abroad.

As the week ended, a seat on the New York Stock Exchange was sold for $165,000, the highest price paid since Feb. 19, 1936, when a seat changed hands at $174,000.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week advanced 3.93 to 655.60.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose .90 to a new historic high of 237.10.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index also closed the week at a new high of 62.59.

The Dow industrials were having trouble penetrating the rally top of 656.42 reached last June and were still substantially below their historic mark of 685.47 attained Jan. 5, 1960.

Of the 1,435 issues traded this week, 849 advanced and 457 declined.

The most active issue this week on the American Stock Exchange was Lefcourt Realty, up ¾ at 3 on 252,800 shares.

A number of U.S. government and corporate bonds sold at their highest price and lowest yield in two years this month.

The corporate list surged upward without interruption to make it eight straight weekly advances this year. The February gain was again the best since August, based on the AP averages. Industrials and utilities closed Friday at 1960-61 peaks and top grade investment issues were just a hair under their best.

Treasury bonds reversed January's slide to pick up as much as 2¾ or 3 points in the longest maturities with two sessions remaining in February. The improvement was almost as good as December's yearend rally. More than half the list closed a point or better above Feb. 1 quotations and many were up 1½. Half a dozen or so gained 2 although the shortest maturities slipped 1-32 to ¼.

Volume of corporate trading on the New York Stock Exchange for the holiday week fell to $29,026,600 par value from $33,464,500 but the daily average was up to $7,274,000 from $6,692,900.

BEANS POSTED HIGH GAINS DURING WEEK

By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybean futures posted their broadest advance this week in about three months of an almost uninterrupted steady climb with some old crop contract only a little shy of $3 a bushel.

Gains ranged to more than 16 cents for the March and May deliveries and to more than 15 cents for the July. Ten cents of the advance came Thursday when two contracts closed with the limit allowed by the Board of Trade for a single day. The other fell only a small fraction short of the maximum daily gain.

For the old crop months, the gains extended the advances to more than 65 cents since the first of the year. The higher trend actually began in December, however, when the government announced it had virtually exhausted its supply of loan-defaulted stocks. At that time, it was becoming quite apparent to the trade that the commercial stocks may be very scarce before the 1961 crop is harvested.

Activity in the grain pits during the week was relatively dull, and prices shifted mainly over a fractional range. However, by the end of the week wheat and oats had advances running to a little more than two cents, corn about one cent. Oats were virtually unchanged.

The major trade influence throughout the week appeared to be the new feed grain bill in Congress. As hearings progressed on it and ammendments were submitted they had both bullish and bearish effects in the pits.

The announcement, though, by Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman that he intended to raise price supports regardless of action by Congress on the bill had a generally bullish influence. By the end of the week, the trade had somewhat discounted the first bullish impact and appeared to prefer to await further developments.

Near the end of the week, a report that soybean exports continued to run about 10 million bushels ahead of a year ago and that crushings also were up considerably from a year ago attracted an active speculative demand for that commodity.

At the end of the week, soybeans were 5½-16½ cents a bushel higher, March $2.91-90¾; wheat ¼ lower to 2⅝ higher, March $2.10¼; corn ⅝-1⅝ higher, March $1.14¼; oats ¼ higher to ⅝ lower, March 63½; rye 1⅛-2¼ higher, March $1.20½.

Alabama Rivers Go On Rampage

Within the 24-hour period ending at 7 a. m. Saturday, West Point, Ga., reported 7.65 inches; La Grange, Ga., 7.82 inches; Frisco City in south Alabama, 7.31 inches, and Miller Ferry in central Alabama, 8.27 inches.

Atlanta received .70 of an inch in 15 minutes and 5.67 inches for the 24-hour period.

Rainfall at Birmingham since Feb. 1 has totaled 17.51 inches—already a record for the month.

Monigomery, where the Alabama River stood at 53 feet Saturday and was expected to crest at 56 feet within 48 hours, received 5.54 inches of rain in 24 hours.

The Alabama's crest at 56 feet would equal the record set in 1919. Flood stage is 35 feet.

Flood waters still cover major portions of Hattiesburg, Miss., with depths up to eight feet. An estimated 5,000 persons were evacuated as the Leaf River spilled out of its banks. No more rain was forecast through Sunday.

One of the worst floods in the history of Columbus, Ga., threatened Saturday as the Chattahoochee River burst out of its banks in the valley between West Point, Ga., and Columbus.

The Weather Bureau said the Chattahoochee might reach 53 feet by noon Sunday, 13 feet above flood stage.

Four persons are known to have perished because of the flooding.

Destructive weather rode into Florida Saturday on a blast of cold air that toppled temperatures from summertime levels.

A small tornado struck northwest of Orlando and damaged one building. Strong winds battered small areas of Tampa and Clearwater.

Forecasts called for much colder weather by Sunday morning. High temperatures have averaged in the 70s and 80s for more than a week.

REPORT MANY CUBAN INSURGENTS ARE DEFECTORS

up" effort against a main concentration of rebels in the Escambray Mountains of south-central Cuba.

The "liberation army" radio from somewhere outside Cuba said the insurgents made a "successful attack" on militia positions ringing the Escambrays. The broadcast said rebels used only bayonets and commando knives to avoid alerting the militiamen held in reserve.

Those who made the Oriente tour made this report:

Lt. Emilio Vera, chief of the Guantanamo jail, decamped into the hills Feb. 14 with a number of political prisoners and 20 guards — all armed. Castro's agents arrested Vera's wife and held her incommunicado, the observers said.

Nearly 40 other members of Castro's police and military organizations led by Capt. Argimiro Fonseca have deserted and moved into the hills.

In the roundup of anti-Castro suspects that followed, more than 200 persons were arrested. Among those detained was ex-police Capt. Jose Rodrigues Moreno, chief of the Territorial Taxes Bureau in Guantanamo and brother-in-law of Regino Boti, Castro's minister of economy.

Others reportedly seized were Guantanamo's postmaster, an army lieutenant and several Guantanamo merchants.

Government spokesmen in Havana would not confirm these arrests.

Guantanamo sources said one fugitive, ex-Capt. Enrique Molina, escaped the roundup by seising a launch at gunpoint and forcing the owner to take him to the U. S. naval base where he sought asylum. Normally, Cubans are turned away from the base.

The observers who toured Oriente said Castro agents arrested the entire personnel of a small military post at Imias in their investigation of a conspiracy against the regime. The number was not disclosed.

Two national policemen who deserted their unit in Havana reached Guantanamo, these informants went on, but were shot down by militiamen before they could join insurgent forces in the hills.

Castro's opposition in Oriente appeared in individual or small group actions, the observers said, rather than in an organized move against the regime.

"Some of those who fled into the hills did so because they opposed communism; others because they had personal troubles with their superiors or associates," one said. "Many others joined opposition groups simply because they were fed up."

Gizenga Forces Gain Control Of 3 Congo Capitals

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The United Nations shrugged off Saturday a Congolese government ultimatum demanding action against Lumumbist troops who traveled halfway across the Congo to take over the town of Luluabourg.

The coup brought Lumumbist forces to within 500 miles of Leopoldville and sent a sharp throb of alarm through officials in the regime of President Joseph Kasavubu. Capture of the Kasai Province capital gave Antoine Gizenga's leftist Stanleyville regime control of three of the Congo's six provincial capitals.

Deputy Premier Joseph Bolikango gave notice that unless the United Nations took steps within six hours to clear the intruders out of Luluabourg, the Leopoldville government would take "dispositions which the situation demands."

The United Nations said: "We don't know what action they want us to take or what action they want to do themselves."

A United Nations spokesman said the 2,000-man government garrison in the city, Luluabourg, welcomed with open arms the 300 rebels who journeyed 800 miles south from Gizenga's Oriental Province stronghold for their bloodless conquest.

Luluabourg is just 110 miles northeast of the Congo-Portuguese Angola border and if the rebels left behind them firm lines of supply and communications they have nearly cut the Congo in half.

Apparent defection of supposedly loyal troops to Gizenga, political heir to the slain ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba, sent a jolt of alarm through the Leopoldville government.

About 1,000 U.N. Ghanaian soldiers stationed in and around Luluabourg were under strict orders to prevent clashes between government and rebel troops. But the U.N. spokesman said, the Ghanaians had no grounds to prevent a peaceful "merger" of the two forces.

Pittsfield Nudges JHS In Rough Affair, 64-63

PITTSFIELD — Coach Toby Smith's Saukees survived a Jacksonville High comeback and claimed a close 64-63 triumph Saturday night in the final game of the regular season for both aggregations. Coach John Chapman's Crimsons got back into the game after a lowly six-point first quarter and stayed in contention the remaining three quarters.

For Pittsfield, the win was number 15 against eight defeats. The Jacks wound up regular play with a 9 win, 13 loss showing. Fouls took their toll on both clubs as the Crimsons lost Rich Sweeney, Ken Norton and Ron Tomhave and the Saukees Bruce Saxbury and Mike McGinnis. In all it was a rough affair that produced 52 fouls, 29 against the Jacks and 23 on the winners.

Never Overcome Lead

Jacksonville controlled the tip but missed its first attempt and Pittsfield grabbed the rebound and the lead on a tally by Saxbury. From there the Saukees hit six straight free throws for an 8-0 lead and the Crimsons never did get into gear as Larry Iftner and Phil Lippincott led Pittsfield to a 21-6 first quarter margin. JHS managed only one shot in 13 attempts but fared a little better in the second quarter as they soared back on seven of 21 shots to outscore their hosts, 26-15, and only a four-point deficit at halftime, 36-32.

The Crimsons sliced the deficit to a pair of tallies on a Tomhave layup with 38 seconds remaining, 33-31, but free throws by Harmison and Iftner kept Pittsfield out in front.

JHS Keeps Trying

The losers put up a gallant fight in the third quarter via a press and stayed in contention but Saukee charity tosses prevented Jacksonville from ever seeing the lead. The closest JHS came to the lead was 41-40, on buckets by Norton, Sims and Baldwin. From there Pittsfield maintained anywhere from a 3-5 point lead with Iftner, Saxbury and McGinnis coming up with key buckets.

Norton, who had replaced Rich Sweeney when he fouled out with 6:13 left in the second quarter, drew his fifth personal with 50 seconds remaining in the third period and Pittsfield out in front by five, 51-46. The Saukees led by the same margin after a wild and wooly third quarter, 53-48.

Jacksonville got within two points of the lead early in the fourth quarter on some deadly outshooting by Ron Yates and Bill Sims, 56-54, but the Saukees put down this threat and built up an eight-point lead, 64-56, with less than three minutes remaining. Pittsfield went scoreless the rest of the way and lost Saxbury and McGinnis on fouls. Jacksonville hit three buckets in the closing 40 seconds of play via the touch of Yates, Warga and Baldwin, to close the gap to a single tally, 64-63, but that's where it all ended as time ran out.

Larry Iftner led the winning attack with 25 tallies while Ron Yates and Chip Baldwin took scoring laurels for the Crimsons with 16 and 14 points respectively.

Niagara Upsets Bonnies, 87-77

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP) — Fired-up Niagara, in one of the greatest basketball upsets of the season, whipped St. Bonaventure 87-77 Saturday night, ending the Bonnies' 13-year home victory streak of 99 games.

Niagara knocked over the second-ranked Bonnies at their own game — the lightning fast break. They added their own dash of sensational accuracy—an amazing 73 per cent from the field.

After giving away a 13-point lead to a Bonaventure last-half rally that looked like it might save the day, Al Butler led a Niagara counter-rally.

Butler hit four jump shots as the Purple Eagles re-established a nine-point lead with 6:28 to go.

Tom Stith sparked the Bonnies as they lashed the margin to six, but this was the best they could do. Niagara turned to possession ball with three minutes to go, and won it going away as Bonaventure tried to come back.

Fabulous Ralph Boston of Tennessee State smashed his own indoor broad jump record when he leaped 26 feet, 6¼ inches.

Michigan Bows To N'western, 66-56

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Northwestern, battling for a first division berth in the Big Ten basketball race, defeated last-place Michigan 66-56 Saturday night.

The victory gave Northwestern a 5-6 Big Ten record and left the Wildcats in sixth place, one game behind Indiana. Michigan has one victory in 10 conference games.

Northwestern, displaying a balanced attack, moved into a 35-26 halftime lead. The Wildcats pounded into a 55-42 lead in the second half before Michigan threatened.

Michigan crept within eight points at 58-50 with four minutes left but two baskets by Brad Snyder and another by Ken Lutgens sent the Wildcats winging.

Lutgens led Northwestern's attack with 17 points, Ralph Wells and Bill Cacciatore had 14 each and Snyder finished with 13.

Tom Cole, a sophomore, topped Michigan with 15.

Buckeyes Clinch Share Of Big 10 Title, 97-74

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State clinched a share of the Big Ten basketball championship, defeating Wisconsin 97-74 Saturday night for its 22nd win in an unbeaten season. The top-ranked Buckeyes have a 12-0 conference record with two games to play. All other Big Ten teams have lost at least twice.

The Buckeyes extended collegiate basketball's longest current win streak to 27 games with a strong team effort. Four starters, playing less than 27 minutes of the one-sided contest, scored 14 points or more.

Captain Larry Siegfried was the leader with 19. John Havlicek added 16, Mel Howell 15 and Jerry Lucas, double-teamed by the Badgers most of the way, hit 14. The other Buckeye regular, Richie Hoyt, added 8.

While a storm howled outside, the Buckeyes warmed up the crowd of 13,398 by breaking into a 12-0 lead, which Wisconsin could never threaten.

Lucas scored only three points in the first half, but took almost complete charge of the defensive rebounds by grabbing 14 off the boards. He had a total of 23 for the game, his high this season.

Ken Siebel led Badger scoring with 16 points and Tom Gwyn, who did a good defensive job on Lucas, added 13.

Palmer Garners One-Stroke Lead At Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Arnold Palmer blistered the windy Sherwood Forest 6,700-yard course with a 3-under-par 67 Saturday to take a one-stroke lead at the midway point in the $20,000 Baton Rouge Open Golf Tournament.

Palmer, the defending champion who plays out of Miami, made four birdies on a 34-33 card which gave him a 36-hole total of 132.

Sixty-five pros and 11 amateurs survived the 147 cut-off and will compete in the 36-hole finale Sunday.

Bobby Nichols of Midland, Tex., turned in the day's best card with a 66 to climb to third with a 135.

Palmer bogied only on the sixth hole. Putting for a 66 on the 18th, his 8-footer hung on the rim as the gallery gasped.

Both Palmer and Burke, also a former winner here, will be shooting for the $1,000 bonus promised any ex-titlist who wins again.

Patterson Has A Few Verbal Jabs For Johansson

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson threw a few light verbal jabs Saturday at Ingemar Johansson, his opponent in the championship rematch here March 13.

To the slugging Swede's demands for a foreign-born referee for the fight, Patterson retorted: "This fight is being fought in the United States. I am a United States citizen and I demand a United States referee."

Patterson, training here, said if the fight were staged in a foreign country, he would agree to a foreign referee.

Johansson, training at Palm Beach, 80 miles distant, also called for six-ounce rather than the eight-ounce gloves used here. Six-ounce gloves were used in the previous fights.

Ingo can choose whatever weight gloves he wants, Patterson said. It makes no difference to him, the champ added.

Dischinger Of Purdue Hits 52 Points In Win Over Spartans

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Terry Dischinger of Purdue cracked the Big Ten one-game scoring record with a 52-point blast that tumbled Michigan State's basketball team 85-74 Saturday night.

Dischinger hit 19 field goals and 14 of 15 free throws to better the 48-point performance of Ohio State's Jerry Lucas against Michigan State two weeks ago.

The 6-foot-7 Olympic Games player wasn't pulling a circus stunt. He began pouring in points because Purdue needed them badly — behind 57-55 with about 11 minutes to play. Dischinger made the next fielder and 20 of Purdue's next 28 points.

The Boilermakers, strengthening their second-place Big Ten standing with a 9-2 mark, had considerable difficulty with the Michigan State team which had won only two conference starts. They were tied 44-44 at the half.

Art Schwarm topped the losing Spartans with 17 points.

Dischinger was tossing the ball through the basket from all over the floor. He got 19 fielders in 28 shutouts. He rounded out his performance by snagging 13 rebounds.

Snow Storms Curtail Indiana Cage Activity

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Heavy snow plunged Indiana into the depths of winter Saturday and while thousands of basketball fans floundered toward 64 basketball tournaments, state police urged that all but emergency vehicles stay off roads.

The storm canceled out some of the high school tournament games. State High School Athletic Commissioner L. V. Phillips said he believed it was the first time that had happened since the tournaments began 51 years ago. And in Indiana — where basketball is next to a religion — that's a bad storm.

Police said emergency crews trying to repair widespread power failures in central Indiana were blocked by traffic jams. Eight inches or more of snow fell and drifts up to five feet deep were reported.

"Even our snow plows are getting stuck," a sergeant said. He said all main roads radiating from Indianapolis—almost dead center in the state—were closed or closing, and secondary roads were already mostly closed.

Despite the storm, temperatures remained relatively mild—mostly around the freezing mark.

Lightning knocked Indianapolis radio and television station WISH off the air.

Iowa Runs Over Minnesota, 61-43

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Powerful Iowa reduced Minnesota's offense to confusion Saturday night and turned loose Don Nelson for 30 points in a 61-43 Big Ten basketball romp.

It hoisted the Hawkeyes conference record to 8-2 and kept flickering their feeble hopes for a share of the conference title.

With a superbly disciplined man-to-man defense that smothered all but Bob Griggas, Iowa shut out Minnesota over one five-minute stretch in the first half and yielded only five points over one 10-minute run.

Nelson, maneuvering smoothly under the baskets, teamed with Matt Szykowny to shoot Iowa into a 19-9 lead with 12 minutes gone. Nelson and the Iowa defense gave the fumbling Gophers no chance to recover thereafter.

Griggas wound up with 20 points.

It was Iowa's fourth victory in five starts since they lost four starters a month ago.

Johnny Jordan is in his 10th season as Notre Dame basketball coach.

Boston Smashes Own Indoor Broad Jump Record

NEW YORK (AP)—Fabulous Ralph Boston of Tennessee State smashed his own indoor broad jump record Saturday night by soaring 26 feet, 6¼ inches in the National AAU Championships in Madison Square Garden.

Boston's leap came with all the drama he could muster. Until then, Igor Ter-Ovanesyan of Russia was leading with a leap of 26 feet even.

The slim Olympic champion and holder of every world record sped down the runway while the crowd sat hushed. Up he went and when he landed a mighty roar went up. Without even measuring, it seemed everyone in Madison Square Garden knew he had beaten Ter-Ovanesyan.

Then it was Ter-Ovanesyan's turn. He swept down the runway with Leonid Khomotkov, chief of the Soviet AAU, standing tensely on the tip of the jumpoff.

Up Igor went and officials immediately called a foul.

It was a fine jump, but it's doubtful if it would have surpassed Boston's.

Some confusion arose when Boston called for a measurement of the jump. Khomotkov excitedly motioned for Eulice Peacock, the old national champion who held the tape, to measure the jump.

While Ter-Ovanesyan stood dejectedly on the sideline, Peacock cited the AAU rule that forbids measuring fouls. He ordered the pit raked over.

Until he made his great jump, Boston's best was 25-11¾, just three-quarters of an inch behind Ter-Ovanesyan.

"I even hurt my heel by jumping right into a photographer. Thank heavens it wasn't my jumping heel."

Said Ter-Ovanesyan:

"I ran too fast coming down the runway. I think I hit about 27 feet. I fouled, all right, but just by about an inch."

Bo Roberson of Fort Lee, Va., was third with a 24-4¾ jump.

Prove It Scores Easy Victory At Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Prove It, once an unsung member of the Rex Ellsworth Stable, stepped another giant stride toward fame Saturday with a remarkably easy victory in the $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

Bet down to odds of 2-5 by a crowd estimated at 52,500, the 4-year-old California comet rolled in to take the $100,000 jackpot and score his ninth win in 10 trips to the post.

Lengths behind was the Jacnot Stable's 4-year-old Oink, with the Kerr Stable's Grey Eagle third.

It was no contest when jockey Willie Shoemaker opened the throttle on Prove It as they neared the turn for home. The winning bay won eased up by 2¼ lengths.

The time for the mile and one-quarter golden gallop was 2 minutes flat. The track record is 1:59 4-5, set in this same spectacle by Round Table in 1958.

Prove It paid 40 cents on the dollar—$2.80 to win, $2.60 to place and $2.20 to show.

Oink, ridden by Milo Valenzuela, returned $7.20 and $3.60 to place and Grey Eagle, with Larry Gilligan aboard, $2.60 to show.

McKendree Turns On Scoring Power For 89-63 Win Over IC

LEBANON — McKendree College threw in 31 points in the closing 10 minutes to hand Illinois College an 89-63 setback Saturday night in Prairie College Conference action.

Coach Bill Merris' Blueboys ended their campaign with a 6 win, four loss record in conference play and an overall mark of seven victories against 15 defeats. The Bearcats won the conference title handily with a perfect 10-0 slate and have a respectable 17 win, four loss overall showing.

Bill Schildman of IC shared game scoring honors with Sam Hippie of the winners. Each collected 22 points. Jim Costello played his final game for Illinois College and bowed out with 13 points.

Groat Doesn't Think He'll Win '61 Batting Title

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Shortstop Dick Groat of the Pittsburgh Pirates said Saturday he doesn't figure he'll repeat as the National League's batting champ this year.

"There are two reasons," explained Groat, who copped the title last season with a .325 average.

"For one thing, I don't have the power of fellows like Hank Aaron and Willie Mays and second I don't have the speed of either of them," he said. "Now if I could run like Richie Ashburn, I would say that I could repeat as batting king."

Groat said his lack of speed prevents him for getting enough infield hits to win the batting crown consistently.

Ortega Decisions Welter Champ

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gaspar Ortega, a slim and slippery veteran who has been on the fringes of fame for years, scored the biggest victory of his career Saturday night by taking a unanimous decision from World Welterweight Champion Benny (Kid) Paret in a nationally televised 10-rounder at the Olympic Auditorium.

Ortega's stunning upset might have embarrassed the champion financially as much as it did emotionally. For it is almost certain to detract from the gate at Paret's title fight with Emile Griffith in Miami April 1.

The lanky Mexican gained the victory more with style than power.

He slapped the champion from Cuba with several bristling lefts particularly in the late rounds, but Paret was never in danger of going down.

There were no knockdowns but this was one of the most spirited bouts seen here in recent years.

The pace was phenomenal through the first five rounds. Paret, a perpetual motion puncher who throws mostly short and choppy blows, appeared to be hitting his target more often in the early stages.

But, although he made the Mexican blink several times, he never had him near collapse.

The champion was penalized a point for hitting after the bell following the second round. But the Tijuana fighter would have won without this assistance.

Monmouth Beats Carleton, 75-70

MONMOUTH, Ill. (AP) — Monmouth went ahead for keeps in the last six minutes Saturday to defeat Carleton 75-70 in a Midwest Conference basketball game.

Monmouth, taking its fifth straight conference victory for a 9-7 record to move into a third place tie, was on top 43-38 at halftime. But Carleton went in front 51-50 with 11 minutes left and spread it to 58-53 in the next two minutes.

Carleton then went into a stall which failed to work as Monmouth successfully staged a full press to regain the lead at 61-60, and keep it.

Second place Carleton now is 11-5.

Carl Goff topped Monmouth with 21 points. Carleton's Dave Current popped in 27.

Mac Murray Drops 84-81 Tilt To Lake Forest

LAKE FOREST — MacMurray suffered its sixth defeat of the season in 23 starts here Saturday night in an 84-81 loss to Lake Forest College, who annexed its 15th win against 10 setbacks.

The Highlanders nursed a slim one point lead with a minute to go, 81-80, but Sokody hit two deciding buckets in the remaining time to snap a three-game winning string for the Clansmen.

Gary Little paced MacMurray's attack with 27 points coming on 10 field goals and seven charity tosses. Tom Lewis pumped in 35 for the winners.

Hoosiers Give McCracken His 400th Triumph Saturday

Unruh, MacMurray Athletic Director, Resigns

FAN BREEZES

BY STAN SPOTTS

Journal Courier Sports Editor

Fans will be pleased to know that the response from the article on Charles Eldridge, the 13-year-old lad in Our Saviour's Hospital, has been overwhelming. As you remember, Charles has been ill for a year now and he was a mighty depressed youngster until the fans sent him get-well cards and letters of encouragement this past week. In fact, he received so many nice cards that he has put on four pounds and he is looking forward to going home now that he is up to 60 pounds which was the prescribed weight by his doctor. Of the many fine cards he received there was one in particular that interested me. It was from Bill Sims, who is a regular on the Jacksonville High basketball team. Bill is still showing the hustle and desire on the hardcourt as he had to when he was a youngster stricken with polio. Sims knows what it is to bounce back and he encouraged Charles to never give up hope. Charles will be in room 111 for awhile and it still isn't too late to send him a card.

—o—

Another most welcome visitor was George O'Donnell of Winchester, who toiled for the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1954. George read of Charles' illness last Sunday and wanted to talk to the lad since he had voiced a love for the Yankees and the Pirates. O'Donnell, who is scheduled to report to Florida March 15 for spring training with Syracuse, gave Eldridge a baseball bearing signatures of the Pittsburgh club and a book containing pictures and data on the Pirate players. Big George toiled for Spokane last season in the Pacific Coast League and said he wished in a way he could have stayed on the West coast since Hawaii has joined the circuit this season. O'Donnell was to have gone to Montreal but financial difficulties prevailed and Syracuse took over the franchise. Syracuse is affiliated with the Minnesota Twins, the old Washington organization. As of this weekend, George and Syracuse couldn't agree on the stipend he was to receive for the season.

A dozen Jacksonville youths, ages 18 and under, are interested in playing hockey but organized sports such as hockey are expensive and the lads need a sponsor or some financial backing from several firms. Protective equipment such as padded gloves, sticks, jerseys, padded shorts, shin pads, long socks, shoulder pads and skates are a must. The goalie must have additional equipment such as a chest protector and a mask. Some of the boys already have the necessary gear but they need someone to provide the special equipment. The sponsor would own all the gear and the name of the firm would be worn on the back of the jerseys. The gear would be used from year to year. This group is presently engaged in practice and lessons at the Ice Center in Springfield. Don Mossman, a canadian and student at Concordia Seminary, has been drilling the Jacksonville delegation. JHS seniors Jack McCarty and Jono Hildner have been chosen co-captains and their advisor is Al Rosenberger. Other hockey teams formed in this area are Peoria, Joliet, Alton and Springfield.

Jim Proffitt, 17 year old son of Jesse J. and Marjorie Smith Proffitt, former local residents, was named number one in the Big 12 football conference and he may finish on top in the conference basketball scoring race as well if all goes well—he's presently second with a 19.4 average. Jim is rated in a class with two other Mattoon football greats—Duane Purvis and Bill Tate. Jim's father is a graduate of Routt and his mother received her education at JHS. His grandmother, Mrs. Allen Smith, resides at 343 West Beecher, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Proffitt, live in Alexander. In addition to football and basketball, he is a sprinter and high jumper on the Mattoon track team. Jim has been flooded with college offers but the only school he's visited so far is Illinois. He plans to visit New Mexico, Miami of Florida, Iowa State and Missouri, among others. Proffitt denies he has chosen Notre Dame. From a family of eight children, Jim has four younger brothers and one played freshman ball last fall. In all probability the Proffitt name is going to be kept before the public's eye at Mattoon, especially in athletic circles.

According to the latest NAIA District 20 release MacMurray is fifth in team offense with a 78.8 game average. Coach Bill Wall's Highlanders have scored 1,726 points this season. In team defense, Coach Bill Merris' IC Blueboys are fourth with a 68.9 game average. When asked why MacMurray didn't wait for a possible NAIA tournament offer, Wall replied, "I think the NCAA tournament has more prestige." MacMurray students may get to travel to the Great Lakes regional if all comes off as planned by the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce. They hope to arrange with some local establishments the financing of two buses for the students. If this can't be arranged then something should be done to honor the Highlanders for their achievements stated Tom Ruzinek of the Chamber. At least a banquet he said.

Howard Dewell, athletic director at Quincy High, who officiated the JHS - Winchester game Friday night, said he has really enjoyed this season and doesn't miss coaching in the least. According to him this has been the fastest season he can ever recall and for good reason because instead of him getting ulcers from the officiating he is now giving coaches ulcers but in a nice way. Dewell turned the coaching duties over to Sherrill Hanks, who according to Howie has done a splendid job, last fall and he feels Quincy will definitely be in the Quincy sectional. Dewell loves officiating and life in general and quite contrary to what Winchester fans may think he's really a nice guy, who can go with the best of 'em at Champaign for the state finals.

—o—

Glancing at the overall coaching records for the JHS regional there are some mighty fine ones. Coach John Chapman has 213 wins under his belt against 114 losses so far in his 13 years with Jacksonville High. Coach Jack Renfro of Winchester has a 64 win, 17 loss record in his three years with the Wildcats. Coach Bob Winstead's Rockets have compiled a 90 win, 47 loss showing in his five year mentorship and Coach Tony Dolenc has a fine 18-6 record in his first year at the New Berlin post. Bill Hovey, who was succeeded by Dolenc this season, bowed out of the coaching ranks with 157 wins against 53 defeats in eight seasons. Hovey is now principal at Glenwood High School. Just over the respectable .500 mark is Virginia Coach John Murray, who has chalked up 23 wins against 22 setbacks in two seasons. New head coaches making their appearances in the JHS regional this week are Dolenc and Waverly's Woody Derickson.

—o—

There will be no attempt to determine the winner of the Jacksonville High regional because there is no way to reach a conclusion. If Winchester plays the way it did in the first three quarters against JHS it won't be in the finals but if the Wildcats show what they did in the fourth period then they'll be a definite contender. Jacksonville showed flashes of promise against Winchester but the Crimsons will have to settle their erratic habit of throwing the ball away to go anywhere at all. Routt can go a long way toward winning Winstead's first regional title if they're hitting and this is one thing they'll have to do in order to get by Waverly, who I think will give the Rockets some trouble. New Berlin appears a certainty to be in the semifinals and they have the tools to beat JHS but the advantage of the home court may decide this one. By next Thursday this should have developed into one of the finest semifinal cards ever offered in the Jacksonville regional.

—o—

In this area there is only one other regional that may stack up to Jacksonville's four evenly matched teams and that is over Rushville way. This one by the way is also up for grabs and could go either to favored Pittsfield, Beardstown, Triopia, Griggsville, Bluffs, Brown County or host Rushville. Coach Stan Olson's Rockets, 6-14 on the season, bump into highly regarded Triopia Tuesday and where the Trojans go from there remains to be seen as they'll tangle with the winner of the Beardstown-Griggsville contest. Pittsfield is the team to beat but anything can happen to the best in this next daffy week of regional competition.

Anyone for checkers? As you may well know the game of checkers is a sport which requires a maximum amount of skill and knowledge to play it expertly, but it is so easily understood that anyone can play it. The game appeals to people of all classes and occupations. This all leads up to the Illinois State Checker Association's annual tournament at the Illinois Hotel in Bloomington, March 11-12. All players are urged to enter the 56th annual even and display their skill.

Virginia Heavyweights Win Rushville Sectional

The Virginia Heavyweight grade team won their sectional tournament at Rushville last Thursday by defeating Camden by the score of 34-32. Gene Brodman, coach of the Virginia Grade Redbirds, has led his team to the Sectional finals three times but this is the first time he has been victorious. The team will now move to Canton for the State tournament on Saturday, March 4.

The state eliminations begin by a regional tournament which was played at Rushville. Two teams moved to the Sectional from two Regional tournaments. Virginia and Camden moved up from Rushville to meet the Pleasant Hill and East Pike heavyweights. Virginia dumped East Pike by an easy score while Camden edged Pleasant Hill by one point. Then in the final game Virginia took a commanding 16-3 lead in the first quarter and led by ten at the half. A fine all court press made the Redbirds work hard and in the final minute found the score very close. The two point difference is some idea of how fine a ball game the capacity crowd got to see.

Coach Gene Brodman has had many fine ball clubs in both the lightweight and heavyweight divisions. This year he won the CMS Grade Tournament and had a season heavyweight record of 14-1. The lineup will find Terry Carls and Phillip Dillard at forwards; Freddy Gebhart at center, Rick Smith and David Bell at the guards. Always on hand to give a quickly needed boost is Jerry Stilwell at the guard post.

The Virginia school board has said that they will run a fan bus to Canton to help boost their team toward the State Heavyweight title.

Illinois Wins Quadrangular

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Illinois took only four first places but cashed in on balanced scoring Saturday to win a quadrangular track meet with Purdue, Northwestern and Wisconsin.

The Illini compiled 43½ points to 37½ for Purdue, 32½ for Northwestern and 27½ for Wisconsin.

Armand Lecrene, with victories in the high jump and high hurdles, and Deryck Taylor, with three second places, led Illinois to victory.

Illinois' Paul Foreman won the broad jump with 24 feet 7 inches and Bill Brown took the shot put with a toss of 53 feet 9½ inches.

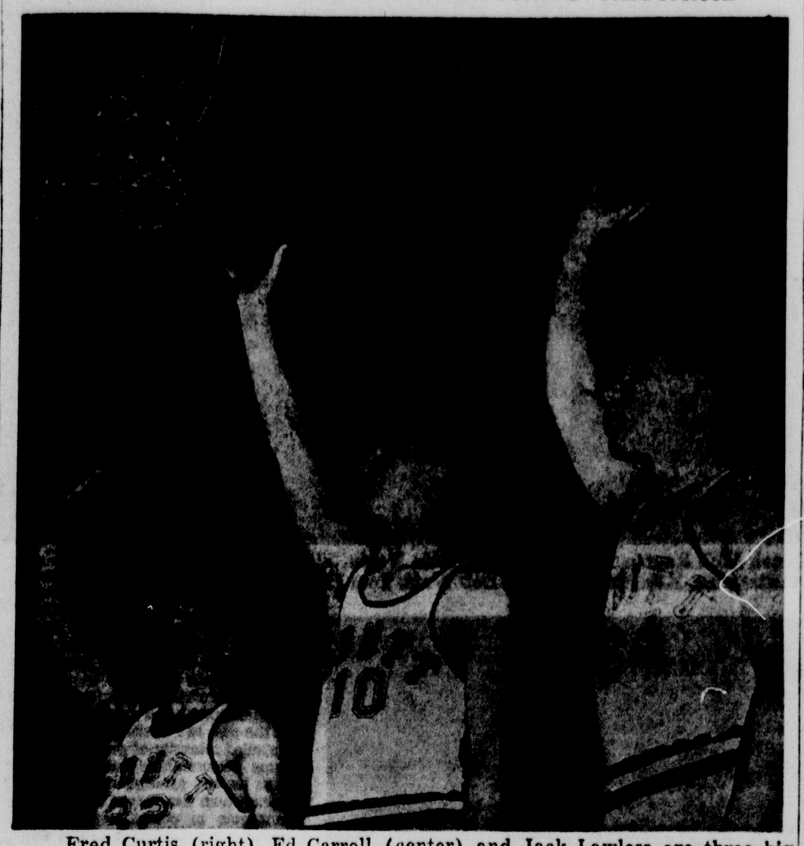
In a special 600-yard race, Olympian George Kerr of Illinois was timed in 1:09, bettering the American and Armory records. The American mark, shared by Mal Whitfield and Tom Courtney, is 1:09.5. The Armory mark, the only official one that can be broken in the meet, is 1:10.2 by Dave Dean of Michigan State in 1958.

Kerr still is a stundent at Illinois but has completed his track eligibility.

One of the nation's largest bowling establishments is at Edison, N. J. It includes 112 alleys.

Johnny Vaught is in his 15th year as football coach at the University of Mississippi.

VITAL COGS IN ROCKET SCORING MACHINE



Fred Curtis (right), Ed Carroll (center) and Jack Lawless are three big reasons why Coach Bob Winstead's Routt Rockets rate consideration for the regional championship at the JHS Bowl this week. The Rockets, who lack the big men, make up for this handicap with their speed and fine outshooting attack. The three above can match shots with anyone and will make an evening very troublesome for those wishing to do so. Curtis, who needs seven points against Waverly to reach the 500-point total this season, carries the second best scoring average of the field with a 20.5 per game mark. He is also the team's leading rebounder. Carroll has maintained a respected 12.8 average followed by Lawless' 12.3 point a game clip. Carroll has 307 points and Lawless 306 tallies this season. Routt has won 20 of 25 starts and will be seeking its first regional title under Winstead, who is making his fifth regional appearance with the Rockets.

The last time Routt won a regional came in 1955 at Franklin when it toppled Jacksonville High, 53-44.

Frank Lane Has New Feud Going And He Needs A Fast Answer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

General Manager Frank Lane of the Kansas City A's had a new feud going today and he's going to have to do some fast thinking to get in the last word.

He is on the outs with Ray Herbert, the A's second-best pitcher last season.

Earlier in the week, Lane fumed that he had been insulted by Herbert in a letter expressing dissatisfaction with his contract.

Herbert arrived Friday in the A's West Palm Beach, Fla., camp and expressed wide-eyed surprise that Lane should be sore at him.

"In about the second or third letter he sent me, he said I could do one of three things," Herbert explained blandly. "He said I could sign my contract, hang it on the wall or tear it up.

"So," he continued with a straight face, "I tore it up and sent it back to him. That's when he got mad."

Herbert is the only member of the club unsigned. Outfielder Al Pilarcik came to terms Friday. He said he will report Monday.

Other developments Friday reduced the unsigned ranks of the Milwaukee Braves, San Francisco Giants and Detroit Tigers.

Big Don McMahon, once the Braves' top relief pitcher, signed, leaving Lew Burdette the only pitcher outside the fold. The Tigers and their "Yankee killer," Frank Lary, also agreed to terms. That left only outfielders Charlie Maxwell and George Alusik unsigned. Lary has a 23-8 lifetime record against the Yanks.

Jack Sanford and Billy Loes, a couple of front-line pitchers, have signed with the Giants. Only pitcher Juan Marichal and utility man Jim Marshall have not signed.

Elsewhere on the citrus and cactus circuits:

Rookie fireballer Ken Hunt of the Cincinnati Reds probably will spend the summer in the minors but Manager Fred Hutchinson said he has a major league fast ball already.

Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Cleveland Indians is making his Tribe run, run, run. "I was 43 when I played my last game in the majors," Dykes said. "The only reason I lasted that long was because of my legs. I did more running at 40 than most rookies did."

The Yankees will get a day off from spring training Sunday, the first time in over 20 years they've been allowed to skip a day in training for any reason other than bad weather.

Pirates already have two casualties, pitcher Roy Face hit in the neck by a batted ball and Tom Cheney who pulled a muscle in his right side. Neither is serious.

Manager Charlie Dressen of the Braves has assigned Andy Pafko as first base coach.

New Trier Captures 12th Swimming Title

WINNETKA, Ill. (AP) — Scoring a record 104 points, powerful New Trier captured its 12th Illinois High School swimming championship Saturday.

The Indians set two national interscholastic records and set two of three new state records.

Dale Keifer was timed in 2:05.1 in the 200-yard individual medley, clipping one three-tenths seconds off the old mark set by Ralph Kendrick of Berkeley, Calif., last year.

Roger Goettsche, Ed Sessions, Fred Schmidt and Bob Lavin did the 200-yard medley relay in 1:42.6, bettering the previous mark of 1:44.4 set by Evanston, Ill., last year.

Evanston, the defending champion, finished second with 69 points followed by Rockford East with 27. New Trier became the first school in the 30-year history of the meet to score more than 100 points.

New Trier's Terry Townsend and Dave Lyons both set state records. Townsend was clocked in 1:50.1 in the 200-yard free style, bettering his own mark by nine-tenths of a second. Lyons lowered his own mark in the 50-yard free style by three-tenths of a second by turning in a :22.4.

Rockford East's 200-yard relay team established the other state record with a clocking of 1:32.7, six - tenths of a second better than its own timing in Friday's preliminaries.

Hinsdale finished fourth with 18 points, followed by Rockford West with 17, Highland Park 12, Oak Park 10, Moline 10, Rock Island 5, Champaign 4, Proviso East 4, Glenbrook 2, Aurora East 1, East Leyden 1, Elgin 1 and Morgan Park 1.

Willie Shoemaker, runnerup for national riding honors to Bill Hartack in 1960, took an early lead for 1961 laurels by riding 32 winners in January, five more than John Sellers.

In six years of coaching at LSU, Paul Dietzel's football teams show a 36-23-3 record.

Indiana Has Easy Time With Illini

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Indiana University's Hoosiers gave Coach Branch McCracken his 400th basketball victory of a 28-year career Saturday by beating Illinois 93-82.

Indiana just pulled even in the Big Ten race with a 5-5 mark. Illinois was left 4-6 by its fourth straight conference defeat.

The regionally televised game almost didn't get started. A fierce snow storm stopped the assigned Big Ten officials somewhere en route, and two local high school officials worked the contest.

Only 1,800 fans made it to the new Indiana fieldhouse, which usually is packed with more than 10,000.

Illinois led 41-40 at the half and again at 43-42 early in the second period. Then Indiana sophomore Tom Boylard scored 11 points in five minutes, giving the the Hoosiers a 44-43 lead. Indiana dominated the rest of the game.

Senior John Wessels of Illinois won scoring honors with 28 points. Indiana had three men with 20 or more, Bolyard and Walt Bellamy with 22 apiece and Gary Long with 21.

The victory gave McCracken a 400-172 career record in 19 years at Indiana and eight at Ball State.

Second Phase Of Drive For Illinois Prep Title Starts Monday In Regionals

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The second phase of the drive for the Illinois prep basketball title — the regional tournaments — opens this week with 42 newly crowned district champions stepping into competition with their bigger brothers.

Awaiting the "Little David" outfits will be such "Goliaths" as Collinsville, Peoria Manual, Prospect and Bridgeport, all slated for action when play begins Monday at 28 regionals.

Thirty-two more regionals open Tuesday. Survivors move into 15 sectionals a week later. The sectional champs will be joined by a Chicago team in the Sweet Sixteen for the state tourney March 14, 17-18.

Although most Little David clubs are definite underdogs, Geneva's Vikings are considered a strong threat for the regional title at Aurora.

The Vikings, led by 6-11 Haskell Tison, lost only four games during the campaign and encountered little difficulty in capturing the Geneva district championship.

Geneva will be matched in the first game with Aurora West, which lost six of its last 10 games. In the same tourney is Aurora East, which handed Geneva a 1-point setback last December.

The Vikings will be out to duplicate a 1952 feat by Hebron, which became the only Little David ever to march through the regionals, sectionals and state tournament to grab the title.

Rated teams slated for action Monday are heavy favorites to sweep past first round competition. In most cases, the favorites did not meet their first regional goes in regular season play.

Collinsville's No. 1 ranked Kahoks, who rolled to an undefeated season, face little Roxana in the Granite City regional. Edwardsville and Madison also are entered in the regional.

Prospect, rated fourth in the Associated Press poll, meets Des Plaines at Mount Prospect and sixth-ranked Bridgeport opposes Newton in the Newton regional.

At Peoria Heights, powerful Peoria Manual faces Metamora. Ninth-rated Manual finished the season with a 20-2 slate. One of the losses was to Spalding, which is in the same bracket with Manual.

Moline's, Mississippi Valley champs take on Port Byron at Moline and Waukegan opposes Lake Forest in the North Chicago regional.

Eighth-ranked Clinton takes on LeRoy in a first round game of the Clinton regional.

North Carolina Wins AAC With 69-66 Victory

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — A back-handed goal by York Larese and a free throw by rookie Yogi Poteet in the closing seconds of overtime gave seventh - ranked North Carolina a 69-66 victory over Duke Saturday to win top place in the Atlantic Coast Conference regular season standings.

A capacity crowd of 4,500 and a regional television audience saw Coach Fran McGuire's Tar Heels gain revenge for an 81-77 defeat by Duke Feb. 8 at Durham that ended in a free-for-all.

Larese, Doug Moe and Dick Kepley, three great North Carolina players, participated in their final game. They were given a standing ovation prior to the game.

The regulation game ended in a 63-63 tie after Larese missed on a long set shot with four seconds left. Then, with the score tied at 66-all in overtime, Larese backhanded the ball into the basket for a goal with 1:04 remaining. Forty seconds were left when Poteet made good on his free throw.

Sixth - ranked Duke, playing without star Art Heyman who is under suspension along with two Tar Heel players for the Feb. 8 fight, built up a 10-point lead at one point in the first half. But North Carolina stormed back to gain a 35-31 halftime edge.

The Tar Heels held the upper hand in the early part of the second half before the Blue Devils began to make their bid.

Larese topped North Carolina scorers with 24 points. Howard Hurt with 20 led Duke.

A total of 17,702 standardbreds participated in 39,882 harness races during 1960, reports the U. S. Trotting Assn.

For the first time in his three-year coaching tenure with Winchester, Coach Jack Renfro finds his Wildcats favored to win the Jacksonville High School Regional but all is not well with the Scott County quintet. Minor injuries and sickness have come onto the scene in the past two weeks and this has curtailed intensity of practices and game performances but the mishaps haven't affected the winning spirit which has played an important role in compiling the best overall won and loss record of any entry in the four-day affair.

With Winchester in distress since regular Bill Robinson has been injured with an ailing knee, whom does that leave in contention for the title? Basketball followers could take their pick of Jacksonville High, Routt or New Berlin, last year's defending champs. Because, on a given night any of these three aggregations have proven unstoppable. And yet, Winchester can't be counted out of the running for the trip to the Springfield Sectional.

The regional picture will begin to jell Tuesday night, February 28, at 7 p.m. when the top-seeded Wildcats test Illinois School for Deaf's Tigers, who have been plagued all season with an inexperienced crew and this has resulted in a losing season. The other Tuesday night contest pits Coach Bob Winstead's third-ranked Rockets against Waverly at 8:30 p.m. This is the only team in the tourney field Routt didn't meet during the regular season and the Scotties may cause the Rockets some trouble, but not enough to prevent their advance to Thursday's semifinals.

Wednesday night four different teams take the hardcourt in the Bowl with an improved Jacksonville High squad matching shots with Coach Jim Bower's Franklin Flashes in a 7 p.m. lid-lifter. The 1960-61 campaign hasn't been a successful one for Franklin as it has tasted defeat 18 times in 20 starts. Coach Tony Dolenc and his New Berlin Pretzels find themselves ranked fourth when they make their tournament debut against Virginia in the Wednesday night finale.

Barring an unforeseen upset from opening round action, Thursday's semifinal card should pit Winchester against Routt in the 7 p.m. curtain-raiser and Jacksonville against New Berlin in the 8:30 p.m. nightcap. Where the field goes from there depends on the outcome of Thursday's games and there is no Friday for the losers as only the two remaining finalists are permitted to play Friday night at 8 p.m. and this game determines the regional winner in addition to a sectional berth. In the IHSA state basketball elimination process there is no tmorrow for a loser and that's the reason there is no such thing as consolation honors.

No Advance Tickets

Principal John Agger has announced there will be no advance sale of tickets and no reserved seats. The JHS tourney manager feels the seating capacity of the gym is large enough to accommodate all who wish to attend the games. Ticket prices for adults is 75 cents and for students, 50 cents. Students must have identification slips issued by their school principal in order to qualify for the 50 cent admission. Activity tickets will serve for identification purposes.

The doors to the Bowl will open at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Fans for Friday's championship contest will be admitted into the gymnasium at 7 p.m.

Radio Coverage

Barney Lewis and Jerry Cassens will be before the 'mikes' for every contest of the regional playoff starting at 6:55 p.m. the opening three nights and at 7:55 for the championship game. The two veteran broadcasters of the WLDS-FM Sports-On-Parade are well versed on regional, sectional and state tournaments, having described the IHSA-backed tournaments since 1948 for the local station.

Should Prove Interesting

The 1960-61 JHS regional is developing into what is expected to be the most interesting battle for survival in a number of years. Many fans feel Winchester and New Berlin hit their season's peak several weeks ago while others feel Jacksonville High and Routt are logical contenders for the crown by virtue of their stellar showings in the past month. In our way of thinking the regional title is nobody's and anybody's right now and the winner will be the one taking advantage of every opportunity. There is no allowance for mistakes at this stage of the year.

Jacksonville followers have every right to claim their Crimsons appear to be ready to resume their role as regional king-pins. In 11 regionals under Coach John Chapman the Jacks have annexed nine titles and have been out of the championship playoff only once, that being last year when they compiled their poorest record of any Chapman quintet, winning only five and losing 18. Jacksonville has never been defeated in an opening regional assignment under Chapman although Jim Bonds' Tigers almost accomplished the feat before yielding, 55-54, in the 1960 edition.

New Berlin, which went on to win the '60 regional via a 47-43 win over Routt, became the only five to ever eliminate a Chapman five in semifinal competition with a 52-50 win in the final eight seconds. Jacksonville appeared to come into its own with the start of the new year and overcame a dismal two win, 10 loss record in the final two months by recording seven wins in ten starts. Another big factor the Crimsons will have is the advantage of the home floor. But this is of minor nature to a club having a good night.

A Strong Contender

Second to Winchester's 21-3 record are Coach Bob Winstead's Routt Rockets, who have amassed 20 wins against five losses. The Rockets have been to the tournament championship altar twice this year but were bridesmaids as they were left at the altar by Pawnee in the Waverly Holiday tourney and by Triopia in the PMSC Conference tournament finals.

Routt has only one player over 5-9 and he is center Ed Carroll, who stands at 6-2. What the Rockets lack in height they more than make up for with a potent fast break and a deadly outshooting attack. If the Rockets don't hit then they are in trouble all the way around. This was true in their biggest setback of the campaign to Jacksonville, especially after they lost Fred Curtis in the third quarter.

As Curtis and Jack Lawless go, so go the Rockets. This theory has held up most of the season although Carroll and Bucky Sullivan have contributed to the well balanced scoring attack. Joe Cors, the fifth man, doesn't shoot often but he has maintained a respectable average. Curtis, a senior deadeye, who can hit from anywhere on the floor, needs but seven points against Waverly to hit the 500 mark for the season. His four-year scoring total is 1,516 which averages out to 14 points a game over a four-year span.

The Rockets haven't had any contact on the hardcourt since walloping Farmersville and when they run into the Scotties with a six-game winning streak at stake Tuesday it'll mark their first game in 11 days. With the exception of the Crimsons, Routt has played more games in the Bowl than any other tourney entry with three tilts.

Winchester has a lone appearance to its credit in Jacksonville High's basketball headquarters this season. The five remaining entries, ISD, Virginia, New Berlin, Waverly and Franklin, will be making their initial debuts in the Bowl this week. As the State Armory is a jinx to the JHS Crimsons the vastness of the Bowl also gives our regional guests pregame jitters especially if they aren't used to the surroundings.

In The Same Boat

Coaches Winstead, Renfro and Dolenc all find themselves in the same boat this week. The regional title has eluded their grasp so far in their brief careers and this crown probably means more to them than all the other accomplishments their squads have compiled. This is Winstead's fifth regional with the Rockets and the best showing any of his four previous squads made was a second place finish to New Berlin last year. Renfro has guided his Winchester crew to three straight Illinois Valley conference tournament crowns and also to the same number of first place trophies in the Winchester Invitational Tourney.

In Renfro's first season, 1959, his Wildcats won practically everything in sight until they bumped into Jacksonville in the regional finals and dropped a 60-39 loss. The Wildcats advanced to the finals with wins over ISD, 68-53, and a sudden-death 53-52 verdict over New Berlin. His team wound up with a 23-6 record.

Winchester really rolled again in the 1959-60 campaign by winning its first 19 starts only to lose its next seven straight before coming into the regional. Tom Flynn's layup gave the Wildcats a 59-57 victory over Virginia in their regional opener last year but they lost to Routt in the semifinals, 61-49, and closed with a 20-8 showing.

This season they took their first 18 games on a victorious note only to have Pittsfield quiet the string before New Berlin and Jacksonville got their chance to throttle the Winchester machine. Unwelcome injuries have been cropping up with regularity the last several weeks and this was bound to have some effect on Winchester's play although there isn't a Wildcat offering this as an excuse. Bill Robinson, who has been averaging 10 points a game, is hobbling around on a bum knee and this marks the second straight year Bill hasn't been up to par for the regional. He didn't get to see action against Roodhouse or Jacksonville this past week and the Wildcats only hope he is ready by Tuesday night. Bill Brockhouse, another stellar performer, has been shelved for three weeks with a severe case of shin-slints and this has affected his rebounding and shot jump which has enabled him to carry a 14-point per game average.

Other injuries: center John Schofield, two sprained ankles; Dewey Savage, bruised hip and infected foot blisters; and guard Eddie Dolen with an acute knee injury. The Wildcats feel if they can overcome some of these minor ailments come next Tuesday then their play will pick up and they'll make a respectable showing as predicted.

Although New Berlin is the defending champion, Coach Tony Dolenc is looking for his first regional trophy as he was an assistant to Bill Hovey last year when the Pretzels defeated Routt in the finals. New Berlin annexed its first regional title in 19 years with victories over Franklin, 50-45; Jacksonville, 52-50, and Routt, 47-43. Springfield stopped the Pretzels in the sectional opener, however, and New Berlin wound up with a 25 win, two loss record.

With Carl Compardo and Ed Harney being the mainstays of this year's team, New Berlin has another strong contender. Besides stopping Winchester the Pretzels also halted Pawnee's 18 game winning streak by a lop-sided margin. There is nothing New Berlin would like more than to bump into Jacksonville again and it will get its chance in all probability if they get by Virginia, whom they'll be meeting for the first time this season Wednesday night.

It looks like a great tournament with any one of the four top seeded aggregations being in line for the sectional run but they have to take Illinois School for Deaf, Virginia, Franklin and Waverly into consideration before making any further plans.

Strange But True

Could a fan predict the outcome by comparing scores? Maybe, but its doubtful. First, Winchester's rating wouldn't hold up if you went by Jacksonville's victory over the Wildcats Friday night. Then Jacksonville loses to Pittsfield in its final game on the regular schedule Saturday. The Saukees also turned back Winchester. Jacksonville earlier defeated Beardstown by 14 points and Beardstown turns around and defeats Pittsfield by 10 points. Winchester hands Jerseyville a 10-point loss and JHS loses to Jerseyville by 17 points. Winchester beats Routt by six points, 51-45, but the Rockets halt New Berlin, 66-63. The Pretzels then beat Winchester, 59-58, on the home court. Routt loses to Pawnee in the Waverly finals and New Berlin smothers Pawnee's 18-game winning streak. At the start of the season JHS dealt Routt a 19-point setback but don't look for the same deficit if they should meet again. Basketball is just as unpredictable as the scores are and have little bearing on the real issue at hand this week.

Team Briefs, Tournament Rosters, Additional Tourney Data

School—Winchester Nickname—Wildcats
Coach—Jack Renfro Principal—Russell Wilson
Won 21 Lost 3

Coach Jack Renfro's Winchester Wildcats enter the tournament with the finest won-lost record of the eight competing squads, and until about two weeks ago were considered by many as the team to beat. Now that the Wildcats have been weighted with injuries and the loss of one of their starters their chances of remaining on top at the finish seem darkened.

Winchester has compiled a fine 21-3 mark and own victories over three of the Regional entries, ISD, Routt, and Virginia. The Wildcats finished first in the Illinois Valley Conference, walked off with their second consecutive IVL Tournament, and captured the championship of the 39th Winchester Invitational Tournament for the third straight time.

Bill Brockhouse and John Schofield are the mainstays of the Wildcat squad and each possess a 14 point average per game, with only one point separating the duo. Brockhouse also leads the team in rebounds with 10 per contest and is one of the five lettermen from last year's fine entry. Renfro, a Southern Illinois graduate, has a fine 64-17 mark in his three year tenure at the Scott county school and is a native of Collinsville, Ill.

The knee injury of Bill Robinson was a big blow to Winchester's hopes and with Brockhouse suffering from shin splints and Schofield hobbled with weak ankles, they are anything but in the peak of condition. Nevertheless, the Wildcats are a potent outfit, and under Renfro's able leadership will no doubt be a contender for the Regional trophy.

School—Jacksonville Nickname—Crimsons
Coach—John Chapman Principal—John Agger
Won 9 Lost 13

The Jacksonville High School Crimsons must be given a nod as the factual favorite to grab the Regional crown for a number of reasons. First, they have the best height in the race, second, they are the perennial favorites, and third, the Crimsons play an admittedly strong brand of competition. The Jacks won nine of twenty-two ball games and met only two of the regional entries during regular season's play. They made Routt a victim in a 64-45 clash which was a little surprising to many followers of local activity. Still Jacksonville High has two big men and an average of almost 5-11 per man.

Chip Baldwin and Bill Sims have taken over the starting guard positions and are capable scorers and ball handlers. Ken Norton, 6-3, and Rich Sweeney, 6-5, alternate at center and give the Crimsons that added strength on the boards. The forward positions are held down by Ron Tomhave and Ron Yates. Yates, a 5-10 sophomore has developed into a fine scorer and an extremely strong rebounder.

The Jacks' haven't fared too well in tournament activity this year, and finished at the bottom of the Quincy and Pontiac Holiday Invitationals. They lost eleven of their first fifteen contests but have been progressing rapidly with victories in four of their last seven games. They reached a tremendous output against Kincaid with a 105 point output to cap a five game winning streak.

If anyone is to give the Crimsons a stern battle for the first place trophy they will have to deal with the devastating fast break and their strong board control, typical of a Chapman coached squad.

School—Routt Nickname—Rockets
Coach—Bob Winstead Principal—E. S. Plichta
Won 20 Lost 5

Coach Bob Winstead's Routt Rockets are no doubt the shortest entry in the local tourney, but the Rockets are short in size only. They have completed their season activity with an impressive 20-5 won-lost mark and were nudged for the championship for the second straight year in the Waverly Invitational. The Rockets won the PMSC conference race with a perfect 8-0 record, but were defeated by Triopia for Championship honors in the conference tourney.

A complete article could be written about the Rocket personnel and it would be full of richly deserved adjectives. Routt has a first five that averages slightly over 5-9 in height but their tremendous over-all speed and determination has powered them past many a potent foe. The squad is led by everyone's star, Fred Curtis. Curtis leads in points scored, highest average, and rebounds per contest. Fred has scored 493 points in the 24 contests for a 20.5 average and has grabbed off 13 rebounds per game, while being only 5-8 in height. Ed "Flip" Carroll is averaging 12.8 per contest and is second in rebounding. Jack Lawless is right behind Carroll in scoring with a 12.3 average.

The Rockets have faced six of their seven foes in the Regional tourney and own victories over four of them. Routt won over ISD, Virginia, New Berlin and Franklin while suffering defeats at the hands of Winchester and Jacksonville High.

Routt is certainly capable of capturing the top spot, but much will be determined by their ability to play the boards with the bigger teams. They have more spirit than any squad that Winstead has coached in five years and with the accurate shooting eye which they have displayed, could be the Regional champ.

School—New Berlin Nickname—Pretzels
Coach—Tony Dolenc Principal—John A. Marr
Won 18 Lost 6

Coach Tony Dolenc, who is in his first season as head coach and his third at New Berlin, is going with his Pretzels to repeat as Jacksonville Regional champs. Dolenc was an assistant to Bill Hovey last year when New Berlin copped its first regional crown in 19 years by beating Routt, 47-43. The Pretzel coach is justified in going with his club to win as no one team in the playoff stands out as a sure-fire bet until after the showdown this Friday night at eight o'clock.

New Berlin at the beginning of the year showed two veterans in Compardo and Harney from last year's sectional team, surrounded by inexperience. The Pretzels have been an up and down team most of the year, but have reached some height of consistency. Within that consistency New Berlin has defeated some of the area's best: Pawnee, Glenwood and Winchester, 59-58. Likewise they have lost to some of the area's best: Pittsfield, Quincy and Routt.

All in all, the Pretzels feel they are ready for the regional, mentally and physically. Teamwise, it has been an interesting year for Dolenc, an Auburn native and a graduate of Western Illinois University.

In Carl Compardo and Ed Harney, New Berlin has two of the finest players in this vicinity. The two are interchangeable, position wise and adapt themselves quite readily. They have been hitting in the double figures all season and have controlled the boards against most of the opposition.

Compardo, who has been a standout all four years, has a 20.8 point game average and is second to Harney in the rebounding department. Harney has been carrying a 10 point game mark while averaging 14 rebounds a contest. Rick Riess, a junior guard, is the club's third high scorer with an eight point game figure.

New Berlin is definitely a regional contender and in all probability the Pretzels will run into Jacksonville High in the second game of the semifinals Thursday night. New Berlin is the only team in 11 years to ever keep a John Chapman JHS quintet out of the championship contest and this happened last year in the semifinals, 52-50.

School—Virginia Nickname—Redbirds
Coach—John Murray Principal—Mason Holmes
Won 10 Lost 12

The Virginia Redbirds suffer from a lack of good height, but sport a 10-12 record and gave Routt and Winchester a run for their money before bowing to the Rockets 50-43, and Winchester 50-45. Coach John Murray has four lettermen with only Gary Reichert topping the six foot mark. Reichert leads the Redbirds with a 15.3 average per game, and Reg Velten is next with a 12.1 average. Reichert is top man in rebounds with 12 per contest and Will Norris has picked off 10.

Murray is completing his second year at Virginia, and probably traveled the furthest to reach this area school. John attended High School in Buffalo, N. Y., and graduated from Notre Dame University. In his two years at the Redbird helm, Murray has compiled a 23-22 record.

Besides Reichert, Velten and Norris, the Redbirds have Merle Ring and Max Webster to round out the starting five. Reichert is the only senior on the ten man tournament team and Murray certainly must have one of the youngest entries.

Murray feels that the Regional will be a real tight affair and rates any one of four squads capable of walking off with the championship. What ever the outcome, Virginia will make its presence known before the fans have forgotten the results.

School—Waverly Nickname—Scotties
Coach—Woody Derickson Principal—Vernon Hopper
Won 8 Lost 13

The Waverly Scotties have had their ups and downs through the past 21 game schedule but have come a long way from the original inexperienced squad that Coach Woody Derickson was faced with the start of the year. The Scotties captured a surprising first place trophy in the Ashland Invitational, and have compiled a respectable 8-13 over-all mark.

Seniors Larry Noble, Jay Dunseth, and Jim Summers are frontrunners for Waverly, with Noble possessing a 12, Summers a 10, and Dunseth an 8 point average. Summers also leads the team in rebounds with 17 per contest, while Steve Rhea and John Ford follow up with 10.

The Scotties are not considered a definite threat for high honors in the Regional, but will probably give every team they play a good battle. They have five lettermen from last year, but only one played very much ball. Waverly has met New Berlin and Franklin in regular scheduled play and were downed by New Berlin 69-61, while defeating Franklin 65-47.

Derickson is a graduate of McKendree College and Waverly is his first coaching venture. Another Collinsville product, Woody rates the Jacksonville High Crimsons as the team to beat.

School—Illinois Deaf Nickname—Tigers
Coach—Jim Bonds
Superintendent—Kenneth Mangan
Won 3 Lost 18

An inexperienced Illinois School for Deaf quintet will in all probability end a losing season Tuesday night when the Tigers run into favored Winchester in the opening game of the JHS Regional at 7 p.m. The Wildcats blasted ISD January 31, 75-34.

The Tigers and Franklin have lost the same number of games, 18 apiece, which is the lowest output of any regional team but ISD has one more victory to its credit than does Franklin. After losing their first 11 starts the Tigers got into the win column for the first time by stopping Perry in the PMSC Tournament. ISD claimed its other two triumphs at the expense of Missouri Deaf and Indiana Deaf during the month of February.

ISD's other tournament appearance came in the Louisiana, Mo., Invitational where the Tigers placed fifth.

This is the first losing season for an ISD quintet over a long period of years but the 1960-61 crew has youth in its favor and Coach Jim Bonds looks for vast improvement in the next few years as he loses only senior Edwin Carlson from this year's club.

Coach Bonds, a Chapin native and graduate of Illinois College, is in his second year as head coach and his fourth season with Illinois School for Deaf.

School—Franklin Nickname—Flashes
Coach—Jim Bower Principal—Harry L. Fitzhugh
Won 2 Lost 18

The 1960-61 basketball season has been a fruitless one for Coach Jim Bower's Franklin Flashes although that may be the improper adjective to describe a lot of hard work and plenty of desire on the hardcourt.

Bower, who is one of the nicest guys in the business, has a young squad lacking varsity experience and this factor is responsible for the two win, 18 loss record. This, by the way, is the lowest number of wins for a team in the tourney field.

Things should be a lot better next season as Bower loses only one player. He is Jerry Smith, a 5-11 senior center. There are a number of promising newcomers that should fill the bill next year and nothing would please the Franklin mentor more.

The Notre Dame High and University of Illinois graduate believes Jacksonville High is the team to beat and the Crimsons are his opening foe in the regional Wednesday night.

Franklin dropped its first start in the Waverly Holiday Tournament but triumphed once in two appearances in the Winchester Invitational.

Danny Crow, a junior, is the team's leading scorer with a 10.5 average followed by Jerry Allen's 6.3 point per game mark. Crow is also the club's leading rebounder.

The last time Jacksonville and Franklin hooked up in an opening game of the regional came in 1956 with the Flashes coming out on the short end, 78-48.

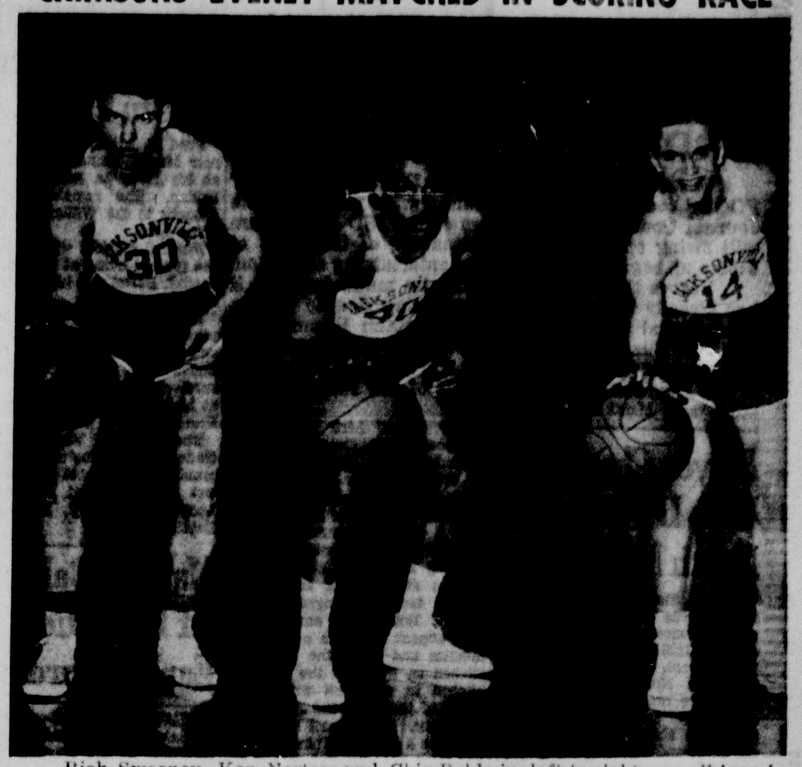
Sixteen winners will be determined at the following sectional sites: Springfield, Quincy, Wood River, Decatur, Carbondale, Eldorado, Ottawa, Peoria, Bridgeport, Dixon, East Moline, Arlington Heights, Chicago, Urbana, Blue Island and Hinsdale. Sectional play takes place March 8, 9, and 10.

Eight winners from these eight first-round sites will advance to the state finals at Champaign March 17-18. First round games will be played March 14.

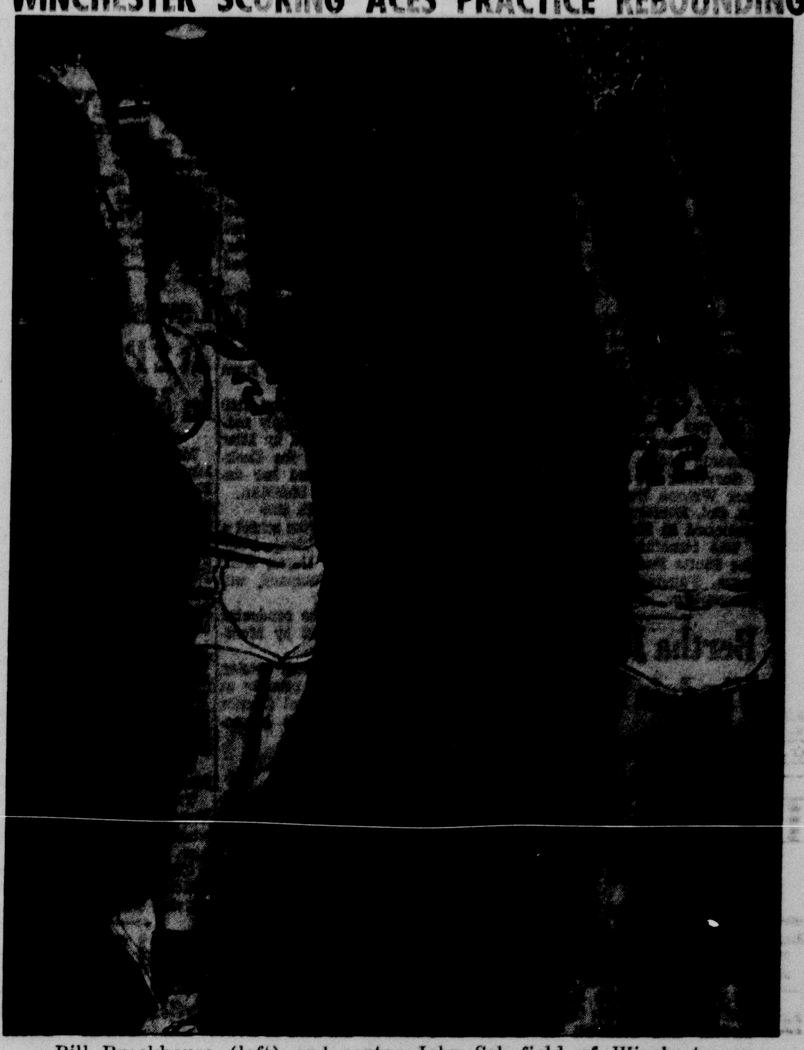
First round centers: Decatur High School, Decatur; Dyche Stadium, Evanston; Hinsdale High School, Hinsdale; Bradley University, Peoria; Rock Island Senior High, Rock Island; Springfield High School, Springfield, and Frankfort High School, West Frankfort.

CRIMSONS EVENLY MATCHED IN SCORING RACE



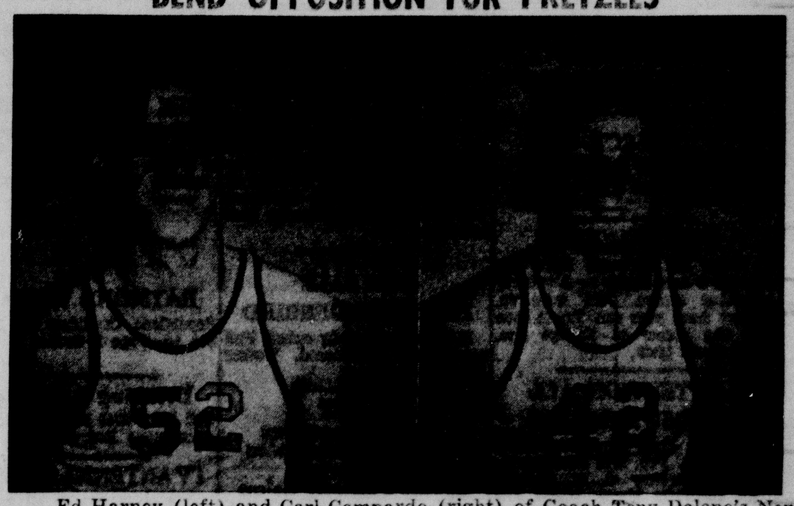
Rich Sweeney, Ken Norton and Chip Baldwin, left to right, are all in unison with the basketballs and the same would hold true for them in the individual scoring race. Sweeney and Norton currently hold a slender margin over Baldwin. Many observers have watched the Crimsons improve with the new year and are tabbing Coach John Chapman's five to come through with flying colors in the regional.

WINCHESTER SCORING ACES PRACTICE REBOUNDING



Bill Brockhouse (left) and center John Schofield of Winchester were stopped in mid-air while brushing up on their rebounding this past week as the Wildcats prepared an all-out attack to live up to their reputation as the favored team in the Jacksonville Regional. The two stalwarts are the team's leading scorers with 14 points a game averages. They are also 1-2 in the rebounding category. Brockhouse has seen limited action the past few weeks because of shin-splints. Schofield has been doctoring a couple of sprained ankles and the pair hope to be physically fit for the 7:00 p.m. tip-off against Illinois School for Deaf Tuesday night.

BEND OPPOSITION FOR PRETZELS



Ed Harney (left) and Carl Compardo (right) of Coach Tony Dolenc's New Berlin team have been bending the opposition for the Pretzels this season with steady shooting and rebounding. Compardo has the highest point average in the tournament field, maintaining a 20.8 point clip per outing while Harney has averaged 10 points a game in 24 starts. New Berlin has won 18 games and lost six. Three of the defeats came in the Pittsfield Holiday tournament. Harney and Compardo are 1-2 in the individual board race with 14 and 9 rebounds a game, respectively. The two were instrumental in New Berlin's first regional crown in 19 years last year.

Backstage Wizardry Precedes Opening Of 'Fantasy Of Foods'

Tuesday is opening day for the FANTASY OF FOODS cooking school, a public service project of the Journal Courier Co. The doors of the ISD Auditorium will swing open for the homemakers of this area at 6:30 p.m. beginning four days of entertaining education.

Before the school has officially made its bow, it has already had a fantastic beginning due to the organizational wizardry of Miss Carolann Hammersten and Miss Elizabeth McKellin, the home economists who will conduct the school. Both young ladies are members of the Homemakers' Service staff of the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

They arrived here with several trunkloads of equipment for use in the school. As they move from one city to another throughout the nation, Miss Hammersten and Miss McKellin must pack and then unpack a thousand pounds of cookery and culinary equipment. It's amazing how they get all those platters and cooking and serving utensils neatly arranged in the trunks. It's just as amazing how they unpack them in a matter of minutes and have the back-stage kitchen as well as the on-stage kitchen in readiness well in advance of the time the school gets underway. For most people it would be a gigantic Chinese puzzle. For these girls it's just part of the job.

Twenty-five Gift baskets of food items will be given away each night. The gift baskets, imported by the Journal Courier company from Mexico, will contain: a box of Climalene; can of Milnot; bottle of Cue barbecue sauce; 1 lb. package of Meadolake margarine; can of Chili Man Friday Chili; package of Crane potato chips; loaf of Lucky Boy bread; a coupon good for a package of frozen foods from Morgan County Locker Service; Eskimo Pies from the City Garden; 5 lbs. of Robin Hood Flour; a carton of Coca Cola, a bottle of milk from Hudson Dairy; and the following foods from Red & White—Red & White Kidney beans, Red & White Pineapple - Grapefruit drink, Red & White regular oats, box Red & White salt, and Red & White Apricot halves.

Many other gifts, including the dishes prepared each day, will be given away. They will include candy from Andes Candies, flowers from Rieman, apples from Harold's Market.

The Rose LP Gas Company, 1100 East State street, will supply major appliances to be used by Miss Carolann Hammersten, the Cooking School lecturer, and her assistant, Miss Elizabeth McKellin.

Grand Prize Worth $239

On the final night of the school a grand prize, a $239.95 Norge Four Way Automatic Gas Dryer, from the Rose LP Gas Company, will be given away.

A style show will be conducted during the intermission by Montgomery Ward.

A few tickets for each session are available over the counter at the office of the Journal Courier Co. Mail orders cannot be accepted.

Driver Charged With DWI After North Main Crash

Ivan E. Stewart, 31, of 857 North Prairie, was charged with driving while intoxicated following an accident at 11:25 p.m. Friday on North Main Street. Stewart was headed north on North Main when he struck the rear of a parked truck owned by Dohrn Truck Lines. Stewart's auto was damaged on the front and right side; the truck received damage to the left rear bumper and tail light.

He was subsequently released on $1,000 bond set in the court of Justice Charles K. Warzar.

City police attended at the accident. Police use of the intoximeter has been the basis of dropping charges in several instances and convictions in others.

To Observe Heart Sunday Today In Winchester Area

By Dorothy Sauer
(Winchester Correspondent)
(Telephone Pioneer 2-3439)

WINCHESTER—Today is Heart Sunday in Winchester and in all areas in Scott County as well as all over the United States.

All over the county volunteers will visit their neighbors to call for Heart Fund contributions and to distribute health-saving information in the early part of this afternoon. The volunteers will leave at each home a pamphlet telling how to protect children from Rheumatic Fever, forerunner of Rheumatic Heart Disease, and providing the latest information about heart attacks, high blood pressure and strokes.

"In addition to distributing this important information on new advances in the fight against the heart diseases," Mrs. Harry Lair, Scott County Heart Drive Chairman, said yesterday, "The Heart Fund volunteer gives each citizen an opportunity to play a personal role in the crusade against the nation's Number 1 health enemy."

"Your gift, hich you can seal in a Heart Sunday envelope the volunteer will hand you, will strike a blow at the diseases which took moe than 900,000 American lives last year—54% of the total number of deaths in this country," Mrs. Lair advised and urged each family to "Give generously for every heart in your home."

Heart Sunday marks the peak of the 1961 Heart Fund Campaign which the Scott Heart Association commenced on February 1. Proceeds make it possible to expand the research, education and community service program against the heart and blood vessel diseases.

The volunteers will leave preaddressed envelopes for families that are not at home so that they may readily mail their contributions to the Scott Heart Chairman, Mrs. Lair.

PTA Program

The February meeting of the Winchester Parent Teacher Organization was opened on Thursday evening of this week with the pledge to the flag and the PTA prayer. The business meeting following was in charge of Pete Spangler, president.

The program for the evening was entitled "Let's Hear Our Young Voices" and was directed by the vocal instructor, Mrs. Charlotte Heaton. Mrs. Heaton presented to the parents assembled a mixed chorus group from the 7th and 8th grades, who, as she explained, really wanted to sing and had the ability to sing. The mixed chorus group meets once each week for rehearsals. They sang two folk songs and three religious selections for their audience. Piano solos were played by Sue Anne Sauer and Gloria Grindheim, students of Mrs. Heaton.

In the business portion of the meeting which preceded the program the treasurer's report of a $670.43 balance was read. It was stated that the membership goal had again been attained with a total of 323 members for this year. The Winchester PTA received a Silver Leaf Certificate just recently for attaining their membership goal for last year. Mr. Spangler appointed a nominating committee of Mrs. J. M. Schnake, Mrs. Russell Norman and Mrs. Don Cox to select a slate of officers and report at the next meeting.

Announcement was made that at the recent board meeting it was decided to hold no May meeting due to so many conflicts. The president spoke on the lunch program and invited the parents to come eat with the children at any day they chose to try for themselves the meals that are being served.

Because of complaints the president stated he had gone to the cafeteria several times, unannounced, and eaten with the students. He was glad to report that the meals served were excellent and noted in particular that when the better meals of turkey, chicken and trimmings were served the children left more on their plates than when served the peanut butter or hot dog sandwiches.

It was voted to pay $80.25 to the "Quarters for Headquarters" fund which will enable the state headquarters to erect a new building in Springfield.

It was decided that as the PTA project for the year the local organization would purchase a new 16 mm. Belle and Howell movie projector with the PTA to pay $300 and the Board of Education to pay the approximately $120 remaining. Scott Longenbaugh, principal, and Ted Pemberton, elementary teacher, are in charge of the purchasing of this new piece of equipment.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lashmet were re-appointed as representatives from the PTA on the Youth Center organization for this year. In the room count Mrs. Gillham's room was high with Mrs. Thomas' room as second.

Mrs. Paul Gillham, teacher at the school, explained to the parents gathered the two bills that are up before the legislature pertaining to the schools. The first is House Bill 75 which is a bill to create a commission to study the necessity or desirability of amending the revenue article and to recommend such revisions.

The bill provides for a commission of 15 members, an appropriation of $10,000 and is to report by May 1. The second bill, House Bill 107, pertains to transfer of $5,000,000 from the driver education fund to the general revenue fund.

Amended to add $100,000 and transfer from driver education fund to the common school fund. Moved to third reading: passage expected after the legislature reconvenes. Mrs. Gillham asked that parents write to both our representatives and senator concerning this second bill, most especially, as it is to our advantage. The addition of this transfer of funds as explained in the bill will make it possible for the distributive fund to pay the full amount of the claims of the local school districts. Mrs. Gillham stated that anyone could obtain the addresses of the senator and representatives by calling her.

Following the meeting a coffee hour was held in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Evans. The chaperones were on hand and took charge of the children present throughout the evening.

"Room For You"

The "Room For You" class of the First Baptist church in Winchester met Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kunzeman with 16 members present. Mrs. Robert Worrall, class president, presided at the business meeting. Roll call, "Your Favorite Church Hymn," was answered by the group singing a verse of each. Mrs. Earl Boston read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Rev. Oscar Grindheim, pastor of the church, led the group in prayer and devotions were given by Ernest Kunzeman.

Following the meeting games were played, led by Mrs. Leo McGuire. Robert Worrell showed pictures they had taken when they visited Green Lake, Wis., and gave some of the highlights of their visit.

Refreshments were served by the committee at the close of the evening. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Worrell, Mr. and Mrs. George Simpson, Mrs. Leo McGuire and the hostess, Mrs. Kunzeman.

March Of Dimes

The Scott County Polio Board has announced a total of $1,309 was received for the 1961 March of Dimes drives in the county. Of this total $170.57 was from organizations throughout the county; $178.82 from business houses in the county; $179.50 was taken in from donations by the children in all schools in the county; $600.39 was received through the March of Dimes mailers; $64.71 was realized when donations were taken at sports events and the Mother's March chalked up another $115.11.

Editorial Comment

Need Shoring Up

It is an old story that President Charles de Gaulle of France has his own ideas about his country's relationship to NATO. Unhappily, it is a continuing story, with each succeeding chapter growing grimmer.

Thoughtful statesmen and diplomats, appreciative of France's individual aspirations but deeply wedded to NATO as a barrier to Communist advance, feel that De Gaulle now is going to extremes.

Some even have suggested severely that he has reached the point where he is trying to make NATO serve France's narrow national interest alone, rather than to have France contribute through NATO to the general safety of Western Europe.

Of late years, NATO has been so often in crisis that it has hardly known normalcy. Secretary General Spaak's resignation was at least in big part a protest against member nations, including France, which would not honor their military commitments.

De Gaulle of course has long since withdrawn the French Mediterranean navy from NATO. More recently he has been trying to make the French military command wholly independent of NATO authority.

Certainly De Gaulle has many grave problems of his own. But he has exhibited enough statesmanship in other fields for it to be plain that he must understand NATO's life and death need for a full co-operative effort.

That he refuses to make this effort can mean either that he allows his best judgment to be blinded occasionally by his devotion to France, or that he really does not believe in NATO's value.

Only the most delicate diplomatic approaches can possibly cure any emotional blindness.

But if the general needs persuading as to NATO's merit, President Kennedy already has begun that process by stoutly reasserting America's faith in the organization and pledging it more, not less, U.S. support.

Inevitably, our assurance of support must lead to settlement of the pending issue whether or not we should give NATO a nuclear striking power. The Eisenhower administration tentatively agreed to that last December, but no final decision has come since.

NATO has lived too long in the half light of inadequate support and weak conviction. Either it must be built up by all concerned as a positive asset for security, or it should be scrapped.

If the intent is to build, the first effort must be to put that old building block, Charles de Gaulle, back into place as a full supporting pillar.

New Field For Scientists

"Very frequently when a problem comes up for public discussion and government decision, scientists have lived with it already for many years. Some of them at least will have thought more deeply about the political implications than the politicians who now have to make the decision."

So says Dr. Hans A. Bethe of Cornell University, who urges that scientists take an active role in aiding the wise solution of political problems. Some of the qualifications they can bring to bear are analytical training, a feeling for numbers and a history of international cooperation and understanding.

Educational Footnote

No more logical argument could be given to teen-agers contemplating quitting school than a report by the U.S. Employment Service. In the midst of a recession in which 5.5 million workers are unemployed, nearly 18,000 jobs went begging last month for lack of qualified applicants. They included engineers, social workers, draftsmen, skilled trades of all kinds, accountants, librarians, to name only a few.

"See What Happens When You Let People Vote?"

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unless you like apple sauce, forget the guesses about Richard M. Nixon's presidential intentions.

What the highly ambitious former vice president does depends on how he figures his chances. He has another three years to examine them.

Now he probably doesn't know himself whether he'll try again. Too many things can happen by 1964 to change his mind, one way or the other.

One thing is sure: Unless the Democrats make a total mess of it, he will never be able to run again under circumstances as favorable for him as those of 1960.

They were so favorable they looked ideal:

Eight years in the public mind as vice president, overwhelming Republican endorsement, and the help and blessing of the highly popular President Eisenhower.

If he couldn't win with all that going for him, and he didn't, both he and his party will have to think hard before he puts on his track suit again.

His silence since November was normal. He would have been blamed for bad taste if he had sounded off before President Kennedy even got started.

Nixon is expected to join a West Coast law firm. He may start making speeches in a few months. That would be normal, too.

As the Republicans' presidential candidate in 1960, he is titular head of the party and will be expected to talk out until the 1964 campaign.

But his standing in the party seems so uncertain that even his role as titular head has been challenged. Not by Eisenhower. He says that's Nixon's right position.

But New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has already called Nixon leader of the party in name only. He has declared for a collective leadership.

Rockefeller, Nixon's only real, if only temporary, rival in 1960, appears the one most likely to challenge any ambitions he has in 1964.

Besides, many organization Republicans are teed-off politically at the former vice president for various reasons.

For example: They say that he wasn't tough enough in the 1960 campaign; that he listened too much to those around him and not enough to the organization men.

Rockefeller will be in a pretty position to grab for the 1964 Republican nomination if he wins reelection as New York's governor by a big margin:

He'll not only be in the public eye constantly until 1964 but will control New York's big delegate vote to the next convention.

This prospect bothers some Nixon admirers.

They seem to think he must offset such a situation by running for the governorship of California in 1962. That would give him publicity and Republican delegates.

There's one argument against this: If Nixon runs for the governorship and loses, he's a dead political duck

The most important unknown factor in Nixon's future is this:

Will Kennedy be truly successful in his first four-year term? If he is and runs again, the chances of both Nixon and Rockefeller will be vastly diminished.

'Last Hair' Isn't Last Straw

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Written For NEA

A friend of mine told a poignant little story of a man whose hair was thinning. Day by day he looked more and more like Yul Brynner. At last he had but one hair left which he carefully massaged, shampooed, nutured, combed and cherished. Inevitably there came the morning when he awoke to the disastrous sight of his one hair there on the pillow. He looked at it in dismay and said, "What now? I'm bald!"

As you laugh-or-weep with this fellow, you know that we've treated life in this way.

Looking back, we can recognize that there had been a gradual disintegration of our relationships with Cuba. Looking back upon the eruptions in Africa we can understand how good will between the races has been eroded. There are drifts toward war and drifts toward peace. There are drifts toward health and drifts toward illness. These are drifts toward cowardice or drifts toward bravery. We need the integrity to see, the wisdom to judge, and the courage to act.

The old story of David and Goliath is a classic of its kind. Here was a militarist who had been successful by the exercise of his muscles. He towered above all and he could afford to treat the petty challenges to his strength. How could he judge the drift toward his downfall? How could a man who had placed his faith in his armor, understand the drama of a boy with a slingshot?

For Goliath, the end was sudden and unexpected. In retrospect, one can easily see the old drift toward defeat.

On every side, there are those who presume to know all of the answers to all the problems that beset us. They announce that they have God's latest word concerning the times in which we live.

Since there are no easy problems it is obvious that there are no easy answers. Yet there is the knowledge that if a man has the courage to confront himself with honesty, and explore the meaning of some great convictions, he won't panic when he gets down to the last hair.

He may be able to analyze his situation in the light of the God who can count the hairs of our head.

What Will It Cost You to Travel 'New Frontiers'?

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — You'll have to wait till about March 1 to find out what the Kennedy administration's New Frontiers program is going to cost you these next 18 months. You'll get the bad news just before sending in your first installment on 1961 income taxes before March 15, which should make you feel just great.

Early March is when President Kennedy will send Congress his first budget message. It's something brand new in American history. No other president has ever sent Congress such a message within two months after inauguration.

Eisenhower didn't do it when he took office in 1953. Truman had already submitted the budget for the next fiscal year. The Eisenhower administration didn't revise it immediately. Cabinet members and agency heads individually took new budget figures to Congressional appropriation committees. And it was August, 1953, before anyone could add up the figures.

WHAT THEY SHOWED was that, whereas Truman had proposed a $78 billion budget in January, the Eisenhower administration had cut it to $72 billion by August. When the fiscal year ended June 30, 1954, the actual spending figure was only $67 billion. There was a $3 billion deficit for the year, however, because of a $7 billion cut in Treasury receipts from the expiration of wartime tax rate increases.

The Kennedy administration isn't expected to pile up an economy record like that during its first year and a half in office. But just what it will do with the $79 billion spending figure estimated for the year ending next June 30 and the $80 billion for the full year after that is guesswork.

Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon says the Eisenhower estimates for this year are off by a billion dollars. Spending will be half a billion higher than estimated and tax receipts will be half a billion lower, from the recession.

SOME REPUBLICAN CRITICS are claiming that Dillon's spending estimate is way low. But nobody really knows because the Kennedy spending programs are still pretty vague. They haven't been reduced to legislation you can pin a price tag on.

Five days after the inauguration Budget Director David E. Bell asked all government agency heads appointed by Kennedy to submit revised spending estimates for the remainder of this fiscal year and the next.

Until all these new figures are in and added up, then approved or disapproved by the White House, nobody knows what Kennedy's new budgets will look like. A lid has been clamped on giving out individual agency estimates.

Recently, an effort was made to start drafting a new budget message for the President to send Congress. But without figures, it was something of an exercise in futility.

It may still be something like that, even when they get it finished. For on Feb. 3, when the President sent Congress his special message on economic recovery, he specified that if the program had not produced the desired results within 75 days, he would re-examine the situation and perhaps submit new proposals. That would be April 18. The whole business may be repeated then.

In the meantime, Kennedy's statement to the National Industrial Conference Board meeting here—that the government is virtually powerless to combat inflation—puts still another dimension on the business recession and recovery programs.

The Eisenhower administration found out the hard way it couldn't do anything to combat inflation, either. It had a Cabinet committee on price stabilization and economic growth functioning under Vice President Nixon for a couple of years.

This group accomplished nothing. Eventually the inflationary pressures subsided and a great victory was claimed for sound fiscal policies enabling the business cycle to recover.

BUT THERE IS ANOTHER SIDE to any oversimplified statement that the government can do nothing to combat inflation. Government can contribute to inflation by overspending and excessive deficit financing over long periods. If the revised Kennedy budgets go into that in a big way, hang onto your hats.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

TOKYO (AP)—Edd Byrnes runs a comb through his golden locks and makes a crack to Roger Smith. But instead of hep Hollywood chatter, it comes out Japanese.

This is a shock to the American visitor, but it is old stuff to Japanese TV fans. American shows draw big audiences among home viewers; a recent survey showed 10 U. S. programs in the top 20 ratings. Steadily rising in popularity, especially with the younger crowd, is "77 Sunset Strip."

Westerns are a special favorite with Japanese audiences. Among them: "Wagon Train," "Laramie," "Annie Oakley," "Rawhide," "Rifleman," "Bonanza." Strangely, the No. 1 show in the states, "Gunsmoke," is not as well liked here.

Nearly all of the filmed series are dubbed in Japanese. Exceptions are a few comedy shows, including "I Love Lucy." The reason is that the humor doesn't translate easily and has to be explained by titles.

American shows can be extremely popular in Japan, but not all of them are sure-fire. "Private Secretary" was a flop because the Japanese couldn't conceive the idea of an aggressive working woman like the one Ann Sothern played.

"Dragnet" never caught on, perhaps because the Japanese did not dig the Jack Webb style of underplaying. Yet "Highway Patrol," less successful in the U. S., is a big hit here. Reason: Less subtlety and more action.

Japanese were disappointed in the June Allyson Show because she acted only as hostess in many of the dramas. They figure if an actress has her name on the program, she should appear in it.

TV critics tell me it would be well not to peddle oriental-type shows here. Such a series as "Hong Kong" would be laughed off the air because of Hollywood's conception of what the Far East is like.

Actually, less than half of the American product is suitable for offering here, and fewer than that can be chosen. The government restricts imported shows to 5 hours per channel each week. The limit may be raised soon, and all restrictions may vanish if Japan achieves free trade by 1962, as planned.

Useful Work Best Tonic For Aging Mind and Body

BY MARIE DAERR

"Active housewives attend the funerals of their idle, retired husbands."

Delegates to the recent White House Conference on Aging heard this from Dr. George E. Burch, who thinks women are a lot luckier than men when it comes to the present customs on work.

Dr. Burch, professor of medicine at Tulane University, pointed out that the always-at-hand work in a home is of such a nature that the housewife can continue with household duties until her health fails almost completely.

"She can work leisurely and vary the physical load to meet her capabilities and state of health at the moment," Dr. Burch said. "However, the work is always there as a stimulus to keep her constantly active, even in her old age."

Dr. Burch urged strongly that doctors, not employers, decide whether a man should stay on the job.

"It is difficult, if not impossible, to justify firing a normal, vigorously healthy man of 65 years because of a general rule of mandatory retirement," Dr. Burch said.

The doctor believes the best tonic for mind and body is useful, productive and appreciated work. He thinks the medical profession is well able to judge the work capacity and the work needs of man.

"Work is prescribed for patients by the best physicians with the same therapeutic expectations as for the most potent drugs given orally or by needle," Dr. Burch said. "Work stimulates man's physiologic functions, keeps him 'alive' and active and enables him to overcome better the physiologic forces of aging and disease which tend to produce atrophy and deterioration."

Dr. Burch thinks 65-year-olds should have free choice as to whether they are to stay on the job or retire—at least on a year-to-year basis.

"The worker as well as the employer may want to obtain an inventory of the employe's health to learn if work is advisable," Dr. Burch said. "If there are no disturbances in his mental or physical health, the worker should be allowed and encouraged to go on working without penalty.

"If he wants to retire, the person should not only be allowed to do so, but should be helped and instructed in detail as to how he may best use his time to achieve a long, healthy and happy life in his remaining years.

"All too often, old men merely wait for death and even speculate on the nature of its occurrence."

No Food Price Dip Is in Sight

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Written for NEA

Because of higher food and housing costs, the U.S. Consumer Index rose to a record in December. The forecast for easing off of prices is "little or no change." Therefore, the American housewife can keep her food budget under control only by more careful buying based on a wider knowledge of comparative prices and seasonal bargains.

Every month, the U.S. Department of Agriculture publishes a list of food in plentiful supply that month. The more plentiful foods are, the more reasonable prices for them should be. That is why housewives, trying to beat rising food costs, should study these lists and purchase as many items on the list as possible for their family meals.

The list for March includes eggs, milk and milk products (cheese, ice cream, cottage cheese) cabbage and rice. Also dates, peanuts and peanut products, canned ripe olives and cranberry products.

Eggs, an economy source of top quality protein, are the most important item on that March list. With meatless meals popular during the Lenten season, eggs can become a factor in reducing or maintaining at the present level, the family overall food costs.

Consumers on a low salt diet will welcome a new seasoned salt substitute now on the market. Comes in 1⅝-ounce shaker top jar (50 grams) for about 63 cents. This excellent seasoned salt substitute adds flavor to foods although it is dietetically sodium free.

According to the Food and Drug Administration requirements, any product containing 20 miligrams of sodium or less per 100 grams is considered dietetically sodium free.

FYI: To answer inquiries, seasoned salt substitute is by Adolph's.

Under Kennedy Plan Capital Could Rule Feed Grains' Market

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration's new feed grain program now before Congress would put Uncle Sam into virtually complete control of the nation's markets for corn, oats, barley and sorghum grains.

This control might well carry over into other products, including wheat, vegetable oil crops, hogs and beef cattle.

The program is designed to end overproduction of the feed grains, boost grower incomes and reduce government spending on farm plans. It has three key features—a boost in price supports for corn for growers placing 20 to 40 per cent of their feed grain acreages into conservation uses; a boost in soybean supports to encourage farmers to divert additional feed grain land to that crop; and authority for the government to dump surpluses on markets to punish farmers who do not cooperate with the program.

Could Rule Market

It is largely this latter provision that would put the grain markets under the government's thumb. Under present law, the government may not sell its grains for less than 105 per cent of the price support rate plus handling charges.

With the proposed $1.20 a bushel support for corn in effect, the government could sell none of this grain on the market under present law for less than around $1.28 to $1.30.

Thus, there is room for the markets themselves to determine prices below this government sales price.

Under the Kennedy administration proposal, the government could sell corn, for example, as low as $1.05 a bushel, or 15 cents below the proposed support rate and 23 to 25 cents below its present minimum sales price.

Could Fix Price

Under this authority, the government itself would be in a position to determine the market price within the probable price limits that would prevail under a free market system.

This plan was advanced with the idea of discouraging some farmers from planting full feed grain acreages on the gamble that the new program would of itself hold prices sufficiently high to justify, from their personal standpoints, nonparticipation in the program.

Under this proposal, the government could dump grains on the market to make prices for the noncooperators unprofitable.

But the effects of the proposal would extend beyond the growers. Affected would be processors, millers, storage concerns, and other buyers and users of the grains. The resulting increased uncertainty as to future prices would tend to discourage if not virtually halt operations in the grain futures markets.

From Hand to Mouth

Few processors or others would buy for future needs. They would tend to limit purchases to day-to-day needs. Accumulation of reserves would be hazardous from the price standpoint. There would be a tendency for the bulk of the grain storage and holding operations to move into the hands of the government.

Of course, should the threat of government dumping lead all, or almost all growers to cooperate with the feed program, there would be no need for the government to use its punishment device.

54 MORGAN COUNTY COWS GET 'ANALYZED'

W. A. WEEKS, originator of AAA (Animal Analysis Associates) made his first visit to Morgan County Thursday and during the day "analyzed" 54 head of dairy cows and heifers in Morgan County, plus 22 in Cass County.

Weeks, a native of Vermont and a former classifier for the American Holstein association, developed his system seven years ago. The system has gone over so well that he now has 10 men associated with him, and they work in 44 states.

Weeks claims that over 300,000 matings in 5,000 herds prove the value of breeding according to his "analysis." Evidently herd owners agree with him. He and his associates come back to large herds every year to advise the owners on how to breed their cows—what bulls to select.

The fee is $1 a head.

His system includes many, many fine points of genetics and breeding—away too complicated for most dairymen—but it is expressed in easily understood symbols. For example, an SRS cow mated to an RSR bull should produce a superior calf.

This amounts to planned parenthood, to the nth degree.

The "S" stands for "sharp." The ideal dairy cow, the kind that wins in the show ring, has the appearance of a triangle, anyway you look at her. She is "sharp." She is a natural milker and will literally milk herself to death unless she receives the very best of care. She's a little on the frail side, not rugged enough to keep up with the competition found in a good commercial dairy herd.

The "R," again in the simplest of terms, stands for "Round." Good beef cattle have a round aspect. This makes for strength and ruggedness, with an affinity of turning food into meat, not milk.

An SRS cow has a sharp head, neck, front legs and chest. She has a good udder, but not the very best. Her rear end is sharp.

She's a mighty good cow, but she could do with a better udder, and additional strength would help her get along in a commercial dairy herd.

And her calf, if it's sired by a RSR bull, should be a better animal than she is.

Weeks has analyzed all the really good breeding bulls in the country, plus many in Canada. Through artificial breeding, the owner of the SRS cow can mate her to a cracking good RSR bull, regardless of where the bull is.

TO A LARGE degree, Jones uses the artificial insemination service furnished by Southern Illinois Breeding association of Breese, Ill. This cooperative owns 44 bulls. Weeks says that 12 of them "are among the top 100 bulls in the nation."

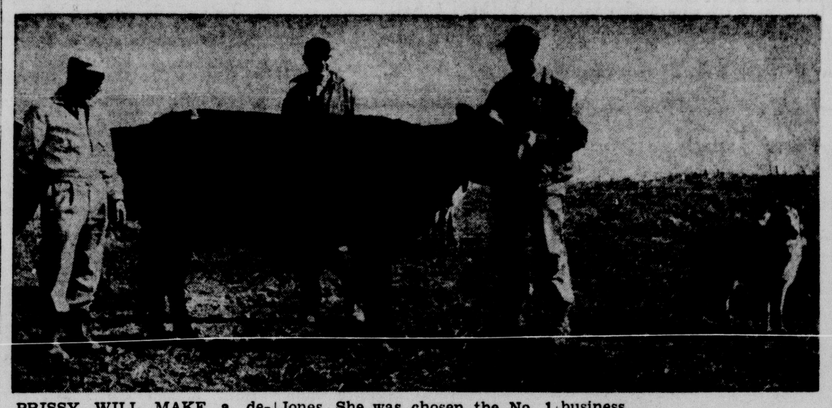
Weeks called the heifer shown at left, "pretty much a tomboy." He recommended that she be mated to Quartermaster, a very sharp SSS bull.

On the other hand, he called the young cow shown in the second picture, "very much a lady." He was pleased to learn that her name was "Prissy." Her analysis was SRS, and she's to be bred to RSR Ned Boy.

Of the 28 head, Weeks recommended breeding 5 of them to Quartermaster, 11 to Ned Boy, 6 to RRS Duke, 3 to RRR Crescent and 3 to SSR Triune.

All this will be accomplished, in due time, by Charles Craig, Jr., of Jacksonville, SIBA fieldman for Morgan, Scott and Cass counties.

At the next farm Weeks praised the five Guernsey cows owned by Arthur Yeck. He recommended that two of them be mated to Rival, two to Tutor and the other one to Solitaire.



PRISSY WILL MAKE a deluxe cow, says Weeks, who is shown at left with Craig and Jones. She was chosen the No. 1 Holstein when shown at the Morgan County Junior Fair last August by Billy Jones, 12. Lassie, the herd dog, stands proudly at right.

Weeks could be slightly overenthusiastic about Prissy, because he was what you might call the marriage broker for her parents. Back five years ago he analyzed the fine Holstein herd owned by St. Mary's College, Winona, Minn. He suggested that one cow be mated to a certain bull. This was done, and Prissy is the result. She and her mother were purchased by Jones when the herd was sold after the College's barn burned down and the school decided to get out of the dairy business.

Other herds analyzed Thursday were those of John Gordon of Franklin, Robert Fox & Sons, Virginia, Charles Ater and Wilbur Bottens of Arenzville.

35 Counties Not Represented In UI Ag Class

URBANA—A disappointing total of 35 counties is not represented by freshman men in the University of Illinois College of Agriculture this year.

Associate Dean Karl E. Gardner says that he's even more disappointed that county tuition scholarships were not awarded in 52 counties.

These scholarships pay tuition of $150 a year for four years. They are awarded on a competitive basis to students entering the College of Agriculture.

These facts trouble Gardner and other college officials who realize that farm youth comprise only 6.4 percent of all college students around the nation. Yet the rural farm population is nearly 11 percent of U.S. total population.

Gardner points out that many farm boys are not able to farm after high school graduation. A college education is their key to good jobs with status and above-average salaries, he says.

Some of the counties not sending freshmen this year are in southern Illinois. But several northern counties, including Will, Lee, Bureau and Henderson, are not represented either.

Many other northern and central counties have only one or two freshmen enrolled. Some of them include Boone, Carroll, Ogle, Kendall, LaSalle, Mercer, Grundy, Kankakee, Putnam, Peoria, Woodford, Fulton, Douglas and Sangamon.

Farm boys interested in information about agricultural careers should attend the College's Ag Student Guest Day. It's planned in conjunction with the Farm and Home Festival, Saturday, April 8.

Granular Weed Killer Application Tedious

URBANA—To use some granular pre-emergence herbicides, you may need a machine so sophisticated that it will sprinkle only five-eighths of an ounce over a row that's 100 feet long and 14 inches wide.

Unfortunately, says Ellery Knake, University of Illinois agronomist, last year many farmers ran into trouble in spreading granular pre-emergence herbicides because the applicators were relatively new. A considerable amount of adjustment has been made, and more is expected.

When uniformly applied, pre-emergence granulars perform about the same as spray weed killers, Knake said.

Since granular herbicides do not require water or mixing, some farmers consider them more convenient to use than liquids. They drift less with wind. Some herbicides are irritating to the skin. This problem may be reduced but not eliminated with granulars.

However, the average cost of granular chemicals last year was about 70 cents an acre more than liquids. Then, too, granular herbicides require more storage space and handling than sprays.

In fields where weeds cannot be adequately controlled by cultivation or post-emergence applications of 2,4-D, Knake suggests that farmers try pre-emergence chemicals.

A farmer with spraying equipment should carefully check prices of materials and applicators before changing to granular herbicides.

A farmer who does not have spray or granular equipment for pre-emergence application should also compare prices and equipment carefully. He may feel that the granular's extra cost is justified by possible added convenience and safety. But he should make sure that the applicator can be accurately calibrated and that it will apply the granules uniformly.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

DECISIONS ON THE FARM FRONT

(This letter is from J. C. Hackleman, director of public relations, Illinois Crop Improvement association.)

Now is the time Illinois farmers are making decisions as to their crop plans for 1961. Important decisions must be made soon. They must determine their acreage for corn, soybeans, oats any other spring sown crop. Delays in decisions coming out of Washington regarding the farm program make the farmers' plans just that much more difficult to resolve. Should the corn acreage go up or down is the first question. As of today the soybean acreage looks like it might move upward. The big question is how much can domestic and world markets absorb without placing soybeans in the unenviable position wheat and corn are now in?

Many farmers have been talking about a modest increase in the acreage of legume and grass mixtures. In most cases this would mean a corresponding acreage seeded in oats as a nurse crop. Then the question arises what variety or varieties of oats appears most promising? If one could predict the oat disease situation the answer to this would be easier.

Rusts, both crown and stem have reduced yields and quality of oats twice in the last five years. Fortunately plant breeders have developed at least five early to medium maturing oat varieties that are resistant to the more common races of rust. These are Clintland, Clintland 60, Goodfield, Minhafer, and Putnam 61.

Yellow dwarf or red leaf, another disease which attacks oats, was particularly severe in 1959. Unfortunately plant breeders have not had sufficient time since this disease became so widespread to develop resistant varieties but prograss is being made in this battle. Illinois recommended varieties which have some tolerance to yellow dwarf, are Newton, Bee-Dee and Putnam 61. However, Minhafer was not damaged as seriously as the Clintons and Clintland in 1959.

Farmers who are planning to seed oats should study the varieties available and choose a variety or varieties which carry as much resistance or tolerance to both diseases as is possible to obtain. The next most important point is to seed as early as possible. The earlier oats mature the more likely they are to escape the heavy losses from diseases.

You Can Make A Real Battery

By Joseph A. Smith

Here is a simple experiment for you to try some wet, rainy, winter day which will teach you how your pop's car battery works. (I seriously doubt that he would allow you to fool around with it!)

Hunt around the house, the basement, and attic for the following individual parts:

1. Wide mouthed fruit-jar (2" wide mouth will do.)
2. 3" long by ½" thick piece of wood (our wooden separator.)
3. Piece of Zinc (found possibly from an old ice box-lining in strip form, or better a zinc pencil purchased from an electrician for about 10c.)
4. Length of carbon rod (discarded from an arc-light etc.)
5. ¼ lb. of sal ammoniac (obtained from drug store or paint shop.)

CAUTION: Sal Ammoniac is POISON; HANDLE WITH CARE! Proceed with battery assembly in this manner:

First: Bind the lower ends of the carbon and zinc rods loosely together with several bends of strong rubber bands, and then separate them by giving a half-turn.

Second: Cut two rounded notches into the opposite sides in the exact center of your wooden separator.

Third: Fasten the upper wired ends to the separator in the notches using rubberbands to hold the rods to the separator.

Fourth: Make up a solution of battery acid by filling the jar 2/3s full with water, and mixing in the ¼ ib. of Sal Ammoniac.

Fifth: Firmly attach insulated wires (say a two foot length with ¼" or so of insulation removed from each end) to each of the rods. DON'T ACCIDENTLY SHORT THEM TOGETHER!

Last: Insert the rods (attached to the separator) into the jar and solution.

Our battery is now ready to use, and next week we'll suggest ways to use it.

Astronaut W. Schirra

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

Walter Marty Schirra Jr.

U.S. Navy Lieutenant Commander Walter Marty Schirra (pronounced Shi-Rah) Jr. is one of the seven Project Mercury Astronauts.

Schirra is five feet, 10 inches tall, weighs 185 pounds, and has wavy brown hair and brown eyes. He was born in Hackensack, New Jersey, on March 12, 1923.

Schirra's parents live in Honolulu, Hawaii, where his father works as a civil engineer with the Air Force. Walter M. Schirra Sr. was a World War I ace in the U. S. Army Air Corps. When that war was over he and his wife barnstormed through the Eastern United States in a light plane.

Most of the planes of World War I were small enough, and all were slow enough to take off from a small field. The post-war barnstormer did just this; they toured the country giving one plane air shows and taking people for rides in their planes.

Schirra has one sister, Mrs. John H. Burhans, of Patuxent River, Maryland.

Two Children

Lt. Com. Schirra and his wife Josephine have two children, Walter III, 8, and Suzanne Karen, 1. Mrs. Schirra is the daughter of Mrs. James L. Hollway, wife of Admiral Holloway. Admiral Holloway was commander-in-chief of the Northeastern Atlantic and Mediterranean area.

Schirra went to grade and junior high school in Oradell, New Jersey, and Dwight Morrow High School, Engelwood, New Jersey. After graduating from high school he went to Newark, New Jersey, College of Engineering for about a year then entered the U. S. Naval Academy.

After graduating from Annapolis in 1945, he spent his first tour of duty aboard the battle cruiser Alaska. After completing a tour of duty on the staff of the seventh fleet Schirra took flight training at Pensacola, Florida. When he completed his flight training he was assigned to the Navy fighter squadron 71 for a tour of duty.

On completion of this tour, Schirra was assigned as an exchange pilot with the 154th U. S. Air Force Fighter Bomber Squaddon. The United States entered the Korean War in the fall of 1950. In Korea he flew 90 combat missions in F-84E jet fighters. Will he be the first American in space?

True Story—

Long-Ago School Girl

By Mary Pence Claywell

Playing Two-Cornered Cat

During the nice Autumn days, ball games were always in progress in the old country schools, just as they are today. Only the children didn't travel all over the county to contest other schools.

There were field contests between a few neighborhood high schools; but these only took place in the spring and consisted of one big day when the best runners, jumpers, etc. gathered in some central district for the great event. However, grade schools, or the little one-room country schools stayed on "home" ground. But they had a lot of fun and some lively competition right among their own group.

A favorite game was "Two-cornered cat;" there were catcher-pitchers and two batters. The "catcher - pitcher" was so called because he threw the ball to the opposite batter, then he tried to catch the ball if the batter on his end missed it when the other "catcher-pitcher" threw it back.

The bases were exactly opposite each other, and when either batter hit the ball, they exchanged bases. Now here is where the fielders came in. There could be any number of fielders . . . even the whole school outside the main figures, for that matter.

If a fielder caught a fly or could get hold the ball and cross one of the batters out, he took the bat and the ousted one became a common fielder. When the catcher-pitcher caught three pass balls, the batter happened to let go by, he also became a batter; and again the ousted one went out to field.

I mustn't forget to tell you there was always a little "pig-tail." He was the little fellow who stood back behind the catcher to run down balls for the bigger guy who missed them. He wasn't very important except in his own eyes, and very often he was exploited by a "lazy" fellow who wouldn't run two steps to pick up a stray ball. But he was happy anyway, for wasn't he in the big game!

(I hope I haven't left out any moves, but anyway, it was a good game . . . and a lot of fun!)

Steepest Hills Are Just Ahead

By Mary Pence Claywell

The steepest hills we have to climb
Are always just ahead . . .
Imaginary hills . . . sometimes,
But they're the ones . . we dread:
We fret and stew about them,
Although today is smooth,
We won't accept its blessings,
Nor will we let it soothe!
But the hills that often hamper,
Are those we never climb . . .
The ones we're prone to build ourselves
And blue print in our minds:

O give us wisdom, Dear Lord, do,
And faith to live content
Each day in full, and worry not,
Until our strength is spent;
For Lord, we proved it many times,
The roughest, steepest hill
Is not the one we come across,
But the one . . . we think we will!

Want To Hear 'Whistlers'?

By Joseph A. Smith

If you would like to be an amateur scientest in a small way but are the possessor of the usual limited budget, then this is just for you. While less costly for gear than other previously mentioned experiments, it is none-the-less fascinating.

What is a "Whistler"? It is an eerie radio noise which was first discovered in 1886 by an Austrian. It is a descending tone or tones which are believed to be the result of electro-magnetic waves of energy radiating from lightning discharges.

In some cases these signals may be heard simply by attaching a very sensitive pair of headphones to a very long antenna wire—at least 150 feet long. More sensitive gear can pick these tones up which actually have traveled half the way around the world.

The lower frequency tones naturally travel slower and thus take longer to cover the over-all distance. Thus, the more advanced radio amateur can study radio propagation via these strange audible tones.

How can you, my reader, get in on the act? Well, while this is not intended for the beginner in the Radio Game, it is not really too complicated either. And it is well within the scope and knowledge of the GENERAL or more advanced class of radio amateur. So, let's get more specific from here on.

What must you use for an antenna which will intercept these signals? The simplest antenna would be 200 feet or so of No. 12 wire. (Heavy duty antenna wire or even copper-coated electric fencing wire might also be OK.)

Perhaps you're wondering just when you're going to put such a long wire in a relatively limited space, and how is it best mounted. A so-called LOOP antenna is ideal for such an antenna.

If you're lucky enough to have a 40 foot pole in the back-yard or a tall and straight tree, a three turn loop is made of three conductor cable (or T.V. tape control wire) in a "diamond" shape with the bottom portion parallel with the ground. All three of the conductor cable wires are connected in SERIES so as to effectively make one continuous long wire.

For the receiving end you would, of course, need a pair of earphones, and a high gain audio amplifier. This amplifier must be capable of 120 db. of over-all gain. Such can be realized by two dual-triode 12AX7 tubes in cascade.

The Suet Tree

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

Mrs. Downy flew across snowbanks to breakfast at a suet feeder near her home in a gnarled tree at the edge of a forest. Her feathers were never clear black or white, but how could they be, for her old tree dropped shattered bits of crumbling wood into her nest and hallway, keeping her feathers dingy as she went in and out.

However, her nest was safe and warm. Her relatives wore sleek coats and some had red cap trimmings, so she came early to let the fine birds breakfast later, quite certain that she too would wear new feathers by late summer.

One morning she saw an acquaintance curled into a mound of fur at the edge of a snowdrift.

"Are you lost?" she called.

The raccoon opened its eyes, "I am not lost or very hungry," it told her, "But I am thirsty. When will they fill the pan with good water?"

"Watch for a little boy to come out of the house," Mrs. Downy advised," but wait until his hound disappears," then she flew home.

In moments Harry Woodpecker alighted in the gayest of red caps accompanied by his wife in a clear black to white frock making Mrs. Downy feel quite shabby. Next came a larger bird with a brilliant red hood.

He seemed friendly so Raccoon called across the snow, "When do they serve water?"

"Oh, are you thirsty?" Red Head inquired, "Come on over here."

Bird Solves Problem

"I do not choose to eat ice," Racoon answered and buried his head deep in warm fur.

The bird dropped down to the water pan, "I can fix that," he chirped, hammer, hammer, hammer! Ice chips flew and a drilled hole lead like a well to good water.

"Here it is," he called, taking half a dozen sips, then flew on while the roccoon came cautiously to the pan. No dog appeared so he had a long drink of water then ambled back into the woods.

Let's Go Birding—

Lucky Little Screech Owl

By Emma Mae Leonhard

Almost everyone has heard the quavering plaintive wail of our smallest owl, the Screech Owl. This little owl is misnamed, for its call has hardly the slightest suggestion of a screech. Rather its notes bubble up and down the scale in a mournful cadence.

However, there are many people who haven't seen this Screech Owl even if it is a permanent resident. There really aren't very many of these Screech Owls.

Then, too, they like to stay in the same place. When a pair take over a large tree, they nest in it and sometimes sleep also in their nesting hole during the winter days. Of course they do not fly around during the day; for, like many other species of owls, they are nocturnal. Furthermore, they are well camouflaged.

That is a perfect background for the specific character of our simple story. This little Screech Owl, a reddish-brown one, had occupied the same cavity in the large maple tree for several years.

When he became tired of the cool dark hole, he would move out to the edge of the opening and sit there all day long, filling the hole like a cork in a big brown jug. It's fluff ofnufous feathers blend in with the reddish brown splinters and bark of the tree cavity.

So he sat there on that February morning when we visited him. But we could not blame him for coming out that morning.

During the night hoar frost had moved in. Every branch of every glittering fluff of crystals. The tops of the trees glittered in a mass of millions of tiny rainbows.

There the little Screech Owl sat surrounded by decorations which he did not have to make or hang. Calm as the morning and silent as the cavity in which he sat, his broad face tipped with two little tufts, he seemed to look down upon us as we gazed up at him and say to us, "Why get so excited about all the glitter? It's just a part of my home that comes and goes. The sun will remove it soon without my effort, and I'll be here when nature again brings me another fairy-like home."

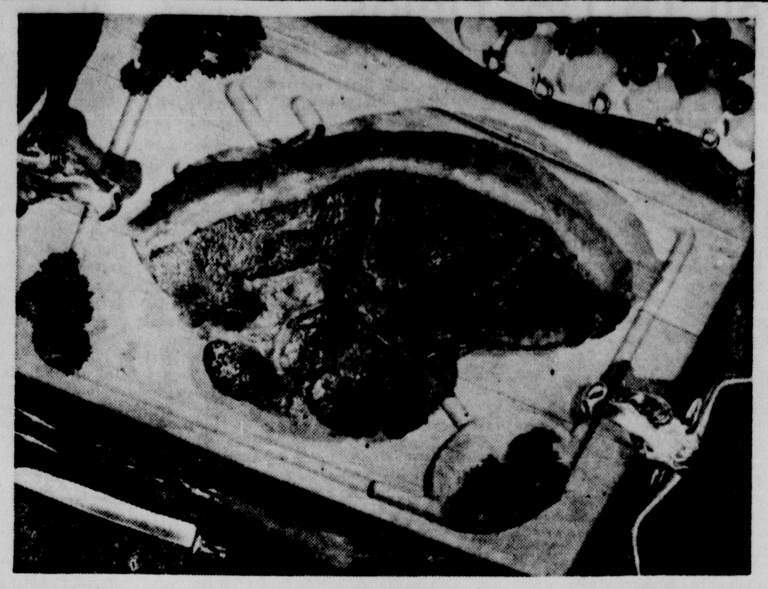
Steak Specialty



When it comes to meal preparation, what homemaker doesn't like to splurge occasionally And is there any better way than presenting your family with a piping hot steak?

Oh, there are many different cuts of steak from which to choose . . . rib, T-bone, porterhouse, sirloin, rib eye or club but for a family dinner there's nothing to surpass a delicious sirloin steak.

Your family won't need more than one call to the dinner table when they know that steak is the dinner entree.

A steak dinner can be a homemaker's delight too since it can be prepared without spending a busy afternoon in the kitchen.

Steak . . . as you like it. It can be broiled to rare, medium or well-done.

Steak is a meat cut which must be timed carefully so it reaches just the right degree of doneness your family wishes. Another thought which the homemaker and family should both keep in mind is that the steak should be served piping hot. Let the family wait a few minutes for steak but never let the steak wait for the family to gather around the table.

Always refer to dependable broiling times when preparing a steak. Perhaps these might be of some help to you.

In broiling a 1 or 2-inch thick steak, first set the regulator of your range on broiling. Place the steak on the broiler pan and rack so the top of a 1-inch steak is 2 to 3 inches from the heat and a 2-inch steak is 3 to 5 inches from the heat.

When one side is browned, season, turn and finish cooking on the second side. Season.

In judging the time, steaks cut 1 inch thick require 18 to 20 minutes for rare and 20 to 25 minutes for medium-done. Steaks cut 2 inches thick require 30 to 35 minutes for rare and 35 to 45 minutes for medium-done.

Depending on the appetites of your family, a 1-inch thick sirloin steak weighs approximately 3 pounds and will yield between 3 and 6 servings. A 2-inch steak will weigh between 5 and 6 pounds and will yield between 6 and 12 servings.

If this steak is planned for company service, perhaps you would like to serve a Mushroom Kabob Garnish.

Simply alternate small fresh mushrooms, stuffed olives and small cooked onions on six-inch metal skewers. Brush the vegetable kabobs with melted butter or margarine and broil until lightly browned, about 5 to 10 minutes.

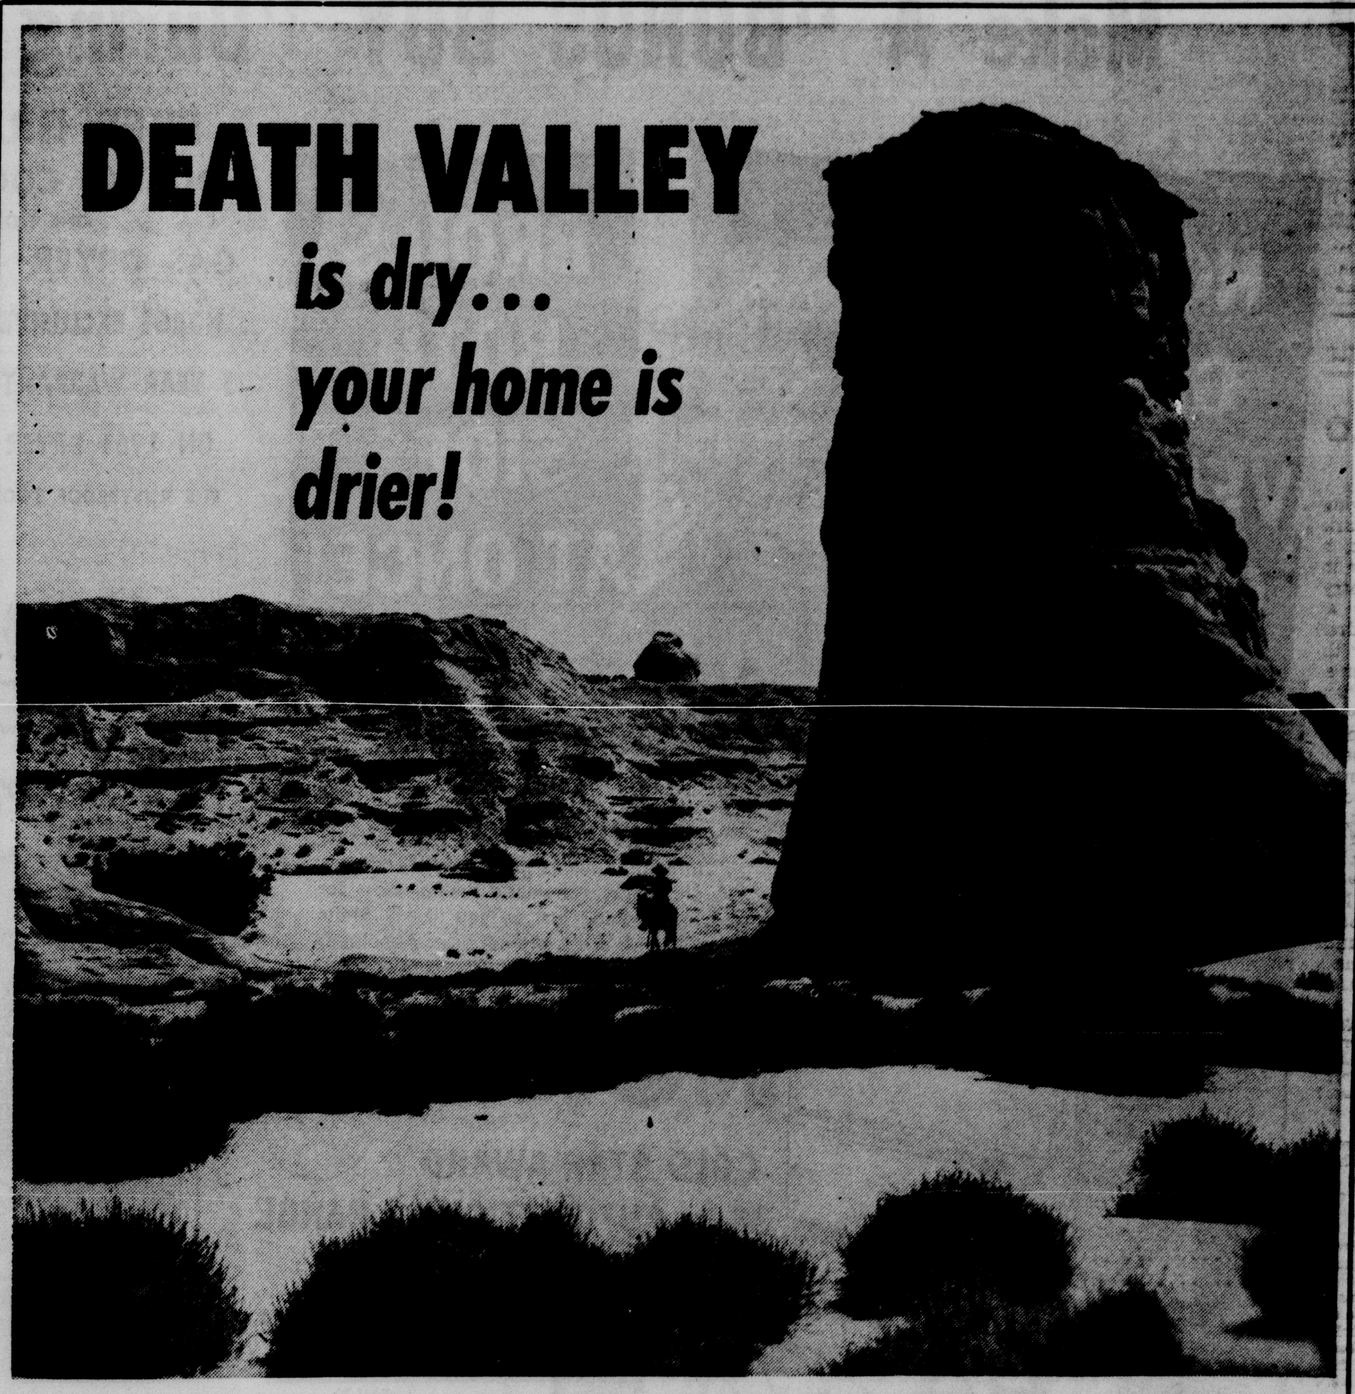
DEATH VALLEY is dry... your home is drier!



For health, comfort, fuel economy—get an ELECTRIC HUMIDIFIER

During the winter heating season it's the dryness that does the damage. In Death Valley the relative humidity is 23 per cent—but it drops to as low as 13 per cent in the average American home!

Not good. You "catch cold" too easily... feel chilly even when heat is turned way up. Furniture joints dry out.

Ordinary furnace humidifiers supply only a fraction of the moisture necessary. But a modern, automatic electric humidifier gives the heated air in your home plenty of healthful humidity—gallons a day if needed—without fuss or bother, and for sure.

Thicker Corn Stands Fail To Up Yields

Corn planted in rows 20 inches wide with a high plant food application yielded about the same as conventional 40-inch rows in 1960 tests at the University of Illinois agronomy research farm.

Agronomist L. B. Miller reports that the corn in 20-inch rows grew taller and was more spindly. Since the weather late in the season was quite favorable, the narrow-row corn stood quite well. But if storms or heavy winds had hit this corn, Miller suspects that they would have broken over more quickly than the corn in the 40-inch rows.

Corn in the 40-inch rows seemed to survive better. With two stalks per hill, the seedlings broke through the soil crust better, Miller observed. The ideal width for corn rows probably lies somewhere between 20 and 40 inches, he points out. Future research will explore this question.

16,000 Recommended

In this experiment the agronomists also planted at rates of 16,000, 24,000, and 32,000 plants per acre. The 16,000 and 24,000 rates produced the highest yields. Miller believes that, with standard hybrids now available, the ideal plant population for most farmers will run about 16,000 surviving plants per acre.

All plots had received limestone. One plot received no additional treatment. Other plots received (1) a plow-down application of 500 pounds nitrogen, 250 pounds phosphate and 250 pounds potash per acre, and (2) the No. 1 treatment plus 40 tons of manure per acre. Yields were about the same for the fertilized plots and the fertilized plots plus manure.

Nothing Unusual

This result is not surprising, Miller points out. When fertility is adequate according to soil tests, adding more plant food doesn't hurt yields, but it doesn't help much either.

Agronomists plan to continue this study for several more years to watch the effects of heavy fertilization, plant populations and row widths. The heavy application of organic matter supplied by the manure might provide a clue to the effects of continuous corn on soils given this type of treatment.

MISSILE PLANS

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States plans to have 870 intercontinental range military missiles combat-ready by 1965. This includes 130 Atlases, 140 Titans and 600 Minutemen, 150 of the latter on railroad trains.

Schedule First Of Three Clinics At Carrollton

All children starting to school are required to have physical and dental examinations and immunizations for diptheria, whooping cough, tetanus and small pox.

The dates of the follow up clinics are April 13 and May 11. Registeration of children who will enter kindergarten or the first grade should be made by the parents at the March 16 clinic.

Parents must bring birth certificates for all children who are being registered for kindergarten for the school year beginning August 1961. The birth certificate must be shown for any child who is being enrolled in the first grade next year but did not attend kindergarten this year. It is very important this registration be completed at this time and registration will also be held in the gymnasium.

Questers Club Learns Of Fashions Through Ages

The February meeting of the Land o' Lincoln Questers was held Sunday, Feb. 19, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Rueb, of Winchester. Mrs. Orin V. Duncan, Winchester presided at a short business meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Rueb gave the program, showing a series of colored slides depicting the styles of women's dress from the time of the Egyptians down through the ages to the middle of the nineteenth century. Mrs. Rueb narrated the series.

These slides were prepared by Norman Abrams, of the Wohl Shoe Company, St. Louis, Mo. In assembling this collection he did exhaustive research in collaboration with the St. Louis Public Library staff, among their collections. Mr. Abrams also loaned the Questers the series Shoes of Antiquity which was shown at a meeting last year. The Questers are deeply appreciative of Mr. Abram's kindness in sharing his interest of antiquties with the club.

Egyptian women wore long bright gowns, with geometrical designs, tall head-dress, and had numerous accessories such as pins, necklaces, bracelets, of metal and stone.

Grecian and Roman gowns were the one piece draped toga, with sandals. Oriental dress consisted either of a shirt or trousers, with a tunic, in China and Japan. It is interesting that this costume was worn by both sexes.

In European dress, all types of designs, colors and fabrics were exemplified. The dress in various styles and drapes generally had an over jacket or tunic. Styles varied with nationalities. For example, the people of Slavic Central Europe dressed in bright solid colors, with embroidery and ruffles as commondecorations. Each nation has its traditional national dress and colors. There were models of all of the prominent countries. Even the Eskimos were represented by fine colorful fur costumes.

Fundamentals Same

As the program progressed it became apparent that there are certain basis fundamental in women's dress that are timeless and remain today. There were comical, picture and sailor hats, leotards, capes, shawls, and leggings. However memory does not recall one sack dress. Footwear ranged from the Greek and Roman sandals, thru Oriental clogs, turned up mid-Eastern toes, narrow slippers, and high boots, on down to the fussy high shoes of mid nineteenth century.

The profusion of illustration defies sustained description. In general except for the simple garment of the Greeks and Romans, dress was complicated, ornate, and of two or even more pieces, especially in the Elizabethan England, and France of the Louis XIV and following era. Most nations had elaborate headgear. Accessories were numerous and varied: jewelry such as rings, pins, necklaces, combs, cosmetic boxes, and shiny gold and silver mirrors.

There were various purses and bags. The English ladies purse was called an almoner, for carrying change to give to the poor. Even the parasol seemed to be considered an article of dress, rather than for protection.

The lasting impression was that women the world over have loved complex ensembles, bright colors, intricate designs, and fancy hats, for some five thousand years.

Household Science Club 76 Years Old

The Household Science Club of Jacksonville observed its 76th anniversary and guest day on Tuesday, Feb. 21, at the home of Mrs. Robert Hartman. Assistant hostesses were Mrs. M. C. Reynolds and Mrs. John Spencer.

Preceding the program the guests were invited to the spacious dining room where Washington pie with either tea or coffee was served. Colors of lavender and purple, symbolic of the amethyst, which is the precious stone for the month of February were used in the table decorations.

Mrs. L. Vernon Caine gave the program of the afternoon. Her subject was "Hostesses of the White House." She gave a brief sketch of each first lady and spoke of the protocol and etiquette of the various periods. Slides were shown to illustrate the description of each hostess. The pictures were taken at the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D. C. where original gowns of all first ladies are displayed on figures in appropriate scenes.

Six members of the club modeled dresses from various periods of American life. Those who acted as models were: Mrs. Hugh Green, Mrs. A. W. Applebee, Mrs. John Spencer, Mrs. Ivan Garrison, Mrs. Francis Angel and Mrs. Edward Hopper.

The speaker closed her talk by reading a quotation that John Adams had engraved on the mantle over the fireplace in the state dining room in 1802. It reads, "I pray Heaven to bestow the best of blessings on this House and all that shall hereafter inhabit it. May none but honest and wise men ever rule under this roof."

New Project Makes Higher Education Pleasant, Profitable, Almost Painless

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

LAS CRUCES, N. M. (AP)—Go to college, see the world, and show a profit—all at one and the same time.

That's the deal open to engineering students at New Mexico State University here. It's a cooperative project worked out with the U. S. Navy's Pacific missile range, and it makes higher education pleasant, profitable and almost painless.

The program covers a five-year period which combines on-campus study with off-campus employment at satellite tracking stations all over the world.

The pay scale at the tracking station is high enough so the average student, with reasonable care, should be able to pay all his university expenses and have something left over.

And after graduation with a bachelor's degree, the student should have little or no trouble finding a job, at a salary well above the average beginner.

Perhaps more important than all this, the program is a prime example of how this country's surge into the space age can change the face of a college, and a college community.

New Mexico State has been a university only since 1958. Before that it was New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts. Some A&M schools are known as "cow colleges;" New Mexico A & M, because it is in a cotton belt north of El Paso, was known to its detractors as "that cotton-picking school in a cotton-picking country."

Perhaps the best thing that ever happened to New Mexico A & M—and Las Cruces—was the establishment of the White Sands missile range 30 miles away. The impact on city and college alike has been tremendous.

Primarily because of White Sands, the enrollment at New Mexico A&M grew from 600-700 before World War II to 1,400 in 1950 and about 3,300 now.

There was no real graduate school at the college until White Sands asked for one in 1956 and promised financial help. Now there are programs leading to the doctor's degree in physics, mathematics, and electrical, chemical and civil engineering.

It used to be difficult to the point of impossibility to recruit faculty members from big out-of-state universities. This year the university lured a full professor away from a Big Ten school, and it is getting one, maybe two, from the famed Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The physical science laboratory started on a shoestring in 1946. Now it has nearly $6 million in applied research projects under way.

The White Sands missile range is within the Las Cruces school district, and its impact has also been felt in the city's elementary and secondary schools.

The high school has only 1,500 students, but it has 18 biology classes, nine chemistry classes, and others in physics and practical science, far more than the national average.

In an experimental program, one school is teaching biology in the fourth grade, chemistry in the fifth and physics in the sixth. Algebra, usually offered in the ninth or 10th grades, is being dropped down to the eighth grade so that some students will be able to take college calculus in their senior year.

Smith's three no-trump bid was both optimistic and unsound. He had nothing that looked like a stopper in spades and if he wanted to try for game he should have bid either three hearts or four clubs. There is a good play for five clubs but it won't make because the queen of hearts is wrong and the diamonds don't break. As for four hearts it is just about impossible to bid although there is no defense against it.

Anyway, South bid three no-trump and, of course, North passed. He certainly had the right hand to support South.

West opened the five of spades and South's first thought was to settle for down one. Then he realized that there was slight chance for a swindle, if the adverse cards were placed exactly right.

He won the first trick with dummy's ace of spades and led the jack of hearts.

East decided that South surely held the king of spades as part of his three no-trump bid and that the right play was to duck.

Now South rose with the king of hearts. Once it held, he took his nine tricks.

What do you do?

A—Bid four spades. There is some very slight possibility that your partner may have the right cards for a slam, but it is so slight that you should not explore those possibilities.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Your partner's rebid over one spade has been two clubs. What do you do in this case?

BLUFFS—The Bluffs Cub Scouts enjoyed their annual Blue and Gold Banquet Monday evening, Feb. 20, in the school hot lunch room with sixty-nine members and their guests present.

The flag presentation ceremony was given by Den 3 and the Pledge of Allegiance. Entertainment following the bountiful potluck supper was given by each Den. Achievement awards were presented to Kenneth Parker and Pete Chambers receiving their Wolf badges with their father and grandfather presenting their pins and the Bear badges were given to Alan Driskill and Danny Berry with their dads giving their pins.

A vote of thanks was given to Harry Little of the Durst Brothers Dairy for the milk furnished for the supper. The evening was closed with the ceremony given by Den 3 and the prayer by Kerry Freesen.

Those attending with the Den and Cub stated first were Den 1 with Cub Pete Chambers and his guests, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Chambers, Barbara and Charlotte Chambers; Cub Dan Littig with Mrs. Leland Littig and Jimmy and Miss Michele Waters; Cub Curtis Baulos with Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Baulos, Elen and Clay Baulos; Cub Glenn Welch with Mrs. Paul Welch and his grandfather, Roy Vortman; Cub Tom Kilver with Mrs. Harold Kilver and Phillip; Cub Ron Rose, Den Chief Larry Hall with Mr. and Mrs. Les Hall and Ginger Hall. Study Of Embezzlers—

Only Trusted Employes Do It—Those Quiet, Steady Workers

EDITOR'S NOTE — Safecrackers and all their furtive brother robbers heisted an estimated total of $440 million in cash and merchandise during a recent year. Operating with far less effort in the same time, embezzlers lifted $500 million. How can they get away with it? What finally trips them up? Here's a study of a tantalizing but risky trade.

By BERNARD GAVZER

He's the first one in the office and the last one to leave. He brings his lunch in a brown paper bag and eats at his desk.

He never gets sick enough to stay home, and he hates to go on vacation.

He's about 35, has a wife, two kids and is paying the mortgage on his home. It's in a nice neighborhood. He has a car. It's a medium-priced model.

He always has time for the Boy Scout troop, the church bazaar, the Community Fund drive.

He's a person you'd trust. He seems secure and confident, but he lives in fear. At any minute some accident, some freak development, could unmask him.

He's an embezzler.

This embezzler has no name. He's a composite based on a detailed study of 1,001 embezzlers who stole a total of $3,634,641.27. The study was made by the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., which had to pay off for the thievery of these white collar crooks.

Among the great legion are such pillars of society as William Richard Rose, who embezzled $1.4 million from his own bank at Ellenville, N. Y.; the late Harold Giles Hoffman, onetime New Jersey governor, who financed his political career with $300,000 of the state's money; Miss Minnie Mangum, executive of a Norfolk, Va., building and loan association, who got $2,919,000 in cash—more than double the cash stolen by armed robbers in the fabulous Boston Brink's holdup; and Burnice Iverson Geiger, who broke the bank at Sheldon, Iowa—her father's bank—by stealing $2,126,850.10.

These hardly seem like people to place alongside the professional crooks. But all the nation's robbers, burglars, pickpockets and auto thieves together stole a total of $440 million in a recent year. In the same period, embezzlers got a minimum of $500 million, and some experts insist the true figure is at least $1 billion.

Determining the loot pocketed by embezzlers is complex because of several factors: It's done by people who are considered honest; it's done in hundreds of different ways; it's frequently carried out over a long period of time; it's not always reported, even after it's discovered; there is some confusion in legal definition."

The embezzler-to-be, whether he's a laundry man or bank president or lawyer, rarely has anything in his background to suggest that one day he will start fattening his take-home pay. He generally has been a genuinely honest person who can claim with conviction that never in his life did he intend to steal a single penny. What then goes wrong?

"The embezzler feels that he has an unsharable problem, that no one can help him, and no one could possibly get inside him to find out what he's all about," says Dr. Irving Jacks, Temple University Medical School assistant professor and former clinical psychologist with the New York City Department of Correction.

"He feels that no one could break through the logical system he has devised for supplying himself with money power. The embezzler, most of all, never thinks of himself as a thief but as quite apart from other criminals, as above the mass of men."

The embezzler who usually wins public sympathy has a pathetic story—one that may be absolutely true: the $53-a-week bank clerk with an ill wife; the widow with four children, the insurance company executive helping a brother-in-law get started in business. However, close examination may show that the sick wife goes to the doctor in an air-conditioned limousine; the widow's children are in an exclusive private school, and the executive's wife controls 51 per cent of the brother-in-law's business.

Ironically, quite often discovery is the result of good luck rather than good detection. Regular audits won't uncover defalcations in ordinary circumstances because they're designed to determine whether the books balance. The books do, as a rule, because they're controlled by the person who's juggling them.

These discoveries frequently occur during the absence of the finagler, which is why embezzlers hate to go on vacation.

There's irony—and poetic justice, if you want—in the case of the ambitious embezzler who methodically stole $300,000 from a bank and used the money to buy its stock. He finally installed himself as president, but the bank failed because of his speculations.

A New York embezzler who felt he was underpaid at $2,500 a year decided he needed at least $4,500, so he stole the difference. As he got raises, he cut his thefts proportionately. When his salary topped $4,500, he started returning the difference. When he was caught, he had paid back all but $3,000 of $25,000 involved.

There are hundreds of methods used in these self-help programs. Some are almost primitive. Example: a Jersey City secretary who filched stamps. That sounds like penny-ante stuff, but in five years she got $4,850. On the other extreme there is accounting wizardry of the type which once bemused the Mergenthaler Linotype Co. It lost $800,000 in an embezzlement that involved a maze of fictitious names and phantom firms.

The disguised embezzlement can go on for years and can bring ruin to businesses, banks, individuals and even governments. They can be so complex that it takes the cooperation of the embezzler to unravel them. In a central Illinois town, the bank cashier who embezzled $20,000 was paid $40 a week by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. to straighten accounts. She had three secretaries helping her and bawled out one for taking an extended coffee break, telling her it was dishonest to be paid for 40 hours and not work it.

Embezzlers run to extremes, with one behaving like the caricature of a drab office clerk and the other living it up like a king. Anton Urbush, a teller at the First National Bank & Turst Co. of Racine, Wis., lived modestly, drove a 9-year-old car and permitted himself few treats, such as a once-a-week dinner at a main street lunch counter. On his 28th anniversary with the bank, it was discovered he had embezzled $56,000.

Lydia Burton, who helped herself to $186,757 belonging to a doctor's clinic in Decatur, Ga. resided in a sumptuous home, sent her daughter to a private school, and showed prize dogs. When she fled, the Burton caravan consisted of a pink air-conditioned car, a station wagon, a sedan, three loaded moving vans and 45 cocker spaniels.

Embezzlement can occur any place there is money or goods. But for it to be an embezzlement two special conditions must exist: The money must be in the possession or trust of the person who takes it, and that person must get his position of trust in good faith. If a person took something he should never have had in the first place, it would be larceny. And if he got a position of trust through some ruse or with the intention of theft, it would be swindling.

HUSBAND, CONVICT COMPARED

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frank Sinatra, who plays both a convict and a married man in "The Devil at 4 O'clock," says there isn't much difference between the two.

"The average married guy arises, gulps coffee, rushes to a building where he's confined eight hours, rushes home, gulps dinner, collapses on the divan, watches television, crawls into bed.

"There's one difference. The married man can open his door from the inside."

Select Senior Play Cast At White Hall High

WHITE HALL — Ten girls will make up the cast of the Senior Play which will be presented April 7th in the junior high school gym. The story is about nine college girls and it is told to a tenth girl. Mrs. Joan Price, director, announced the play cast members during the week and they include Linda Savage as Jane; Donna Crossman as Freeda; Bonnie Sparks, Alice; Eve, Janet Beckett; Sharon, Barbara Harp; Shirley, Kay Fansler, Betty (Tennessee), Judy Pilkington; Stella (Shotput), Alberta Thomas, Mary, Sally Castleberry and Phyllis, Shirley Thompson.

Entertain At School

Mr. and Mrs. Erman Gray entertained high school and junior high school students recently with an interesting program, the project being sponsored by the Student Council of the school.

Mr. Gray played "Granada" on the marimba, with Mrs. Gray at the piano and then demonstrated the pipe organ qualities of the marimba by playing "The Bells of St. Mary's." Mrs. Gray is noted for her oil paintings but entertained with chalk drawings.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray presented a marimba duet, dressed in native Mexican costumes, Mr. Gray being the only performer in the United States who plays the clarinet and saxophone simultaneously, professionally. They have appeared on nationwide television several times, the most outstanding shows being "Omnibus" and CBS' "Wide, Wide World."

They have entertained in 38 states, their largest audience in a school being 4,800 in Bakersfield, Calif., and their smallest, to five pupils in a small school in Montana.

MAYO'S FIENST

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A batch of the Mayo Hotel's finest towels had this woven into them: "The Mayo, Tusla."

With The Girl Scouts

Twenty leaders took part in the Heritage Hike on Wednesday, making a tour of historic points of interest in Jacksonville. Because of the inspiration afforded by this training session, the leaders asked that another hike be given in the near future.

The tour began at the D.A.R. Home with the present regent, Mrs. Charles Bowen, there to tell of the home and its history. From there the group went in cars to the Morgan County Fairgrounds, points on West College avenue and West State street, Illinois College, MacMurray College, the Public Library and back to Barnes House on the I.C. campus, where Mrs. L. Vernon Caine served the group a salad in keeping with Washington's birthday and coffee. Sack lunches completed the menu.

At 1 p.m. the group went to the Strawn Art Home, where Mr. Scott, director, gave an interesting talk and invited the leaders to bring their troops to the Home at any time to view exhibits and especially to attend the gallery talks on one Wednesday evening of each month at the home. Mr. Scott may be contacted through Illinois College. The showing of the film "Illinois State Parks and Memorials" completed the hike.

Any troops desiring to take this hike may obtain the written description of the tour at the Scout office. Contact Mrs. Charles Bowen for permission to visit the D.A.R. Home.

Guest Speaker

Mrs. Marguerite Hug of IBSS school was guest speaker Thursday morning at the meeting of the Jacksonville Neighborhood held at the Scout office. Mrs. Hug, a native of Switzerland, gave an interesting talk on "Our Chalet" which is located in that country. Attending were Mrs. Frank Clay, neighborhood chairman, Mrs. Kenneth Mangan, Mrs. R. E. Patterson, Mrs. Ed Hewitt, Mrs. Sama Phillips, Mrs. Irvin Todd, Mrs. George Trutter, Mrs. Floyd Sorrill, Mrs. Howard Choate, Mrs. Ralph Sullivan and Mrs. Charles Moore, all of Jacksonville, and Mrs. Chel Young of Meredosia.

The membership - nominating committee met Monday evening at the Scout office with two new members, Mrs. Lyle Davis and Mrs. John Pine, in attendance. They were given orientation to the job of the committee and its relation to the Council. Several vacancies among committee members and the chairman of the employed personnel committee were assigned to members to fill.

Four Senior troops are now registered in Illinois Prairie Council and the organization meeting of the Senior Planning board was held Tuesday evening at the Scout office. Jean Hemphill is chairman and Suzanne Hartman, secretary. Advisors are Mrs. William Gross, chairman of the program committee, and Miss Carol Van Tassel of MacMurray College. The group began plans for an International Tea for all foreign-born adults in the Council area to be given at the Strawn Art Home about the middle of March. Big plans were also made for a Senior Conference which the four troops will sponsor for 200 Senior Scouts to be held in Jacksonville in the fall of 1961.

Calendar Money

Calendar money must be turned in to the Scout office before Feb. 28 since the books must be closed for this sale. Six troops have not sent in money for their sale yet.

Twenty-four reservations have been sent in for the basketry workshop to be given on Wednesday, March 1, in the Scout office. Mrs. Ralph Sullivan will conduct the training session which will be for both beginners and adults. Making baskets is a favorite troop project.

Members of the camp committee are asked to note the change in meeting time from the usual schedule. Meetings will be held on Thursday instead of Wednesday. The meeting this week will be on Thursday, March 2, at 9:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Robert Brubaker, 1600 Mound avenue.

New Troops

Five new troops were registered this past week: Senior Troop 3, Mrs. Robert Gullion, leader; Intermediate Troop 7 (for Junior High girls), Mrs. Oscar Zink, leader; Intermediate Troop 8 of Chandlerville, Miss Barbara Hamilton, leader; Brownie Troop 19 of South Jacksonville school, Mrs. Jack Wise, leader; and Brownie Troop 78 of Ashland, Mrs. Linda Spradlin, leader.

Members of the training committee, Mrs. Leroy Martin, chairman, will meet Monday morning at 9:30 a.m. at the Scout office.

Troop News

Troop 29, 4th grade Brownies of Our Saviour's school, held a special Thinking Day ceremony at their troop meeting this week. Mrs. Delbert Hayes displayed a thinking day calendar and Mrs. Eleanor Burns showed and explained the symbols on the World Friendship flag. Greetingks were read from Girl Scouts and Girl Guides over the world.

Senior Troop 1, to observe Thinking Day, also had special plans. Each member of the troop wrote a poem or a paragraph on why she likes Scouting or what Scouting means to her. These will be judged and the best entries will be published in the April Schooner, the monthly bulletin.

A Valentine and troop party was held last week by the members of Intermediate Troop 81 of Our Saviour's school. The party was completely planned and handled by officers of the troop and their committees. Peggy Bossarte, Helen Robinson and Pam Trutter were in charge. Decorations were in Valentine colors of red and white. Valentine cup cakes and pink lemonade were served. Every girl present received a small valentine box of chocolates. The troop leaders, Mrs. Floyd Sorrill and Mrs. George Trutter, gave each of the girls their year pins, membership stars for completing another year in Girl Scouting.

Intermediate Troop 2 of I.S.D., Mrs. Kenneth Mangan, leader, held its investiture Monday evening for 22 girls. Mrs. Robert Hartman, executive director, was a guest as well as a number of other ladies who have worked with Girl Scouts at the school. Mrs. William Johnson, one of the early founders of Scouting at the school, presented each girl with a yellow corsage. Punch and cookies were served during the social hour. This troop is learning to square dance and the girls are doing very well at it.

Intermediate Troop 65 of Meredosia, Mrs. Chel Young, leader, entertained members of Intermediate Troop 39, Mrs. John Stanfield, leader, at a special meeting last week. The hostess girls presented a skit depicting famous people born in February. Twelve persons were represented. Refreshments of cup cakes, chocolate milk and nuts were served by Reba Clark and Marsha Allen.

In Hollywood

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marcel Marceau, the great French pantomime, recently made a pilgrimage to a modest one-bedroom apartment on the oceanfront at Santa Monica.

Marceau generally is rated the world's greatest in the art of mime, but he pooh poohs it.

"I am now in the home of ze master," said Marceau as he bowed toward one of the great all-time comics—Stan Laurel.

It was a cheering visit for the surviving member of the famed Laurel and Hardy comedy team.

"I learned my art from watching Laurel and Hardy movies," said Marceau. Then he did a perfect mime of the Laurel walk and the crying face. Laurel roared with laughter.

Stan, 70, was obviously thrilled by Marceau's visit.

"I don't see many people anymore," mused Laurel. "It's a long way out here to Santa Monica. And I can't go any place. I have diabetes and still haven't completely recovered from the stroke I had in 1955, so all I can do is stay in the apartment here and watch the ocean and television.

"About the only visitor I have except for my family is Jerry Lewis. He's been after me to work as a comedy consultant on his movies. Once he came out here and stayed seven hours. We had a lot of laughs.

"But, as for working again, I can't. I'm all washed up in this business."

Hollywood may have forgotten Stan but the world hasn't. His living room was cluttered with fan letters from all over the world, some even from Ghana and other remote places.

"Laurel and Hardy always were more important in Europe and Asia than they were in Hollywood," said Stan. "We once had a fan club in Europe that numbered two million members."

Laurel patiently answers all the fan mail and sends along a little photo of himself and Oliver Hardy, who died in 1957.

The 30-year partnership of Laurel and Hardy was unique in that they never had a cross word.

"We had different hobbies," said Stan. "He liked horses and golf. You know my hobby—and I married them all."

Laurel married four women a total of eight times and had a fifth sue to be declared his wife, Virginia Ruth Rogers, Stan's second, third and seventh bride, once observed in a classic of understatement: "Stan's a good boy, really, but he has a marrying complex."

His last wife, Ida Kitaeva, married him in 1946 and shares the beachfront apartment with him.

Laurel's sense of humor is still sharp. Although he was always sad-faced in his own comedy. In person he is a belly-laugher.

SOMEONE WILL WIN A "SECOND CAR"

This year another car is being given away at the 2nd annual Junior Woman's Club-JAM Fashion Revue on March 21st. No purchase is necessary to register for the car. Names can be signed in the lobby of the high school the evening of March 21st. Admission to the Revue in JHS auditorium is by ticket only.

Inspecting the 1949 Buick, donated by Cox Buick-Pontiac Agency for the Jacksonville Associated Merchants, co-sponsor of the Revue, are O. L. Westmorlan, chairman for JAM; Mrs. Roy Mason, co-chairman for the Junior club for publicity, and Mrs. Robert Black, Junior club general co-chairman.

The ideal 'second car' is in fine condition, clean, fully equipped and on good white sidewall rubber.

Living To Be 120-140 May Soon Be Common

CHICAGO (AP)—Life expectancy of 120 years may be common in America by the end of this century, and some persons may live to be 140.

Even longer life expectancies will not be improbable in the 21st century, if scientific advances continue.

This is what the Journal of the American Medical Association said today.

"Life expectancy in America in the last half of this century seems destined to approach that which the Hunza male has experienced for many generations," the journal said.

Hunza, a little known frontier land in northern Pakistan, has a population of around 25,000. Entrance visas and rugged terrain have made Hunza virtually inaccessible to Western world tourists.

The journal said evidence that the Hunza males lives to be 120 or even 140 years of age is not documented with reliable statistics but is believed within the limits of possibility.

The Hunza people eat little animal protein, few eggs and no prepared vitamin supplements. Their principal diet is whole grains, fresh fruit, fresh vegetables, goat's milk and cheese, rice and grape wine.

"If scientific advances continue to be productive, and there is little doubt but that this will be factual—with the eradication of infection, prevention of cancer, and inhibition of progression of degenerative diseases—life expectancy should approach that of the fabled Hunzas by the end of this century."

As I See It
by E. W. BROWN

There's no getting around it, it's a gadget-happy world we live in. Everywhere you turn, folks are coming up with weird and wonderous gimmicks, jim-cracks, and sometimes handy products of sheer imagination. For the lazier fishermen, for instance, there's a new triggered fishing rod holder that automatically snaps the rod and sets the hook when a fish bites. For the sugar-and-spice set with a passion for realism; there's a doll that actually has a battery-operated beating heart. Lawnscapers whose thumbs may not be as green as they could be can make up for it by spraying the grass with a new non-toxic latex paint. Golf-lovers who seem to have more enthusiasm than energy can get a new remote control golf cart that will come to them if they're too tired to go to it. Like the man said, strange things are happening . . . and like another man said, you ain't seen nothin' yet!

A music shop in California has this sign on its door: "Out to lunch. Usually Bach by one. Offenbach earlier." And for dessert they always have a dish of Schubert? If you're looking for the tops in auto service, you can always find it at E. W. Brown. Our mechanics are automotive specialists with years of training and know-how. Jacks Shade Winchester, 52-49; White Hall Blasts ISD

Wildcats Make Comeback In Fourth Quarter Against Jacks But Time Runs Out

By STAN SPOTTS

The largest turnout of the season watched Jacksonville High take command for three quarters and then hang on for a narrow 52-49 victory over Coach Jack Renfro's Wildcats Friday night in the home finale for the Crimsons. Winchester, who is favored to win the JHS Regional, played dead for three quarters and then staged a fourth quarter uprising off a full court press but its efforts were short-lived as time ran out.

It was an unusual game from start to finish. First Jacksonville would make penetrating drives, then slack off. Then Winchester would begin to jell and then fall off. The contest was a much rougher affair than the 29 fouls indicate. An oddity occurred in the second quarter when for the first time this season Winchester failed to score a field goal. Jacksonville picked up only eight field goals in the second half and of the eight, two came in the final chapter on six shots. All in all, it was an odd game and a difficult one to cover as neither team came anywhere near par.

Never See Lead

Winchester never saw the lead in the contest although Bill Brockhouse's free throw evened the count at 1-all with 6:42 remaining in the first quarter. Jacksonville went out in front to stay on a 25-footer by Bill Stanford with 5:51 showing. The Wildcats closed the gap to a single point, 5-4, on an Eddie Dolen free throw but that's as close as they came the rest of the way.

Rich Sweeney and Bill Sims accounted for seven points each in the first stanza to keep Jacksonville in the lead. The Crimsons caught Winchester defenders napping several times and pulled off some fast breaks which enabled the Jacks to take a 15-8 margin on two buckets by Sims and one by Sweeney. The Wildcats sliced the deficit to 16-14 in the closing 1:10 of play on three buckets by Brockhouse.

No Field Goals

The Wildcats seemed doomed as they went 5:07 without a point until Dewey Savage broke the scoring ice on two free throws with 2:53 left in the second quarter. But the Crimsons weren't setting the world on fire this stanza either as they led by only six points, 22-16, after Savage's two tosses. But with the Scott County crew going the entire second chapter without a field goal the Chapman quintet scored eight quick points in the final two minutes of play for a 30-19 halftime margin. Winchester failed to connect in 10 attempts this period and wound up with five of 21 shots for the first half, a lowly 24 per cent average.

Begin Comeback

The Crimsons looked like a cinch for their ninth victory against 12 losses in the third frame as they garnered two 13-point leads but three point plays by Brockhouse and Savage overcame some of the handicap. After Brockhouse picked up his fourth foul and was taken out, the Wildcats continued to haunt the Crimsons into an erratic passing game and Winchester was only off the lead by six points, 38-22, with 2:08 remaining in the third canto. However, Chip Baldwin hit two consecutive shots as the Crimsons caught Winchester napping again and Jacksonville had a 42-32 lead in a matter of second. The Crimsons led by nine after three periods, 44-35.

Jacks Hold On

Winchester came to life in the final stanza and began making things miserable for the Crimsons, who threw the ball away numerous times, with a full court press and this forced Jacksonville into committing other violations. Five successive points by center John Schofield and a bucket by Brockhouse cut JHS' lead to three, 47-44, with 3:18 showing. Fifteen seconds later Brockhouse missed his one-and-one bonus attempt and this may have been the turning point as Sweeney came off with the rebound and fired downcourt to Sims for an easy layup and a 49-44 spread.

Schofield trimmed the lead to three points again, 49-46, with 1:34 left to play but 11 seconds later Brockhouse drew his fifth personal and Ron Yates made the foul uphold for a free throw and a 50-46 lead. With a minute remaining, Wildcat guard Ron Slagle received two free throws and missed his first attempt but sank the second one for another three-point deficit, 50-47. Ron Yates iced it for the Crimsons with two charity tosses and the Wildcats had only 23 seconds to overcome the 52-47 deficit. Savage got his chance and scored but the three-point difference was still there, 52-49, as the final horn sounded.

Jacksonville had a balanced attack with Sweeney collecting 13. Sims 12 and Baldwin 11. Sweeney also was a big help to the Crimsons under the boards with his 6-6 frame.

Bill Brockhouse and Dewey Savage shared scoring laurels for the winners with 14 points followed by John Schofield's 11 markeers. The Wildcats ended their season with 21 wins against three setbacks.

The only period that Beardstown didn't outscore Central was the second, when Central outscored them by two, 19-17, but it was not enough to off set the first period deficit. Gary Moss led the Tiger attack with 21 points and Doug Sherrill added 19. Ben Meyers topped Camp Point with 21.

Virginia 48 Brown County 46

VIRGINIA—The Virginia Redbirds took a commanding 16-6 lead at the end of the first period and then held on to down the Brown County Bombers, 48-46 in the final game of the season for both clubs. The Bombers made a real bid of it and outscored the Redbirds, 19-9 in the fourth period to almost pull the game out of the fire, but with the score tied Gary Webster stole the ball and fired a pass to Wilbur Norris who scored the winning bucket with less than twenty seconds to go in the game. Virginia finished with a 9-13 record.

Tigers Close Season In 60-25 Defeat To White Hall Maroons

WHITE HALL — The Illinois School for the Deaf Tigers were as cold as the quickly changing weather as they closed out their regular season's schedule with a 60-25 loss to the White Hall Maroons. White Hall led from the beginning and took every advantage of the Tigers inability to score to register their seventh win in twenty-one outings.

The Tigers stayed fairly close to White Hall in the first quarter and trailed by only five at the first period break, 15-10. Then they went in to the deep freeze that saw Jim Bonds' crew score only six points in the second and fourth periods and a lowly three, in the third stanza. Sam Campbell teamed with Larry DeSha and Jim Brock to push the Maroons to their thirty-five point victory. The Maroons led by five at the first period, fifteen at the half, and 22 entering the final quarter. White Hall then had their best eight minute period to score 19 points and send ISD to their eighteenth loss against three wins.

Campbell topped the Maroon scoring with 16 points, while DeSha and Brock added 14 each. Earl Claussen had the distinction of leading the Tiger scorers with 8 points.

CHAMBERSBURG — The Bluffs Bluejays copped the Meredosia-Chambersburg District Tournament 70-58 over Meredosia to advance to the Rushville Regional Tournament and will face Brown County in the first game of the Tournament Tuesday night. The Bluejays were led by Burl Fargo and Lee Fredrick who scored 28 and 24 points and the 12-point victory. Bluffs pulled out in front 14-10 at the end of the first quarter, and scored 27 points in the second period for a 14 points halftime lead. Coach George Danhaus' Bluejays increased the lead to 20 points in the third period, but Meredosia made a big rush and pulled to within six points with a minute and a half to play in the period. Fargo and Fredricks then pulled the Bluejays out of the hole and led them to the District win.

Denucci Survives Jones Beating To Final Draw

BOSTON (AP) — Hopeful young Joe Denucci survived some brutal late-round punishment from old pro Ralph (Tiger) Jones Friday night and escaped with a loudly booted 10-round draw.

Denucci, a Massachusetts Senate page boy from Newton, weighed 165. Jones, from New York, was five pounds lighter.

There were no knockdowns.

Young Joe swarmed over the Tiger with a two-hand attack in the first three rounds.

Jones, a veteran campaigner, was almost casual about it all, concentrating on body punches.

By the middle of the fight his strategy paid off. The combination of the terrifically fast pace Denucci set plus Jones' body attack had the youngster slowing.

It was all Jones the rest of the way, the Tiger hitting Denucci almost at will while Joe missed badly.

Judge Joe Heirty had it 96-95 for Denucci, Referee Jim McCarron scored 97-95 for Jones and Judge Willard Buckless called it even, 95-95. The Associated Press scored for Jones, 96-92.

WYOMING IN ARIZONA

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — Coach Glenn (Bud) Daniel's Wyoming baseball team has scheduled 26 games this season. The campaign begins March 26 with a 10-game swing through Arizona. Teams to be met on the trip are Luke Air Force Base, Arizona State University, Phoenix College and Grand Canyon College.

Lopez Goes Out On A Limb In Taking Chisox 1st

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)— Manager Al Lopez teetered on the edge of the limb Friday, coming as close as possible — without actually saying so—to predicting that his Chicago White Sox would win the American League pennant.

"I said after the end of the 1960 season that if we come up with another starting pitcher that we definitely could take the pennant next season," Lopez said. "Well, we came up with two starting pitchers, Cal McLish and Juan Pizarro. I see no reason to change my mind."

The White Sox finished third last year, marking Lopez' first below-second finish in 10 years of managing in the majors.

"We led the league in hitting and fielding and we set the pace in stolen bases for the fourth straight year," he said, "but we failed to win. Obviously, it had to be the pitching. So we gave up some power (Gene Freese) in order to strengthen our staff. I think both fellows will help us."

Lopez said, "I know McLish is 35 but he won 19 games in the American League only two years ago. More important, he was 14-4 against the first division clubs. He beat the Yankees six times, and the White Sox and Tigers four times apiece.

As for Pizarro, they say he is a problem. I wouldn't know. All I know is he's got a great arm, he's young and he's a good all-around athlete. I'll take my chances with him."

The key man of the staff, according to Lopez, is Herb Score, who rejoined his former manager last spring when the Indians traded him to the White Sox. The fireballing left-hander was 3-10, but at times he displayed the form that earned him a 20-9 record in 1956.

"I have great faith in Herb," said Lopez. "He got off to a bad start with us last year. He was soft physically and once he regained his strength he did much better toward the end of the season. I definitely believe he can win 15 games this year."

Score hasn't been the same since he suffered a near fatal accident when struck below the eye by a Gil McDouglad line drive on May 7, 1957. Until then, he appeared headed for super stardom.

"I don't believe it's mental with Herb," said Lopez. "He just needs more work and a few adjustments in his delivery. He uses a big windup that makes it difficult to master control. I'm going to let him alone for a while, but if he continues to have trouble finding the plate, I'll try tightening up his delivery."

Lopez will pick his five starters from McLish, Pizarro, Score, Frank Baumann, Bob Shaw and the veterans Early Wynn and Billy Pierce. He thinks Wynn (41) and Pierce (34) are capable of winning 15 games each.

WHAT EVER HAPPENED TO BABY JANE?

By Henry Farrell

Copyright © 1960 by Henry Farrell Distributed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

XXX

In an instant Jane was there beside him, holding tightly to his arm. He looked down into her ashen face, felt a tremor pass through her body. Some very urgent and terrible communication seemed to pass between them. Turning away to the darkened hallway, he pulled free of her.

"I'm going up and have a look."

"No!" After a moment's hesitation, she followed quickly after him.

He moved on through the hallway, lumbering through the darkness to the living room and across to the bottom of the stairs, his footsteps made heavy with the drink. Jane hurled herself after him.

"Edwin—listen!"

Goaded on rather than deterred by her objections, he grasped the handrail and pulled himself forward. At the top of the stairs, he stopped and waited for her to come up beside him.

"Turn on the lights."

"Edwin, please, listen. . . ."

"Turn them on," Edwin said.

She moved away from him then, obediently, and there was the click of a switch. The flame-shaped bulbs in the wrought-iron brackets, twins to those in the rehearsal room, came alight with a dusty orange glow.

"Go back down," she pleaded. "Please . . . let me tell you first . . ."

Following the direction of her glance, he moved toward the entrance to the hallway.

"Edwin!"

There was such urgency in her cry that he stopped, and with a faint feeling of dismay, looked back at her. For a moment their eyes met and held, and then Jane shook her head in mute desperation. In that moment Edwin wished that he had not insisted on climbing the stairs. And then the words came spilling from her mouth, in a tide that would not be stopped.

"She was going to put me out—out of the house—out alone . . ." She had begun to sob, as if telling him of some terrible grief. "She hates me! She thinks I don't know, but I do. She always did hate me—even when we were little—when we were children. All these years—" She stopped suddenly, staring a thim, blinking back her tears.

Edwin nodded back toward the hallway. "Your sister?"

For a moment longer she continued to stare and then, defeated, she nodded. "Yes, Blanche—she's in there. . . . But it's all right—"

Edwin reached out to the door, tried it. "It's locked," he said. He turned to her, looked down into her frightened face. "You've locked her in, haven't you?"

"You promised you'd be my friend. . . ."

Abruptly, Edwin held out his hand. "Where's the key?"

Jane took a faltering step backward.

Edwin stared at her, thinking how much she looked like Del there in the dimness, with that expression of hurt bewilderment on her silly, old face. In a red burst of sick anger he suddenly grabbed her by the shoulders and began to shake her.

He let go of her and again held out his hand. "Give it to me!"

Jane nodded, still gasping for breath. "Yes," she whispered. "It's in my room. . . ."

At the first sound of the key touching the lock, Blanche strained upward in the darkness, struggling to face the door. She had won! Her heart beat wildly with the wonderful certainty that she had managed to bring help at last. A moment before, listening breathlessly to the voices outside her door, she had only been able to pray and hope.

The key turned in the lock and the door swung open. Still struggling, she was only obliquely aware of a dim fan of light upon the carpet, broken by a large stretching shadow. But then saw him there in the doorway in silhouette, stout, towering, enormous. She had to speak; she had to make him know what it meant to her that he had come.

In the darkness her voice was only a dry whisper, so weak she wasn't at all certain that he heard. "Thank God you've come. . . ."

Uncontrollably, tears began to stream down her face, tears of gratitude and relief. The figure in the doorway swayed slightly. But it made no move to come forward.

A moment passed, and then the man moved again, reaching out to the wall in search of the panel that contained the light switches. When he found it, there was a faint click, and a harsh flood of light came down upon the room from the ceiling, forcing Blanche to close her eyes. There was a beat of silence and then, from the man, a sharp grunt of dismay.

Opening her eyes against the glare, Blanche looked up at him.

"Take me — away — away from here" . . . she panted. "Please . . . please!"
